PENDLETON RETAIL MARKETS

Quotations on Staples Furnished by Local Merchants and Revised Daily.

The pigs and the sheep have been having a little dance during the last few days. Mutton is down a few cents and pork is up. Last week it was reported that sheep were worth $2.25 and $2.50 and now the buyers are getting them for $2 and $2.25. Pork on the other hand, has risen and is now bringing $6, where last week it was sold for $5.50. This is about the only change in the list as far as prices are concerned. Watermelons are a thing of the past and will have to be remembered by the pickles they have left and the hopes for a good crop in the coming year. All of the quotations in the grocery line are the same as they were, as are also the livestock and poultry quotations. The sauer kraut season is at hand and this luxury will enter the list of fall specialties next week. RETAIL GROCERY PRICES. TO AID STOCK BREEDERS. Iowa Legislature Asked For an Appropriation For That Purpose. A bill has been introduced into the Iowa legislature providing for an appropriation of $1,000 annually to the Improved Live Stock Breeders' association of that state. This bill should have the hearty and unanimous endorsement of the live stock and agricultural interests of the Hawkeye State and it will doubtless become a law. There was a time when the Iowa Live Stock Breeders' association was the strongest organization of the kind in the world, and its annual meetings were events of unusual interest throughout the middle west, and its reports were eagerly sought at home and abroad. During late years the burden of maintaining these meetings has fallen heavily upon a few of the more progressive stockmen of that state, and in the time of depression the interest waned. Other states have come to the support of their live stock organizations with annual appropriations, several of them appropriating as much as $1,000 a year to the poultry interests alone. The horticultural interests of the various states have been liberally provided for. The live stock breeders of Iowa have great interests at stake, representing a total valuation of over $254,000,000. The bill mentioned provides for the expenses of the annual meetings of the Live Stock Breeders' association, including all breeds, and for the encouragement of the production of better stock. Breeder's Gazette says, "The live stock breeders of Iowa should unite in appealing to their legislators to pass this bill without delay."

Range Shipments. The sheep on the great ranges of the west have come through the winter in good condition. The ranges have been blessed with an abundant snowfall, which means plenty of grass. What does this signify to the sheepowner of the farming country? That he will have great competition from range flocks during the late summer and fall months. Range sheep are going to come to market in large numbers and in good condition. The man on the farm who expects to market sheep should get them in ahead of the rush from the west or keep them to finish later in the season if he does not want to take a low price for them. Barring another drought, sheep may sell better than they did last summer, but good prices can hardly be expected in view of the range supplies. Pastures For Cows. The distance traveled by a cow in a pasture that does not provide a sufficiency is sometimes many miles a day. This extra work done by the cow is at the expense of the farmer, for the food consumed is partly utilized in the work. No pasture should be used until it is in good condition, and if deficient in grass then the cows must also be fed. One difficulty is that, as cows will seek green food, they will travel over the pasture even when fed, but not so much so as when given extra food. A poor pasture is consequently of no value, and it is better to keep the cows in the barnyard than to turn them out to work all day. The Way It Was.
