Jessie Shirley in "Nell Gwynne."
The Jessie Shirley company, which will present "Nell Gwynne" at the Frazer tonight, has played in Walla Walla every night this week to full houses. It is one of the best companies on the road and the deep historical interest of this thrilling play, makes its presentation always a treat. The company is strong and Miss Shirley is so well known that it seems idle to introduce her.

"Sherlock Holmes."
The Seattle Times gives the following introduction to the thrilling play, "Sherlock Holmes," which comes to the Frazer Monday, October 26: "Sherlock Holmes" opens at the Grand tonight for a run of four evenings, with the favorite stars, Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon in leading roles. The play is William Gillette's dramatization of Conan Doyle's famous character. The interest of the audience never lags. You are held spellbound from the moment a pair of desperate scoundrels attempt by force to obtain possession of a certain valuable paper from a poor, defenseless girl. And when, in the midst of a terrific scene, she finds a powerful ally in Sherlock Holmes, who thwarts the malevolent designs of these rascals, you involuntarily breathe a sigh of satisfaction."

The Great McEwen.
Professor McEwen, who has justly earned the title of "The Great McEwen," will open a short engagement at the Frazer opera house next week. The following is from the Toronto Globe: "McEwen is the talk of the city. He is beyond doubt the only hypnotist who has ever visited Montreal and honestly tried to educate the masses with regard to the true inwardness of this science. During the week his audiences have contained many of the leading physicians, lawyers and business men, who have expressed unbounded praise for the artistic manner in which Professor McEwen presents his work."

Coming Attractions.
Manager Nixon announces the following attractions to appear at the Frazer theater in the near future: Elmer Walter's latest scenic sensation, "A Millionaire Tramp," Nothing but bank notes, gold and laughter. The sensational melodrama, "A Woman's Power." The rural comedy-drama, "Uncle Josh Spruceby," and the famous hayseed band. The melodious comedy-opera, "King Do Do," with Richard Golden in the title role. The pathetic drama, "A Little Outcast." The kings of comic opera comedians, De Wolf Hopper and a company of 70, in Dickens' masterpiece, "Mr. Pickwick."

PATTI IS COMING.
Opening Concert in New York November 12.

New York, Oct. 24.—According to advices received by her manager, Mr. Robert Grau, Adelina Patti sails for New York today and is expected to arrive here the last of next week in readiness for the opening concert of her American tour, which is scheduled to take place in this city Monday evening, November 2.

After giving three concerts in New York the famous diva will start on what is advertised as positively her farewell tour of America. The itinerary extends as far as the Pacific Coast and the tour will not end until after the beginning of next year. Among the cities in which she will be heard are Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Montreal, Boston, Scranton, Washington, Baltimore, Buffalo, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Kansas City, Omaha, Denver and Salt Lake, reaching San Francisco the last of December. On the return trip to the Atlantic Coast the famous singer will be heard in Los Angeles, Houston, Dallas and possibly one or two other places.

Salem Art Exhibit.
An art exhibit, under the auspices of the Salem public schools, is now in progress at the capital city. About 200 reproductions of the masterpieces of art are in the collection and the attendance is running from 500 to 600 per day.
