SOCIAL EVENTS OF THE WEEK

Concerning the People of Pendleton and Vicinity • Notes Personal and Otherwise • By Our Regular Correspondent

Social gaiety in Pendleton will be a thing unheard of for the next few weeks during the Lenten season, now that so many people have gone into retreat and are doing penance by abstaining from the pleasures they care most for. Outside of going to church, their thoughts and time will be given to spring sewing and the planning of some new gown and hat to make their appearance in at Easter. Occasionally one may drop in on a friendly game of whist, but of course that one time won't count.

Husbands Worth Winning.

A man who professes to hate women usually makes a very kind husband. When a girl wins a man who hates all other girls, she is sure of his first and only love. Girls like to make a conquest, and the harder the battle the greater the triumph. A man who thinks all women are angels is not worth having. He is too easy to get, "for any woman could marry him," and the game is not worth the candle. Another reason why the "woman hater" makes a good husband is that when he discovers his "one perfect woman" he does all in his power to make up to her for having slandered the sex to which she belongs, though he still holds that all other women are triflers.

Leap Year Party.

Prettier environment than that seen at Music Hall on last Monday evening at the leap year valentine ball given by 60 married ladies and misses, is seldom seen in Pendleton. It was truly a valentine party in every sense of the word. Over one thousand red cardboard hearts of all sizes were used in the decorations. The side walls were very effectively trimmed with the smaller hearts festooned from larger ones. From each corner of the ceiling to the center, hearts hung pendant and by the air currents caused by the whirl of the dancers, were kept in constant motion. An attractive arch work was built about the musicians' platform. This was all done in red, strings of hearts hanging pendant in the three arches. Back of the railing potted palms were placed. The two corners at the north end of the hall were made attractive as cozy corners, bright draperies and numerous pillows being used. In the center of the ball room, palm trees and a double settee, covered with Indian robes, made an attractive centerpiece.

During the evening punch was served to the dancers and at 11 o'clock hot coffee and sandwiches proved very appetizing.

The dance program was varied some by the introduction of an arrow shoot by the gentlemen, at a large target where were placed numerous valentine hearts, on the backs of which were written the names of the ladies giving the party. The heart they shot, or came nearest to hitting, was the lady taken for that dance. The shoot proved very exciting.

Two dances were given where valentines were distributed to the gentlemen, who wrote their names thereon, then placing them in a basket to be drawn by the ladies, who took the gentleman whose name appeared on the valentine for her partner in the dance, and vice versa, when the ladies wrote their names and the gentlemen drew.

Kirkman's orchestra furnished good music and the dance program was enjoyed by all present.

The out-of-town visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKean, Mrs. Ben Holt, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Balderston, Miss Anna Bracken, Mr. Allen, William Bracken, John Robb and Frank Boushe, of Walla Walla, and Chester Foster, of Portland.

A Unique Social Event.

Those who were fortunate enough to receive an invitation worded Ung Goev

Requests the honor of your presence at dinner, Thursday evening, February 18th, at half past six, certainly had one of the greatest treats of the season in the way of a novel and elaborate dinner party in Chinatown, all cooked in China style.

Everything in the hall over Ung Goev's place of business, and where the dinner was served, was in the pink of perfection. The long table was beautifully trimmed in festoons of smilax around the edge, while in the center were large bunches of carnations, which stood on a lovely embroidered linen piece of Chinese workmanship. The floral decorations were in charge of Forshaw the florist. Oriental fruits were placed at various places about the table as a trimming.

Throughout the dinner, Chinese music was played on a graphophone recently purchased by the host. At times one was made to feel they were in the Orient, instead of Pendleton. The dinner consisted of several courses. Following is the menu:

- Goev Gow
- Escalloped Mushrooms—Rice
- Hoy Syn
- Pineapple cooked with Chicken—Rice
- Jgau Bird's Nest Rice
- Chop Suey Rice
- Fresh China Nuts served in Liquor
- Sliced Sugar Cane
- Candied Coconut and Ginger Candy
- Tea Olives Salted Almonds
- Wines—Claret, Sauterne and China Gin

The dinner was perfect in its appointments and Ung Goev made a most delightful entertainer in looking after the comforts of his guests. He had an able corps of assistants in Ung Tong, Ung Wing and Ung Foo. After dinner cigars were passed to the gentlemen and the ladies were given carnations.

Those who sat around the banquet board were Messrs. and Mesdames T. C. Taylor, G. A. Hartman, Charles Carter, James Fee, C. E. Roosevelt, W. J. Furnish, Frank Clopton, E. P. Marshall, F. W. Vincent, Mrs. Lina Sturgis, Miss Gaither, Miss Anderson, Syble Clopton, Eleanor Vincent and George Hartman, Jr.

Parish Aid Social.

The Parish Aid held the second one of their socials at the home of Mrs. Jack Robinson, Tuesday evening. There was a large attendance and a jolly time had by all. Mrs. Robinson had the affair arranged as a valentine social. Every one in attendance found a valentine in the postoffice for them. The rooms were prettily decorated with hearts. Miss Jessie Hartman sang two selections in a very pleasing manner, followed by a few piano numbers by Miss Hazel Bickers. The rest of the evening was spent in playing pit and finch. These socials will be discontinued until after Lent.

Japanese Social.

One of the most pleasurable events of the school season, took place last night at the assembly hall when the girls' basket ball team entertained their friends with a Japanese social. The hall had been elaborately decorated in anticipation of the event, and a large number of the patrons and friends of the school and the ladies were present. The hostesses were costumed in Japanese style, and during the evening an Oriental program was rendered. Refreshments were served.
