WEEKLY FASHION LETTER.

New York, Nov. 7.—Fashions for the horse show were never so beautiful as they are this year. Smart couturieres have employed every possible detail of dress for this wonderful exhibition of "Beauty and the Beast" to enhance the loveliness of my lady's toilettes.

Velvet gowns will be in the ascendency, with rich russet brown and the new shade of blue velvet for popular approval. Both have their advantages, with the sole possible disadvantage of being trying to certain complexions, and it is the smart thing to have a touch of white in the trimming, no matter what other tints are used in the decoration.

Russet Brown and White Satin.

From a fashionable standpoint the horse show will be a distinctly American affair, for few of the toilettes worn by society women will be of foreign design. A handsome gown designed for an American heiress soon to marry a titled foreigner is developed in russet brown velvet and lined throughout with white satin. The skirt has seven gores, with plaits at the back. At each seam there are finest pieces of brown peau de soie decorated with handsome embroidery and heading the seams are three short straps fastened with buttons.

The coat is a half-long close-fitting affair, with gathered skirt piece, trimmed with satin braid in scroll design. It opens over a yoke piece of embroidered white cloth so skillfully decorated that only a bit of the white is visible here and there.

The sleeves are of the bishop pattern, with cuffs of the white cloth, lined with white satin and edged with a tiny brown silk cord.

A smooth silk beaver hat trimmed with a white bird artistically wound about with rich brown satin ribbon completes the costume.

Unique Blue Velvet Frock.

Another frock in this fortunate young woman's wardrobe which your correspondent was privileged to see is made of blue velvet, panne instead of silk velvet being employed. The skirt shows the seams overlapping each other and rounded away at the bottom not unlike a tunic effect. From the lower edge of the hem almost to the knees the seams are trimmed with dark greenish blue enameled buttons to accentuate the rounded away idea. There is not a suggestion of fullness about the hips and a row of buttons smaller than those used on the bottom of the skirt running around the hips might prove foundation for the assertion that the lower part of the skirt consisted of a deep bouce buttoned to a hip yoke of the same material. The opening, however, is accomplished invisible at the left side. The bodice is of blue satin tucked all over. A low cut bolero of panne velvet laid in box plaits is draped over the bouce to fall to the top of a high girde of crushed velvet.

Finishing the bolero is a deep handkerchief collar of the velvet embroidered in very heavy greenish white chrysanthemums with pale pink centers.

The sleeves are plaited at the shoulders, but below the elbows the plaits are allowed to fall unconfined into a rather square puff until within four or five inches of the wrist, when they are gathered again into a close fitting cuff trimmed with the heavy embroidered flowers.

Revival of Satin Gowns.

Nothing short of a great assemblage of fashionable folk could drive the modistes to the desperation of reviving satin gowns for the sake of novelty, yet some very delightful models are on exhibition for the horse show. A lustrous black satin costume shows the skirt embroidered in fuschias, with the same floral decoration repeated on the bodice. Bands varying in width from five inches to one are applied upon the skirt from belt to hem, and the white mousseline yoke of the waist is bordered with the trimming. The sleeves are of black Chantilly, falling gracefully from the shoulders after the angel pattern. Underneath is another sleeve of the satin gathered into a cuff of lace and embroidery.

Some very handsome black gowns, with small hats in the most delicate colors, are worn, pink, blue, pale green and mauve constituting particularly charming color schemes. With a black point d'esprit over pale rose satin there come an evening hat which is a compromise between a turban and a toque. It is made of pale pink silk chenille and has the upturned brim faced with folds of chiffon. No other trimming than an osprey adorns it. The task of duplicating such a design would be comparatively easy, because almost any one could put the osprey in place; or a rosette of velvet or silk pompon could be used instead for the sake of economy.

Very New Shade of Green.

Oivria is the name of one of the new shades of green. It is most effective associated with black and in satin faced cloth makes a handsome gown. The skirt has a hip yoke trimmed with narrow black satin braid. Below this there are several applied tucks of the cloth piped with the same braid, only tiny white threads are wound through the braid. The jacket is neither long nor short and it fits the figure very snugly. Around the shoulders there is a cape draped in crossed-over effect, which lends height to the figure. There is only one way of accomplishing this effect gracefully, however, and that is to see that the capes meet just above the girde.

White will be very much in evidence at the horse show, and every fabric from the handsome French etamines for afternoon to chiffons and the diaphanous veaves for evening will be seen. With these gowns the most exquisite furs and neckwear will be worn. Out of compliment to the exhibition the chrysanthemum, which is the official flower appears in many different guises.

A marvelous white chiffon boa is composed of myriad ruffles edged with immense yellow silk chrysanthemums all hand embroidered. The flowers are given a beautiful coloring by the addition of pale pink-white centers.

Elderdown and Ermine Vagary.

A Pelorine and muff made of white elderdown and ermine are decorated with wonderful chrysanthemums of crimson chiffon. Such vagaries, where one can afford to indulge them, can be considered more than sentimental, for flowers will play an important part in the fashions of winter. Therefore novelties selected for the exhibition will not be passe afterward.

Elegant coats are distinguished mainly for the number of tassels and other danglings which adorn them. Heavy white corded silk is in great demand for dressy wraps, and fur, silk braid, velvet bands and embroidery compose the smart trimmings.

Beautiful little fans of convenient size are made of chiffon, embroidered or hand painted, then edged with mock jewels. They are not intended to be closed, but are so dainty that they can hang from the bead chains without fear of being damaged or catching onto things.

Red in a new tone called cranberry is a new idea for the woman who wishes to add to her collection of coats. It shades from dark to light very effectively, and is modeled especially for the long haired albinos. The cranberry red coats are made of suede and cost from $200 to $350.

Nothing reveals or even exaggerates the size of the hands as do white kid gloves. Yet they are indispensable to the perfectly gowned woman. The latest offerings have pointed applications in a contrasting shade—usually a tint that matches the gown—over the long wrists. They sell for little less than $5 a pair. Other novelties have grey finger tips, and sometimes black ones. While very serviceable, and especially so for the woman with freely perspiring hands, these gloves will hardly be a success, for though the desire to wave one's clothes be ever so great, no one likes to be caught employing so noticeable an agent in the fulfilling of such a desire.

Schlitz

A Doctor's Reasons

Patient: "Why do you say Schlitz beer? Isn't any other beer as good?"

Doctor: "Perhaps; but I don't know it. I do know that Schlitz beer is pure."

Patient: "What do you mean by pure?"

Doctor: "I mean free from germs. Impurity means bacilli; and in a saccharine product like beer bacilli multiply rapidly. I do not recommend a beer that may contain them."

Patient: "How do you know that Schlitz beer is pure?"

Doctor: "I have seen it brewed. Cleanliness is carried to extremes in that brewery. The beer is cooled in plate glass rooms, in filtered air. The beer is then filtered. Yet, after all these precautions, every bottle is sterilized—by Pasteur's process—after it is sealed. I know that beer treated in that way is pure."

Patient: "And is pure beer good for me?"

Doctor: "It is good for anybody. The hops form a tonic; the barley a food. The trifle of alcohol is an aid to digestion. And the custom of drinking beer supplies the body with fluid to wash out the waste. People who don't drink beer seldom drink enough fluid of any kind. A great deal of ill-health is caused by the lack of it."

Patient: "But doesn't beer cause biliousness?"

Doctor: "Not Schlitz Beer. Biliousness is caused by 'green' beer—beer that is insufficiently aged. But Schlitz beer is always aged for months before it is marketed."

MACEDONIAN EXHIBIT.

Will Duplicate Lives, Industries and Customs of the People.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 6.—A Macedonian-Albanian concession at the Louisiana Purchase exposition is likely to mark a departure from all previous expositions. An échec of the consular section of the ministry of foreign affairs at Belgrade has been in correspondence with Thomas W. Criddle, world's fair commissioner for Europe, with the view to obtaining such a concession.

It is proposed to include in the exhibit a Macedonian house with its inner arrangements and its home life, national and feminine costumes, national customs, especially those of the picturesque character; home and house industry, such as spinning, weaving, needle work and tapestry, and national songs and music, together with Turkish, Albanian, Greek, Servian, Roumanian and Bulgarian dances.

OHIO TEACHERS.

Over One Thousand Have Met at Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 6.—More than 2,000 school teachers have arrived in Cleveland for the annual convention of the Ohio Central Teachers' association. The visitors represent every county embraced in the territory covered by the association.

Today was spent largely in visits of inspection to the public schools of Cleveland. The formal opening takes place this evening, when there will be addresses of welcome and responses and several addresses by distinguished educators.

Tomorrow will be occupied with business sessions and sectional conferences, at which there will be papers, addresses and discussions covering every branch of educational work from the district school to the higher educational institutions.

State Teachers' Association Meeting, Baker City, Or., November 23-25, 1903.

For the above occasion a rate of one-third fare on the certificate plan is authorized to Baker City. Tickets on sale any three days prior to opening day. For particulars, call on or address F. F. WAMSLEY, Agent.

CURED WHEN OTHERS FAILED

1056 Wilmennac Avenue CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 25, 1902.

Wine of Cardui can always be relied upon to cure when everything else fails. It is a certain cure for female diseases in their worst forms. I suffered for years with ulceration, intense pain in the womb and ovaries and dreadful headaches unfitted me for my work. Finally I grew so ill that I had to keep to my bed. The pains were so intense at times as to cause spasms and a disagreeable discharge drained my life force. In my extremity after all else had failed, I tried Wine of Cardui. After using it for two weeks I began to improve so rapidly that I felt encouraged to keep up the treatment, which I did for eighteen weeks, but at the end of that time I was entirely cured. What a relief was mine and how new and beautiful life looked to me when my health was restored. Only those who have passed through such a siege of sickness as I have will understand how much I value Wine of Cardui. It is indeed a boon to sick women.

Frances Mitchell

Secretary, North Chicago Frauen Verein.

Every weak woman needs Wine of Cardui. Wine of Cardui cures disordered and painful menstruation, periodical headaches, falling of the womb and leucorrhoea. It cures extreme cases of these troubles. It strengthens girls approaching womanhood, helps bring children to barren homes, makes pregnancy and childbirth easier, prevents miscarriages and is the best medicine ever made for use during the change of life. Why permit the good women in your home to suffer another day? Every drugstore has $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.
