THE HIDE MARKET

PELTS AND HIDES ARE COMING INTO MARKET.

Not Much Doing Yet, But Another Week Will See an Active Market—Prices Generally Lower Than Last Fall—Quotations on Beef and Sheep.

All the summer the hide buyers have been resting and getting ready for the work of the winter, and now as the cold weather comes the market is beginning to pick up, and the buyers are out in the country reaping the harvest resultant from the idle season.

Jack Brown, one of the local dealers in hides and pelts, has been out on several trips through the county in the past week or so, and has each time brought back with him all the load his horses could pull. Last Tuesday he made the first shipment of the season to the Portland dealers and already his warehouse on Webb street is rapidly filling for the second car.

Sheep pelts are now worth from 40 to 45 cents in the Portland markets, and find a good sale at that price. Cow hides, of good quality and well dried, will bring from 13 to 13½ cents a pound in the same market, and are also wanted by the dealers of Portland.

As yet there is not a great deal doing in the hide market, but the activity is much greater than it was a week ago, and the dealing will soon be lively. The prices are lower than they were at the time of the last notation, the fall having been caused by the fall in the price of the cattle on foot. As long as the cattle market is low the price of the hide will be low, though the ratio is not as fixed as it might be. The only thing that would make a great difference in the price of the hides would be a large death rate among the cattle during the coming winter and spring. If the cattle die fast the prices will fall, but will not be affected to a great extent by the price of feed, or the per pound valuation of the beef itself.

LOCAL CATTLE MARKET.

Sixteen Cars Shipped Today and More Will Follow Soon.

J. C. Lonergan will make another shipment of cattle over the W. & C. R. this evening, when he will send another consignment of 16 cars to the Frye-Brahne Meat Company, of Seattle. The cattle were bought in the Bear valley country, and were driven here by J. D. Coombs, who will load them today for the evening train.

M. McDonald, of Walla Walla, has also a band of 200 head with the Lonergan outfit, having bought that number in the valley and got Mr. Coombs to bring them to this place with the rest of the drive. He started for the Walla Walla valley with his band this morning, and will winter-feed them above Walla Walla during the winter, hoping to sell them at a good profit in the spring.

More of Lonergan's big buy are on the road here, and will be shipped out Monday night, perhaps as many as the present shipment and more.

HAVERLY'S MINSTRELS HERE.

Company Gave a Street Parade Today and Will Give an Open Air Band Concert Tonight.

Haverly's minstrels, which have played in this city for five seasons, always to crowded houses, arrived today from Walla Walla and gave a street parade, through the principal streets, at noon.

A grand band concert will be given on the street tonight before the performance begins.

This year the Haverly people have added Billy Van, the best comedian on the Northwest circuit, which has strengthened the work of the company and adds a vim to the minstrel features, which has not been present before. Mr. Van is a comedian by nature and is never at a loss for an original hit from the stage.

VALUABLE NUGGET.

Product of a Nevada Mine, and Valued at $175.

John Lucas, of Relief, Nevada county, Nevada, returned to his home in this city this morning after a short visit in the city with his cousin, Mrs. A. E. Mann.

Mr. Lucas is a miner, and is interested in some rich holdings in his home place, which is a short distance above Nevada City. He carries with him a nugget taken from his mine, which is not only valuable, but a curio. It is worth over $175, and looks as though the gold had been melted and poured around a large piece of white quartz. Here and there the rock can be seen through a seam in the gold, but the most of the surface is one solid sheet of the yellow metal.

Mr. Lucas claims that while such nuggets as the one in his possession are not found every day, there are more just as good in his mine and it is his intention to get them out.

Dr. Biggers to Retire.

Dr. G. W. Biggers, of La Grande, one of the oldest and most prominent physicians in Eastern Oregon, who has practiced medicine in Union and Baker counties for the past 35 years, will leave for Arizona in the near future to spend the winter. Failing health and need of rest are the reasons assigned by the doctor for this absence from his extensive practice. His son, G. W. Biggers, Jr., now located at Flora, Walla Walla county, and who graduated with high honors from the Portland Medical College last spring, will take charge of the business and practice.

Scott Bozorth in Town.

Mr. Bozorth was formerly a resident of Pendleton and stopped here for a visit with J. V. Tallman between trains. Mr. Bozorth was on his way home from Spokane.

Beet Crop is Good.

The sugar beet crop in Grand Ronde valley is very good this year, even though the spring was backward and much of the seed failed to grow. Harvest is now about one-half over, and the general average over the valley is from 16 to 19 tons per acre, with an average sugar value of about 18 per cent, which is over the ordinary yield and sugar value.

ASIATIC LADY BUG

GREATEST KNOWN FOE OF THE SAN JOSE SCALE.

Its Systematic Propagation Will Be Undertaken in Umatilla County—Is Introduced Here by Judd Geer, of Cove—Its Utility and Habits Only Recently Known.

Mr. and Mrs. Judd Geer, of Cove, Or., were in the city yesterday, the guests of Professor and Mrs. E. B. Conklin. They left this morning for Milton, where Mr. Geer goes in the interest of the Oregon state board of horticulture, of which body he is a commissioner.

Mr. Geer is on his way to Milton from Portland, where he has been in attendance on the meeting of the state board which has been holding its semi-annual meeting. At that time Mr. Geer exhibited a collection of the Asiatic lady bug, which he has with him, and which he is exploiting as a means of ridding the orchards of the San Jose scale, the pest that has been scourging the orchards so long. In Portland the exhibit attracted much attention from those attending the meetings, and from the papers of the city. A history of the bug and the manner of its discovery was given, and the orchardists of the state urged to make use of it in ridding their orchards of the pest.

The bug is not quite so large as the little red bug of the valley with which the children used to play, and the newcomer is a glossy black, with a red spot on each wing. It is easily raised and will in time clear the orchards of the scale if the horticulturists of the country will take enough interest in the matter to care for the little visitor until it becomes acclimated and used to its surroundings here.

Some time ago a commission was sent to China, the original home of the San Jose scale, to investigate the conditions there. The members of the commission found that the scale had been in a district as long as there had been a tree, or as long as any one could remember, but, strange to say, the plague had done not as much damage in that long time as it had in this country in the short space it had been here. On further investigation it was found that the regulation of the pest was due to the lady bug, and a number of them were brought to the United States, where they have demonstrated their usefulness wherever placed. In one orchard in the vicinity of Ashland the scale had covered all of the trees until it was thought that the place was ruined. A large number of the bugs were placed there and at this time the orchard is in as good a condition as any in the section.

Mr. Geer will place the specimens he has with him in the possession of James Evans, of Milton, who will care for them and raise from them a colony which will be placed in the orchards of Milton. It is expected that from this source will be raised enough of the foe of the scale to in time clear the orchards of this part of the state of the Asiatic pest.

MACARONI

Macaroni.—The preparation of macaroni, spaghetti, vermicelli, etc., is much like that of cereals. Each is cooked in boiling salted water until tender, twenty to forty minutes, according to the size and shape. If drained and put in cold water for a short time it will keep its shape without sticking together. Then it may be cut in rings for soup, or in short sections to line timbale molds, or for croquettes, or to serve in a sauce. One-fourth of a pound package of macaroni will measure about one quart when cooked.

Macaroni with Cheese

Macaroni with Cheese.—Mix together, or put in layers in a dish, one pint of boiled macaroni, one cup of thin white sauce highly seasoned with salt and pepper, and from one-fourth to one-half cup of chopped or grated cheese. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs and bake until hot and brown.

Macaroni with Ham

Macaroni with Ham.—To the macaroni and sauce add one cup of fine minced ham seasoned with mustard, and beat one raw egg into the white sauce.

Macaroni with Oysters

Macaroni with Oysters.—Add one cup of oysters, highly seasoned with salt and pepper, to one pint of macaroni. Moisten with one cup of cream or sauce. Cover with crumbs and bake.

Macaroni with Tomato

Macaroni with Tomato.—Fry one teaspoon of chopped onion in one teaspoon of butter until slightly colored; add one tablespoon of flour, and when well mixed add gradually one and one-half cups of strained tomato and half a teaspoon of salt. This may be mixed with the macaroni alone or with the addition of the cheese or oysters. The macaroni may be baked or reheated in a double boiler with the tomato sauce.
