grass promises to the most valuable all-purpose hay and pasture plant in the Northwest. It has taken the place of clovers and alliafa in the semi-arid districts. The grams is the first stock feed to ap-pear in the spring and the last to fall before the snow covers the earth in winter. It gives an abundant summer pasture and produces fine crops of hay and seed. A field of 400 acres of brome grass is one of the curiosities of a farm near Moscow, Idaho. It lies on the slope of the mountains and occupies rolling hillsides, dipping to every point of the compass. The owner has a band of 3,000 sheep which he mastures on the brome grass from hastures on the brome grass from pastures on the brome grass from late in the autumn until May. Last spring the sheep were not removed until after the first week in May. The field gave two cuttings of seed and is now occupied for sheep pasture.— Names Leader.

Horses Slide to Death.

Robert Deal, who resides on the foothill just west of the city, lost two valuable young horses a few days ago just after the light fall of snow. The horses were on the crest of the high mountain back of his house when they started to descend on the run, the snow was frozen and both horses fell and slid down the mountain side a distance of over a quarter of a mile and were evidently dead before they reached the bottom. An idea of the velocity they attained can be formed, as when found both bodies had crushed through the fence at the foot of the mountain. Mr. Deal says he never lost $200 so rapidly before in his life—La Grande Observer.
