TO HELP THE POOR

SALVATION ARMY COLONIZATION SCHEMES.

First Organized in 1898—Now a Successful Department of Relief Work—Located in Colorado, California and Ohio—Over 400 People Thus Saved From Poverty.

The basic idea of the colonization work of the Salvation Army in this country is to take a family of working people who can barely keep soul and body together in the city, and provide them with means of acquiring a farm and owning their own home in the country.

The farm colonies of the Salvation Army in the United States were first organized in the spring of 1898, more especially for the purpose of relieving the city congestion and of preventing families from being broken up, the theory of redemption being thus formulated: "Place the waste labor on the waste land, by means of the waste capital, and thereby convert the trinity of waste into a unity of production."

The colonies are located at Fort Amity, Colo., in the fertile valley of the Arkansas river; Fort Romie, Cal., near the bay of Monterey, and Fort Herrick, Ohio, about twenty miles from Cleveland.

The total number of poor persons settled in these colonies today is 403. There the city poor have gone, have stayed, have worked, and have paid. As a result of their successful toil they have become home owners, and the percentage of failures has been much smaller than was expected. Thousands more would have gone could the capital have been supplied. Commander Booth-Tucker says that the city poor are anxious to get into the country, and only require the capital to do so. He maintains that the farm colony scheme is the most plausible solution of the problem of the slums. He says that heretofore the mistake has been in attempting to colonize the unmarried poor; that the family will prove much cheaper in the long run.

The colonists receive a contract for the purchase of the land and cottage, and are supplied with livestock and implements, a regular account being furnished to the head of each family at stated intervals, showing its indebtedness. The sense of ownership is from the first cultivated, with excellent results. The experience of the Salvation Army is reverse to community of ownership in such settlements. Such ownership usually results in the lazy doing nothing and expecting everything, while the industrious do everything and get nothing—at least commensurate with their toil. Thus a premium is placed upon idleness. This commonly ends in the industrious becoming discouraged, pulling out and going where they can get the rewards of their industry, the others being then quickly scattered.

The sum of $500, it is stated, will successfully launch a family in the farm colony, aside from the payments for the land, irrigation works, water supply and other general utilities. For the purpose of raising the necessary funds, thirty-three year gold bonds for $150,000 have been issued in the Colorado and California colonies. Interest is payable semi-annually at 5 per cent. A sinking fund of 2 per cent has been established, and the bonds are guaranteed by the Salvation Army, incorporated.

Commander Tucker says that by irrigation the great deserts of the West are being turned into gardens, this should benefit the farm colonies for the poor, and that colonization of the land by the poor of the great cities is a good solution of the problem of the suitable distribution of the country's population.

MATLOCK AND KELLY.

Heroes of Heppner Flood Entertainment at lone.

Lesley Matlock and Bruce Kelly who rode in front of the Heppner flood, and warned the people of one, thereby saving many lives, were royally entertained last Monday by the appreciative people of our sister city, says the Heppner Gazette.

The banquet had been arranged for a previous date, but owing to the absence of Mr. Matlock and sickness of Mr. Kelly, the complete arrangements were not consummated until last Monday.

An elegant banquet was served at the lone hotel at 2 o'clock, where the finest wines and delicacies were spread.

Mayor Reid delivered the introductory speech and was followed by J. A. Woolery. Both Matlock and Kelly responded with short addresses.

Schlitz THE FAMILY BEER

Visitor: "Does your whole family drink beer?"

Host: "Just Schlitz beer—no other. Our physician says that Schlitz beer is good for them."

Visitor: "Why Schlitz beer and no other?"

Host: "Because Schlitz beer is pure. There are no germs in it. Schlitz beer is brewed in absolute cleanliness, and cooled in filtered air. The makers go down 1400 feet for the water they use in it. They filter the beer, then sterilize every bottle—by Pasteur's process—after it is sealed."

Visitor: "But beer makes me bilious."

Host: "Schlitz beer will not, that's another advantage. Biliousness is caused by 'green' beer—beer hurried into the market before it is sufficiently aged. Schlitz beer is aged for months in refrigerating rooms before it is bottled."

Visitor: "And what do you pay for it?"

Host: "Just what you pay for other beer. I secure the most careful brewing in the world for what you pay without it. I get a beer that costs twice as much as common beer in the brewing, by simply demanding Schlitz."

Visitor: "I'll do that next time."

Host: "Yes, and ever afterward. People are learning these facts, and Schlitz sales now exceed a million barrels annually. Ask for the brewery bottling."
