FAMINE IN SIGHT

WOOD WILL BE HIGHER
BEFORE SPRING.

Walla Walla Dealers Take a Gloomy View of the Situation—Price of Chopping and Freight Has Raised in the Past Year.

The following interview with the wood dealers of Walla Walla may be of interest to the wood buyers of this city. The fuel question promises to become interesting all over Eastern Oregon, before spring, and this review of the situation in the Walla Walla Union may throw some light on the subject. Says the Union: "Wood consumers in Walla Walla this winter need have no fear of a famine in that commodity," said C. N. Hatch, a local wood and coal merchant, yesterday. "Wood is now selling at from $6 to $6.50 per cord but I believe that before spring that it will be selling for $7, not that it will be scarce, but the cost of getting it to the consumer is increasing more and more each year. During the past year the cost of choppers has increased about 25 cents per cord, railroads have raised the price of freight 25 cents per cord and another reason is all the available timber has been curried by a few individuals who can afford to hold their wood until they get their price.

Famine in Pendleton.

"I see no need for the people of Walla Walla being uneasy about a possible wood or coal famine, but I do believe that the consumers in Pendleton are liable to face a shortage before spring, as there is less than a thousand cords in the hands of the dealers there at the present time, which is very inadequate for a city of that size, and it would be but a short time before their supply would run short should the weather turn very cold."

9,000 Cords in Walla Walla.

Mr. Crowell, bookkeeper for Sam Loney, stated that their company had at present over 6,000 cords of wood on hand which they were selling at from $6 to $6.50 per cord straight. "No matter," said Mr. Crowell, "whether a man buys one cord or a thousand, he will have to pay the full price. We look to see the price of wood go up before spring, but if it does go much higher the people will be forced to use coal for the reason that it is the cheaper fuel. We do not apprehend a scarcity of wood, and there is at present in the city about 9,000 cords, altogether, with more coming in. We are sawing about twelve cords per day which is a little more than we are delivering at present."

CHILDREN ARE PASSENGERS.

Steamer Fined $246 for not Returning 36 Children on Board.

Children, no matter of what age, count as passengers on steamers. The question as to whether they do or not was settled by instructions received by Deputy Collector Mitten, this morning, from Washington, in the case of the steamer Athlon of the Port Orchard route, says the Seattle Star. In the latter part of August the local customs inspectors reported that steamer for carrying 36 passengers more than her license allowed.

Collector Ide found the steamer $246 for carrying excess passengers. The company operating the steamer objector, holding that the 36 children aboard, who did not pay fare, could not be counted as passengers, as ruled in a former decision in regard to immigrants.

The instructions received this morning from Washington remits the fine placed against the steamer, but declares that children of all ages are counted as passengers.

Miss Effie Shannon in "Sherlock Holmes."

"SHERLOCK HOLMES."

Most Sensational Play of the Century to Be Here October 26.

The management of the Frazer theater takes great pleasure in announcing the engagement of Mr. Herbert Kelcey and Miss Effie Shannon in William Gillette's dramatization of Conan Doyle's famous creation of fiction, "Sherlock Holmes," the play that made such an enormous hit in London and New York that it ran a full season in each city.

Mr. Kelcey and Miss Shannon are not presenting a problem play. Nor does the play depend on sensational lines or gun plays in order to attract favorable attention. It is a story of a man, with nerves of steel, brave as a lion, honest in his motives, battling single-handed against an organized gang of cut-throats in order to defeat a blackmailing scheme and to protect an innocent girl.

The engagement is for October 26, and a guarantee is given that nothing in the way of scenery or properties will be eliminated but the performance here will be the same as when it was presented in New York.

Found May Elk Teeth.

C. W. Grosfield received a consignment of 92 Elk teeth from Southern Oregon Monday, among which are a number of beauties. Charley says he got the lot at a bargain and expects to turn a pretty penny when he disposes of them. He has sent them to Denver to be placed on the market. These bits of ivory are highly prized by members of the Order of Elks and when mounted command fancy prices.—Condon Times.
