

FROM LAST TO FIRST

People used to take plain cod liver oil for coughs, colds, throat and lung troubles after other remedies had failed.

Scott's Emulsion is the modern idea of cod liver oil—the first instead of the last resort when such ailments appear.

The taste of the oil is not apparent and the oil itself is partly digested—makes it easy for the stomach. Scott's Emulsion is a quick, reliable help at all ages.

CATTLE PROSPECTS

CONSIDERED BRIGHT IN EASTERN OREGON.

Farmers Are Hopeful and Confident, and Do Not Underestimate the Influence of the War—Open Winter, Plenty Feed, Grass Coming and Cattle in Fine Condition—Will Hold Their Stock for Good Prices.

James H. Gwinn has returned from a visit through the eastern part of the state, and is of the opinion that the cattle outlook is better now than it has been for some time, and that the market is bound to take a jump for the better before very long.

The winter has been one of the best for the cattle, and all of the holdings have passed through the season in the best of condition. Feed has been plenty, the winter has been open, and the pasturage has been good, so that the cattlemen are in better spirits now than they had any idea they would be in the fall when the feed scare was on.

At the beginning of winter and at the end of harvest, when the men who had large numbers of cattle to hold over through the cold weather thought of the prospect, they felt pretty blue, for they knew that if the season was hard and the cold intense, they would have a hard time to save a part of their stock. But now the grass is green and the winter is nearly passed, and all of their feed still in the stack they feel like shaking hands with themselves over the prospect, which is so much brighter than they anticipated when the time for the snow came.

The market, too, is stronger than it has been in the past few months, and holds promise of a rise in a short time. The war troubles of the other side of the water lend a hope to the cattlemen that their meat will be in great demand before long.

Russia, so they argue, is still able to do a lot of mischief, and will hold on for a long time yet, and the vast number of people there will have to be fed. This northwestern country is the natural source from which they will have to draw their supplies and the demand will increase the price. While it may not create a great market, it will help to shove the price up a little, and that is all that the stockman hopes, and is what he desires.

If the hint of trouble in the Orient is sufficient to toss up the price of wheat, and if the breath of suspicion of international complications will make the flurry that is now in evidence, there is no reason why the same condition will not bring pressure to bear on the price of beef, and carry it up with the grain.

Altogether Mr. Gwinn thinks the cattle industry is a good one to be in at this time, and that those who are in it will not sell their interests at this time for as little money as they would a few short months ago.

LA GRANDE ROMANCE.

Young Couple Are Married in Unique and Unassuming Manner.

One of the sweetest romances ever recorded from Cupid's capers in Eastern Oregon, has just been carried out in La Grande.

Frank Plum and Beattie Lincoln, daughter of Dr. R. L. Lincoln, of La Grande, had been "keeping company" for some months and while friends and relatives knew it was a match, everyone expected elaborate preparations and a wedding supper at least.

One evening Plum was walking down the street, smoking a cigar and dressed in his working clothes, and coming up with a friend, asked him to take a walk.

Passing the music store where Miss Lincoln worked, the two friends stepped in for a moment's chat.

William Grant, justice of the peace, "happened" to be looking over some sheet music at the time and Miss Lincoln was showing a piano to a customer.

Before the friend who had started to take a walk with Plum knew what was doing, Miss Lincoln tripped over to the front of the store and stood beside her lover, facing the justice.

Hurriedly and yet solemnly, the ceremony was performed, the friend was the witness and the customer standing in the rear of the room did not realize what was going on.

As quietly and unconcernedly as they had come in, Plum, his friend, and the justice disappeared and the sweet bride went back to her customer, from whom she had excused herself but a moment before.

It was a "quiet" wedding in the strictest sense of the word, and the young couple successfully carried out a romantic program that stands at the head of Cupid's deceitful feats in the famed Grand Ronde.

Everybody was wondering when it happened, after the sweet secret was out.

HEALTHY PLANTS

Require the Most Careful Attention as Well as Good Soil.

Did you ever see a rosebush which—despite the most beneficent environment of soil-of sunshine—and of atmosphere,—seemed never to achieve a healthy growth.

A ton of manure will not help a plant that has a canker eating out its heart. You must destroy the cause before you can remove the effect.

You cannot cure Dandruff and Baldness by rubbing on hair lotions, and rubbing in vaseline, etc.

You must look to the cause of the trouble—it's a germ at the roots of your hair which causes it to fall out. Newbro's Herpicide destroys the germ, and healthy hair is the sure result.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. F. W. Schmidt, special agent.
