Will Eugene Try Socialism?

The city council committee of the whole met in session last night to consider the proposition of putting in more street lights. There are now about seven petitions in for arc lights in different parts of the city. After a close consideration, the petitions were turned down, as the city cannot afford to put up more lights at the present rate charged by the light company. The city is now paying from Pocatello, where he has company. The city is now paying $3,500 a year for lights and cannot see its way clear to pay for more. The proposition of the city putting up and owning its own light plant was brought before the council committee and a lengthy discussion was had, but it wrought nothing. The proposition is still to be considered. Eugene Guard.
