ABANDONED QUARTZ MILL.

Plant Costing $15,000 Rusting From Idleness on Powder River.

On Powder river about five miles southeast of Telocaset, a station on the O. R. & N., in Union county, in a sheep canyon, accessible only by a narrow wagon road grade hollowed out of the hillside, stands a first class modern stamp mill, rusting from want of use, and a home for bats and owls.

The machinery was purchased new from the factory by a party of young men in Union in 1894. The building was erected, grades were built up the river for a wagon road, a tunnel was run into what appeared to be an immense ore body, and at one time 40 men were employed in and around the mill.

The plant cost complete about $15,000 and after the wheels turned for a few days in a test run, they stopped and have never moved since. The ore proved valueless, the company lost faith in the ledge and would pursue the uncertain venture no further, and so the mill stands idle today.

The man who discovered the ledges on the river and who is responsible for the erection of the stamp mill at Riverdale, as the camp was called, still has faith in the district, and keeps watch over the plant, prospects week in week out, and has sunk shafts aggregating 5,900 feet in depth on the mountains surrounding the mill. In the vain search for a mother lode he believes to exist there.

The county in that vicinity is of volcanic formation and all the croppings are from what miners call "blow outs," and while a great amount of low grade ore is found there, no trace of a ledge has ever been located.

The mill was one of the most complete small plants in Eastern Oregon, at the time it was built, and stands a silent monument to misplaced energy.

Money in Fact and Fiction.

In 1844, Alexander Dumas published a book called "The Count of Monte Cristo," the basis of which (as most of our readers well know) is the fabulous wealth of an individual. The Count finds a cave full of almost priceless jewels. He buys men's lives; he spends money everywhere; he comes to Paris with a note from his Italian bankers giving him unlimited credit on a Paris bank. There is no limit on what he can draw on M. Danglers. It is entirely unprecedented. Nothing like it was ever known before.

He draws 5,000,000 of francs and ruins the banker, and still no complaint from his Roman house. He rights wrongs; he saves more lives; he punishes the guilty by the use of unlimited wealth. And then by and by he leaves Maximilian on the island of Monte Cristo with his bride and sails away. As Maximilian sees his ship disappear on the horizon he finds Monte Cristo's will leaving him his whole fortune. This fortune, Dumas suggests in two or three places, was 100,000,000 francs—$20,000,000. It is the greatest private fortune the Frenchman could conceive of in 1844—it is considerably less than the income of John D. Rockefeller in 1903.—Harper's Weekly.

Dan Frazer, of Salem, who was held up Saturday night and relieved of 75 cents, was kicked viciously by the robbers because he had no greater sum on his person.

James Dissan, aged 17 years, was drowned on Lake Whatcom, Wash., Sunday, by the capsizing of a raft by the waves caused by a passing steamer.

WHERE IT PAYS TO TRADE

THEY GOT THE HABIT.

All City Drug Stores Will Close at 9 O'clock Each Evening During the Winter.

The drug stores of the city will close at 9 o'clock this evening and each evening hereafter. At the time the other stores began their early closing, an attempt was made by the drug stores to get shorter hours, but at that time it was unsuccessful. Now, however, an agreement has been reached by the proprietors of the houses in the city and the drug clerks are correspondingly happy.

Notice.

It having been called to the attention of the management of the Pendleton Woolen Mills that certain stores have sold blankets under the representation that they were made by the Pendleton mills, the public is hereby warned that Pendleton blankets are sold only at the stores of the Alexander Department Store, Peoples Warehouse, Fair Store and James Crawford.

Fall Trade Good

It is good and that's a fact says Mr. Finneran to our reporter. How do you account for it, when others are complaining about the fall trade I asked him. Why, I do not know any other good reason than that the people have found out that we are actually selling better shoes for the money or the same quality for less money than others do. It is really remarkable how many people there are who remark about the "wearing quality" of our shoes. Now that is what we pay for and you get when you buy Douglas or Gloria or Red Schoolhouse Shoes. These shoes are sold at a price and no one attempts to undersell them—they simply can't and live. We have found the least margin of resistance to trade and that accounts for our increase this fall. Now watch us sell shoes. We carry shoes on five widths in all foot form lasts—in all leathers, heights, styles, sizes, weights, etc.—"Say, don't that boy talk some?" I thought as I went on my way with a fine pair of the Douglas shoes on from the
