COUNT PULASKI IN JAIL.

Palmit Who Recently Left Pendleton Between Two Suns, in the Tolls of the Law.

That a silk hat and a Prince Albert coat will not keep a man out of jail, has again been proven beyond a doubt.

"Count" Pulaski, the palmit, who didn't reap much of a harvest in this city, some weeks ago, and who folded his tent and departed on the midnight train, without bidding his creditors good-bye, is locked behind the bars of the Portland jail, for common, coarse robbery.

While in a trance, in the process of giving a treatment to a victim in Portland, Sunday afternoon, the "count" extracted two $20 gold pieces from the patient's pocket, and was immediately arrested for the theft, and placed under bonds of $1,000, which he could not give, and in consequence of which his towering silk hat and his only Prince Albert now decorate the interior of the dirty jail.

It's all on account of the lines in his hands. They are crooked.

New Ranch Residence.

T. J. Cheney is building a new house on his ranch at the mouth of the McKay creek, on the Umatilla, about four miles from the city. The house is to be a modern structure, and will be fitted with hot and cold water, and all of the conveniences of the modern city dwelling. It will cost when completed in the neighborhood of $1,500. The Thompson Hardware Company is doing the plumbing for the place.

Visitors From New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Casper W. Hodgeson, of New York City, are in the city the guests of Mrs. Hodgeson's brother, Dr. E. A. Mann. Mr. Hodgeson is the representative of the Silver Burdette Publishing Company, of New York, and is now on his way to San Francisco in the interests of his house.

OPEN RESERVATION

ESSENTIAL TO PROPER GROWTH OF PENDLETON.

Salem Man Has Great Faith in This City—Is Skeptical About the Advantages of Educating the Indian—Believes Pendleton Will Be the Denver of the Inland Empire.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gray, of Salem, left this morning for their home after a short visit in this city. Mr. Gray is an architect and building contractor of the capital city, and is making a tour of the eastern part of the state. He is greatly interested in this city in particular, and thinks that Pendleton has a great future before her. He marvels at the volume of business done here.

It is the prediction of Mr. Gray that when the white men get control of the reservation and all of the country around here is opened to settlement and is under cultivation, that Pendleton will be the Denver of the Western coast, and outside of Portland, the principal city of the state.

Mr. Gray thinks that the effort of the government towards educating the Indian is more conducive to sentimental interests than to good results, for in the majority of cases, once an Indian is to be always an Indian in all that the statement implies. The results of the government schools bear this out in most instances, but it is generally the case that the civilized Indian has to be continually under restraint in order to keep him in the line of the teachings that have been instilled in him by the patient effort of the instructors. Therefore he looks forward to the time when all of this reservation tract is under control of the white man, as the time when the great development of this city will take place.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY CASE.

A Jack-Knife and Two Knock-Downs Were the Principal Features.

The case of the city of Pendleton vs. Ace Reburn was set for 10 o'clock this morning. It is a case of assault and battery, the trouble occurring late Saturday afternoon, in front of the saloon of Baker & Oger, on Main street.

It seems there has been trouble brewing between Reburn and Jesse Seller for some time, and Saturday it came to a head. The men met on the street and words were passed. In the mix-up that followed Reburn got his thumb in the way of a knife in the hands of Seller, and in return for the cut, knocked the complaining witness down a couple of times or more. Seller got up and was pursued by the defendant in the case who didn't give up the chase until Seller reached the police station, where he swore out a warrant against his assailant. The case was called at 10 o'clock, and the defendant found guilty as charged and fined $5 and costs by the court.

The city attorney has now sworn to a complaint charging Seller with assault and battery, and the case is set for Wednesday at 10 o'clock. Sellers came to the recorder's office this afternoon and pleaded guilty to the charge of assault and battery, and was fined $15 by the court, when amount he paid.

ed, and as a result Will Hesalan, H. O. Mousu and Albert Carney were requested to appear before the recorder this afternoon and pay for the privilege of transgressing the law.

The fine for riding on the walks ranges from $1 to $25, and will be imposed on all who are caught on the walks. It is not the desire of the city officials to fine the people arrested, but if they persist in flying in the face of the law they will have to take the consequences, for the police have been ordered by the council to see that the abuse is stopped, and it is now up to them to see that the order is obeyed.

Returned From Visit to Idaho.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Haynie will return to their home in this city in the morning after three months spent at the home of Mr. Haynie's parents, in Idaho. Mr. Haynie will resume his position at the operator's desk in the O. R. & N. office, while Mr. and Mrs. Haynie have been away, will return to his home in San Francisco.

Special Organizer Moore.

Miss Jessie M. Moore, of Los Angeles, is in the city the guest of the Hotel St. George. Miss Moore is a special organizer of the Women of Woodcraft, and is here in the interest of the order. She will remain in the city for a few days, and it is probable that she will work in the eastern part of the state for a time.

COAL PRODUCTION

TOTAL MINED IN 1902 OVER 300,000,000 TONS.

Strike Causes Falling Off in Output—Average Value for the Year $2.50 Per Ton, Against $2.05 in 1901.

A preliminary statement showing the coal production of the United States, prepared by Mr. Edward W. Parker, statistician, has just been issued by the United States geological survey. The statistics, though subject to slight revision and correction, because of a few incomplete returns, are sufficiently correct to enable comparisons to be made between the production of 1902 and that of former years.

For the first time in the history of the United States the production of coal has reached a total of over $300,000,000 short tons, showing an actual output of 300,330,659 tons of 2,000 pounds, valued at $373,133,843. Of this total, the output of anthracite coal amounted to 36,865,719 long tons (equivalent to 41,289,595 short tons), which, as compared with the production of 60,242,560 long tons in 1901, shows a decrease of 23,376,850 long tons, or almost 40 per cent. This decrease, as is well known, was due entirely to the suspension of operations by the strike in the anthracite region from May 10 to October 23, a little over five months.

Had it not been for the strike, which practically stopped production in the anthracite region for this length of time, the output for the year would have probably attained a total of over 65,000,000 long tons.

The value at the mines of the product in 1902 amounted to $81,016,937, as against $112,504,20 in 1901, a loss of about 27 per cent. The average value of the marketed coal sold during the year at the mines was $2.50 per long ton, the value in 1901 having been $2.05.

The comparatively small amount of anthracite which was mined during the strike, and which brought such exorbitant prices, did not have the effect on the total production that might have been expected.

The coroner of Seattle stopped a funeral Monday, to hold an examination over the corpse. It is supposed the dead child was poisoned by chemicals in the milk, furnished to the family.

D. C. BROWNELL INVESTIGATES UTAH METHODS.

Delegate From Umatilla to Irrigation Congress Studies Systems of the Idaho and Utah Farmers—Conditions Much More Favorable in Oregon.

D. C. Brownell, of Umatilla, who was a delegate from this county to the Ogden Irrigation Congress, has just returned home from that city.

After the congress was over, Mr. Brownell went out among the irrigated farms of Utah and Idaho, for the purpose of studying the methods employed there, with a view to introducing new features into the irrigation of his own land in this county.

Mr. Brownell spent several days on the farms in the vicinity of Salt Lake City and Ogden, studying the ditch, dam and reservoir systems, the crops, methods of applying water, and all the various details of the science of irrigation, after which he went to the Blackfoot district, in Idaho, which is one of the most progressive irrigation districts in the West, and yet which has been reclaimed and put under cultivation, within the past seven years.

Mr. Brownell is deeply impressed with the industry, energy and hospitality of the Mormon, and while the climate, soil and natural conditions surrounding the Utah and Idaho irrigationists, are far inferior to those of Oregon, yet the results of irrigation are almost beyond comparison, in some districts in those states.

The first great difference between irrigating in Utah and Idaho and in Oregon, is that in the two former states there must be an abundant water supply, during the entire season, and constant irrigation, during the period of growth of the crops. The soil is gravel, and the water runs through it like it was a sieve. It will not hold water and distribute it through subirrigation, as will the soil in Umatilla county.

In this county winter flooding will bring two and three good crops. The summer water supply does not worry the irrigationist. If he uses the flood water of spring, thoroughly soaks his crop at that time, it does not matter about the growing period. The excellent quality of the soil and the gradual sub-irrigation, through the entire season, will do the rest.

In Utah and Idaho the altitude is much greater than here, and the climate subject to more sudden changes. The irrigationist must store enough water to moisten his gravel soil two and three times for each crop, there.

Mr. Brownell feels greatly encouraged with the prospects for irrigation by the government in this county. He feels that the interest taken by Oregon in the last congress has encouraged the government engineers to push the work here as fast as possible. Mr. Brownell is an advocate of winter irrigation, and knows that the fresh waters of spring will produce two and three crops on the warm, rich soil of Umatilla county. He believes the government will reclaim the Echo district quicker and cheaper by digging the canal from the river, using the flood waters of spring and allowing the reservoir problem to stand, until later.
