COULDN'T BOIL IT.

Servant Comes to Grief in Attempting to Cook Watermelon.

The prize servant girl, story comes from Mare Island. It was told the other day by the wife of a high naval officer to a number of naval officers and their wives who were traveling from the navy yard to this city on the naval tug Unadilla.

"I secured this servant of mine in Philadelphia just two years ago," said the victim of the kitchen mechanic. "Three days after she arrived from the old country she took service under me. She was lamentably ignorant of the art of cooking, but I became attached to her and when my husband was ordered West I took her out with me.

"Kitty was the only servant I brought out. She knew a little something about cooking, so I thought we would be able to get along for a time at least. Well, one day, a miserably hot one, I told Kitty that we would not bother about a hot lunch, but would make a light meal out of cake and a delicious watermelon I had purchased in town that morning. About 1 o'clock I entered the dining room with my husband and, calling Kitty from the kitchen, told her we were ready for lunch.

"She looked a bit flustered and, to my surprise, said: 'I'm sorry, ma'am, but it's not ready.'

"'Ready,' I exclaimed, 'why, there is nothing to prepare. You know I told you we only wanted a little cake and the watermelon.'

"'I know that, ma'am,' she said, with tears in her eyes, 'and here is the cake, but the melon ain't ready. I've been bilin' it for the last two hours and it's just as hard and as grane now as it was when I first put it in the water.'

THE LEADERS

MOVED TO NEW YORK.

Third Ex-Speaker House Representatives to Do So.

Ex-Speaker of the House of Representatives, David B. Henderson is the third man who held that position to make his home in New York.

The first of the trio was John G. Carlisle. Mr. Carlisle has not only been a Speaker of the House and a senator from Kentucky, but also a most astute and successful secretary of the treasury.

The late Thomas B. Reed was the second and although a comparatively poor man when he came to live in New York where he practiced at the bar for three or four years, when he died he left an estate valued at $350,000.

Ex-Speaker Henderson's career will doubtless equal that of his two distinguished predecessors. He is not only an eloquent orator of the impassioned order, but he is a sound lawyer and ripe scholar. He enjoys the unique distinction of having had a statue of himself erected and dedicated during his life time. It was unveiled in Iowa only recently.
