VERY ENTERTAINING.

Opinion Passed Upon Recital Given By Miss Haskell.
 The recital given last evening at the Pendleton Academy Miss Tenetta Sargent Haskell was a source of great enjoyment to those who were so fortunate as to attend. Miss Haskell gave some of the best passages from "David Copperfield" and by her skillful and graceful elocution made the characters depicted by Dickens live again in the minds of her audiences. Miss Haskell is an accomplished elocutionist and to listen to her is a pleasure.

COUNCIL MEETING TONIGHT.

Interesting Provision of Matters That Will Come Before It.

The council will meet this evening at the regular time. This is the third to the last meeting that this council will have, and it will put in the rest of the time that it has in winding up the business that it has commenced, so that it can turn over the affairs of the city to the incoming administration in as good shape as possible. The first thing that will come before the meeting this evening will be the canvassing of the vote of yesterday, at which time the votes will be counted and the official announcement of the election made.

There are two ordinances to come before the council at this meeting—one the right-of-way ordinance asked for by the O. R. & N. for its track in the eastern part of the city, where the Walla Walla branch of the road passes through the streets.

When this road was made there was no right-of-way granted by the city, and it has been overlooked since, and was not thought of until the city started to lay the sewer close to the track, when the company entered some objection. On investigation it was found that the company legally had no right to the street, and the ordinance is drawn to remedy the defect. It grants the company the right to maintain a track on that part of the city streets, and at the same time protects the city in the construction of improvements that have been made and may be in the future contemplated.

The other ordinance that will be presented this evening is the long looked for license ordinance, which the city attorney has had under consideration for some time. This ordinance will not change the rules, regulations, resolutions and ordinances that are now in effect to a great extent, but will codify them and put them in such shape that there will be a license for anything that might wish to come into the city, from a lemonade stand to the Selis Brothers' circus.

As the law now stands, there are several things that are not covered by its provisions, and it is the intention of the new ordinance to remedy this. It is an exhaustive document, and has been prepared with great care by the attorney for the city. The amounts of the licenses have been left blank so the council can use its own discretion as to the amount of license to be placed on each different kind of business. Several other matters of minor importance will come up at the meeting this evening, but they are chiefly of a routine nature.

EXIT GENERAL REYES.

Alleged Stormy Interview Between Him and Roosevelt.

Washington, Dec. 8.—General Reyes, special representative from Colombia, called at the White House today and it was given out later that the five minutes' interview was extremely pleasant. Later information, which is perfectly reliable, indicates there was no pleasure in it for Reyes, as he evidently made some remark which aroused Roosevelt's fighting blood. The latter went for him rough shod, and angry words were heard in the adjoining room. The president concluded a denunciation with the statement that if Reyes had any more business to transact with America it would have to be with the secretary of state, and he was told not to enter the White House again.
