MARITAL TROUBLES

RACY ALLEGATIONS IN A DIVORCE SUIT.

Alleged Grounds for the Separation, and the Counter Testimony Both Make Unusually Interesting Reading—Plaintiff and Defendant are Residents of Athens.

Some time ago there was a divorce suit filed in the clerk's office by Cordelia Hawes against William Hawes asking that the bonds of matrimony be severed on the ground that the defendant had deserted the plaintiff, and was, besides, a gross and habitual drunkard and a gambler. The parties to the suit are residents of Athens, and are well known. Now comes the defendant with an answer in the case in which he makes some queer and unique assertions. He admits, denies and alleges various things, among which are the following:

In article two of the answer he goes on to state that the plaintiff went with the defendant to Imperial, California, where they intended to reside, and where they bought a home and furnished it; but that after a short time the plaintiff asked to take a trip to the coast, and while there wrote the defendant a letter in which she stated that she was going to return to Oregon and procure a divorce. And here the defendant "averts the fact to be that plaintiff loves Tom Johnson of Athens, and openly declares that she will marry Tom Johnson as soon as she can procure a divorce from the defendant."

In the seventh article, the defendant denies that he is addicted to the excessive use of ardent spirits, but admits that he sometimes takes a "social glass," and he avers the fact to be that when he first met the plaintiff in a cheap hotel in San Francisco, they together drank several glasses of champagne every night, but that after coming to Athens they had to content themselves with whiskey, and that plaintiff well knew the defendant's habit of enjoying a social glass, and all of his habits before the marriage.

In the tenth article the defendant denies that he ever twisted the plaintiff's arm so that she could not sleep, and "averts the fact to be that plaintiff is a good sound sleeper, and lets nothing whatever take away her comforts of sleep; that defendant always allowed plaintiff to sleep as long as she wanted to and often let her sleep and went without breakfast to his work."

In the eleventh section the defendant denies that he went to Walla Walla with the plaintiff to see a 4th of July celebration and got drunk and went off with her ticket, compelling her to remain in Walla Walla a long time when she wanted to be at home, but "averts the fact to be that plaintiff always liked Walla Walla and wished to stay longer when defendant wished to return."

In section thirteen defendant denies that he ever threatened to commit suicide, and "averts the fact to be that he is well satisfied with his life, and has never had any desire to change his residence by committing suicide."

In the fifteenth section the defendant alleges that he and the plaintiff "would now be living happily together if Tom Johnson were not the intended husband of the plaintiff." Peter West is the attorney for the defendant.

RAILROAD ASSESSMENTS.

Washington Assessors Will Discuss the Situation in That State.

Among the interesting matters to come before the next meeting of the assessors of the state which is scheduled for Spokane on the first Wednesday in February, will be the report of the special committee appointed at the last meeting in Olympia to gather data from the different states relative to the assessment of railroad real estate.

Assessor Stewart of Spokane is chairman of this committee and has as colleagues James Elder of Whatcom, F. R. Archer of Chehalis, Edward Meath of Pierce and R. J. Berryman of Walla Walla.

Mr. Stewart said today to the Spokane Press: "Our committee has been in correspondence with various states and have collected a whole lot of data which will be presented at the Spokane meeting. But of that I cannot talk at the present time. The matter is merely for the discussion of the assessors when they meet and will in due time be given the public but as a member of the committee I cannot make any statement."

UNHEALTHFUL CATTLE.

Washington Veterinarian Gives out Some Interesting Statements.

Dr. S. B. Nelson, veterinary at the Washington Agricultural College, gave an account of experiments he is carrying on with tuberculous cattle and the policy of the state authorities in getting control of the disease at the Farmers' Institute at Spokane yesterday. There is considerable tuberculosis in Washington cattle, but the officials are not doing any wholesale slaughtering and are taking measures to prevent its spread. Nearly all of it is confined to herds where imported stock is a factor, the grades not being as liable to attack as are the pure breeds.

Interesting statements made during the course of his address follow: "In the Isle of Jersey, where no cattle are imported, tuberculosis does not exist; neither does it in China, where milk is not used; but among the North American Indian, who in his natural state eats cattle meat in any condition of hygiene, the disease is rampant.

Physicians have practically stopped the advance of mortality, though they have not yet stamped out the disease. The private family cow is more dangerous to human life than the dairy farm cow, for the reason that the latter is detected when the tests are made, while the individual cow is not so carefully looked after. In dairy herds the disease has been found to exist in all percentages from absolute absence up to 60 per cent affected. The only way to detect tuberculosis is by a test—apparently healthy cattle may have it in an incipient stage."

BRONCHO AND AUTO.

Sensational Mix up on Streets of Seattle.

An untamed and bucking cayuse came near demolishing an automobile on Western avenue near University street yesterday afternoon, says the Seattle Star. It was a striking contrast between the modern vehicle of travel and the animal which it is rapidly supplanting.

A large crowd saw the lively exhibition. A cowboy employed at one of the stables on the street was engaged in "busting" the colt, which cavorted and kicked around for the edification of the crowd. All traffic on the street was stopped for the time being, a policeman on the scene being as interested in the performance as the rest of the throng and not caring to stop the fun.

It was at this point that a daring automobilist came tearing along the street. He did not deign to stop or check his speed until the horse with his rider ran into him. There was a mix-up and for a time it was difficult to tell whether horse or automobile was coming off on top. Suddenly the automobilist blew off a blast of steam. The wild horse bolted across the street, apparently unconcerned at this strange manifestation of the steam chariot, and made no more effort to throw his glue-like rider.

How Hot Hell is.

The following story is going the rounds of the Missouri press: A negro preacher was asked by one of his flock how hot it was in hell. "Well folks," he replied, "jes take all de wood in New York state an' all de coal in Pennsylvania an' all de oil in de worl' an' set hit afire. Den take er man out'n hell an' put 'im in dat burnin' mess an' he'll freeze to deat beto' he kin handly light. Dat's how hot hell am."

AFTER BAD WATER

SEATTLE HEALTH BOARD CONDEMNS OLD WELLS.

Over 900 in One Ward That Are a Menace to Health—Decisive Action Is Needed to Protect the Citizens From Wholesale Sickness.

Seattle, Oct. 28.—The first shot of the board of health's crusade for pure water in Seattle was fired late yesterday afternoon when Professor Tazier's analysis of two ninth ward well water specimens were made public.

This official chemist's report shows both specimens to be totally unfit for use either for drinking or cooking purposes, and the abnormal amount of ammonia, chlorine and nitrites found in the water prove it to be a generator of typhoid fever epidemics. A few warm days is all that is necessary to start an epidemic that endangers the health of a whole community, and falling warm weather, there are other conditions which would start the deadly sewerage water at its fatal work.

There are, by actual count, in the Ninth ward alone, over 500 wells of water which are probably like these specimens.

The board has been trying to secure appropriations for condemning them for three years past, but each analysis cost $25 and the finance committee, bullied by Councilman James, has refused to let go of the funds.

No well can be condemned officially and effectually put out of business except through a chemical analysis, and the appropriation graciously allowed by James last month along what he considered liberal lines, would only permit of two analyses per month if any provision at all were left for milk analysis.

At this rate it would take 20 years to condemn the bad wells of the Ninth ward alone. The rapid growth of the city and the bad sewerage conditions make the situation worse every day.

Women's Headaches

542 1-2 Congress Street, PORTLAND, MAINE, Oct. 17, 1902.

I consider Wine of Cardui superior to any doctor's medicine I ever used and I know whereof I speak. I suffered for nine months with suppressed menstruation which completely prostrated me. Pain would shoot through my back and sides and I would have blinding headaches. My limbs would swell up and I would feel so weak I could not stand up. I naturally felt discouraged for I seemed beyond the help of physicians, but Wine of Cardui came as a God-send to me. I felt a change for the better within a week. After nineteen days treatment I menstruated without suffering agonies I usually did and soon became regular and without pain.

Wine of Cardui is simply wonderful and I wish that all suffering women knew of its good qualities.

Wine of Cardui is simply wonderful and I wish that all suffering women knew of its good qualities.

Headaches are the danger signals of coming disease. Both men and women suffer headaches, but periodical headache falls only to the lot of women and is the unerring sign of irregular menstruation and bearing down pains. Completely prostrated by nine months of suppressed menses, blinded by headaches and racked with pain Mrs. Snow was made a strong and healthy woman again. Remember with Wine of Cardui no case is hopeless because this great remedy cures permanently nineteen out of every twenty cases and never fails to benefit a case of irregular menses, bearing down pains or any female weakness. If you are discouraged and doctors have failed, try Wine of Cardui, and try it now. Remember that headaches mean female weakness. Secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui today. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.
