

Bright's Disease and Diabetes News.

Office Wine and Spirit Review, San Francisco, Oct. 12.—To the Editor of the East Oregonian.

Dear Sir:—The business men of this city who are now proclaiming to the world the discovery of the cure for Bright's disease and Diabetes have asked me as one of the beneficiaries to write to some of my brother editors. Hence this letter to you. I was at first as skeptical as anyone. I had reason to be. I had a clear case of chronic Bright's Disease; was ill for a year. It was not thought I would live thirty days. The president of the Pacific States Type Foundry told my wife that the newly-discovered diuretic would save my life, and against my private convictions I was put on it. In six months my recovery was complete.

A friend of mine, Dr. A. J. Howe, a prominent physician, was nearly dead with Bright's Disease. On my recovery I told him and he acted the same in his case and he is now well on the road to recovery. As a brother editor I personally assure you of the truth of the discovery. Thousands of lives are to be saved and I am writing in the hope that this letter will start some of them right.

Fraternally yours,
R. M. Wood, Editor.

GEN. W. T. SHERMAN

MONUMENT ERECTED TO HIS MEMORY IN WASHINGTON.

Cost $90,000 and is Seventeen Feet High—Ceremony of Unveiling Was an Impressive Affair—Money Was Raised by Ex-Members of the Army of the Potomac.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15.—Tribute was paid today to William Tecumseh Sherman, soldier and patriot, when the Carl Rohl Smith monument to the illustrious general was unveiled in the presence of the president, his cabinet and many prominent guests, the latter including distinguished members of the societies of the armies of the Potomac, the Tennessee, the Ohio and the Cumberland, in joint reunion here. The statue occupies a conspicuous position opposite the south front of the treasury building, where a vast crowd of people gathered this afternoon to witness the unveiling ceremony.

President Roosevelt spoke briefly and extolled General Sherman. Col. D. B. Henderson of Iowa sounded the clarion note of the day, delivering the chief oration. Other speakers included Gen. Daniel E. Sickles and Gen. Charles H. Grosvenor. All of the addresses were sincere eulogies of the character, devoted fealty to country and home and courageous qualities of the hero whose statue served to inspire the sentences.

Gen. Grenville M. Dodge, president of the society of the army of the Tennessee, which organization took the initiative in the erection of the statue, was master of ceremonies, and made a short speech in which he referred most eloquently to his dead chief and to the artistic beauty of the monument modeled to perpetuate the Sherman name. President Roosevelt was greeted with hearty applause as he stepped forward to deliver his address. He spoke in his usual earnest and emphatic way and his remarks were interrupted frequently by applause. Equally enthusiastic were the greetings accorded to Gen. John M. Schofield, Gen. John C. Black, Gen. H. V. Boynton, Gen. Sickles, Gen. Miles, Gen. John R.

Brooke and the other distinguished soldiers who occupied seats on the speakers' stand.

History of Statue.
The equestrian statue of General Sherman was completed by Sculptor Carl Rohl Smith just before the latter's death and it remained for several of his friends, eminent artists and sculptors to finish the work by designing and modeling the medallions and bronze groups which ornament the base of the monument. The statue itself is nearly seventeen feet high, and weighs 8,000 pounds. It shows General Sherman as he reviewed the troops in Washington at the close of the civil war. The warrior sits on his horse with military erectness, his head slightly turned toward the treasury, as if he were looking up at the rooms occupied by his brother, John Sherman, when secretary of the treasury. The left hand curbs his horse, which displays the spirited curves usual to mounted steeds.

The work of bronze stands on a pedestal of New Hampshire granite nearly 50 feet high. On the sides of the pedestal are four bas-reliefs and eight medallions. The former represent "An Incident in the Battle of Missionary Ridge," "The Battle of Atlanta," "Marching Through Georgia," and "Sherman in Camp at Night," suggesting his well known habit of prowling among his men half the night and rising in the morning "after having had less sleep than a bird," as fresh as any of his soldiers.

The eight medallions represent Generals Logan, Blair, Ransom, McParson, Dodge, Smedley, Grierson and O. O. Howard. Between the spaces filled by the portraits on the east and west sides of the pedestal will be placed two allegorical groups of "War and Peace."

The movement for the erection of the monument was begun eight years ago and carried to successful completion by the society of the Army of the Tennessee. The total cost of the work was about $90,000, of which one-third was appropriated by act of congress.

SENILE DEMENTIA.

Old Baker City Settler's Mind Has Given Way.

Baker City, Oct. 15.—Charles Wolson, aged 86, an old time resident of Baker City, well known and highly respected was taken to the asylum for the insane last night by Sheriff Harvey Brown. The old man was examined yesterday and was committed on the charge of senile dementia. The unfortunate man owns a valuable parcel of real estate on Seventh street between Washington and Center, which he recently deeded to E. Palmer, for a consideration of $1, with the provision that Palmer was to care for him during the remainder of his declining days. The county court has grave doubts as to the validity of the transfer, and has appointed A. B. Winree deputy district attorney, as guardian of the estate.

WILL FIGHT COMBINE.

Spokane Teamsters Have Organized a Protective Trust.

Spokane, Oct. 15.—The Teamsters' Union, of this city, has decided to fight the combine of grain and hay dealers — unless the combine will make reasonable prices to the members of the union.

Deals are now on with several big hay ranches in Eastern Washington and Northern Idaho. The union proposes to make all purchases in carload lots.

The members of the union own more than 200 teams. These owners are of the belief that they can out combine the hay and grain combine, if necessary, and have even planned for a big depot, from which each member can be supplied according to his needs.

Northeast Iowa Teachers.

Mason City, Ia., Oct. 15.—The members of the Northeast Iowa Teachers' association certainly have reason to feel proud of this, their tenth annual meeting, as the attendance is larger than ever before and the program one of unusual excellence. The gathering was formally opened today with President John E. Stout of Mt. Vernon, presiding. The main sessions are to be held tomorrow and Saturday. Charles Emory Smith of Philadelphia, President Storms of Iowa State College and President Seerley of the state university are among the prominent persons to be heard.

Boston Grain Rate Change.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 15.—The so-called minimum rate on grain maintained for some time by the ocean steamship lines, and which more than anything else has operated to reduce Boston's grain export to such a low ebb, was abolished today. Boston hopes by the change to recover some of the grain shipping business which of late has been diverted to Montreal and other ports.

New Home of Republican Club.

New York, Oct. 15.—The handsome new home of the Republican Club was formally opened today. The new clubhouse occupies a fine site in West Fortieth street. The building is eleven stories in height and of handsome exterior design. In honor of the opening a housewarming was held, attended by more than one thousand republicans of note, the list being headed by Mayor Low.

Alabama State Fair.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 15.—In addition to the usual attractive displays representing the varied industries of the state the exposition management has succeeded in gathering a large number of such class features of entertainment. The racing program in particular promises to eclipse all those of previous years. The railroads predict record-breaking crowds of visitors from all over the state.
