"My niece's little baby boy, two years old, was so badly afflicted with eczema that he needed constant watching. It was all over his face and he scratched the sores constantly. Mornings his clothes would be stained with blood, and his face and hands would be covered. His family never could take him out, as his face was always full of large sores. They had medical treatment, and tried everything they heard of. She commenced using the Cuticura Remedies last spring and found that at last she had a wonderful healer. The sores left his face and he was entirely cured, and now his face is as smooth and rosy as though no sore had ever been there to mar it."

SEVERAL WILL BE BUILT NOT MENTIONED BEFORE.

Greatest Hindrance is Lack of Assurance That Brick Can Be Had When Wanted—This City Will Use Over Two Million Brick the Coming Season—List of Prospective Building Projects.

Brick has begun to arrive for the Martin building, and as soon as the timber for the girders come work will begin, and it will be rushed through to completion.

There will be just about enough brick in the Weston brickyards to complete the Martin building, and when this supply is exhausted building operations will cease for the time being. It will be impossible for the management of the yard to begin making brick before the middle of April, and it may be later than that before the weather will be settled sufficiently to proceed on a large scale.

Last year Pendleton was in the same predicament by the failure of the Weston yard to furnish enough brick. The management said they would be able to have brick here by the middle of May, or earlier, but it was June before the material began to come in, and then it was in small lots and divided between Pendleton and Walla Walla. This year it promises to be the same thing over again. As the capacity of the yard is 40,000 brick a day, it will be seen that with Pendleton, Walla and various other towns along the line to supply there will not be a great surplus left at the end of the season.

Pendleton is a good brick consumer, having used from 1,000,000 to 2,500,000 brick each year for some years past, and the indications are that the record will be kept up this year. If it is not broken. If the brick can be secured there are many buildings in contemplation which will be built.

Besides the Martin Building.

The water commission will build during the summer a 60x60 pump house at the pumping station, which will be about 16 feet in height.

E. J. Murphy is contemplating building a one story structure on Cottonwood street, just back of Court. This building will be 50 feet front, and have a depth of 100 feet. It will be used for a paint shop and general work shop by Mr. Murphy, who is very much crowded in his present quarters.

W. F. Matlock will build a large brick on his lots on Main street next to the Bowman building, which will be made to match the other fine buildings in that part of town.

T. C. Taylor is planning to build a two-story brick on his property on the corner of Main and Water street, opposite the Hotel Pendleton, which he will use as an implement house. This will be one of the most modern business houses of the city. It will be equipped with an elevator and all the other conveniences necessary in the large and growing business of Mr. Taylor, and will be 50x55 feet and two stories high.

Jesse Failing is thinking of putting a modern brick on the property where the Froome barn now stands, on Main street. It will have a 50-foot front on Main, and will run back 200 feet to Cottonwood, and will be used by Mr. Froome as a livery barn. If all these improvements are made it is also probable that F. B. Clifton will add a story to the property he owns, which is now occupied by the Fair, and Golden Rule stores.

There is talk of other brick buildings this season, though little has been done as yet towards making definite plans. It is safe to say that if building conditions are good during the summer months all, and more, of the improvements noted, will be made.

IRRIGATION IN ITALY.

Expert Tells of Irrigation Investigations Abroad.

Prof. Elwood Mead, former state engineer of Wyoming and expert in charge of the irrigation investigations of the department of agriculture, arrived last night from Denver, and will remain in the city a couple of days to visit the local office and confer with State Engineer C. T. Johnston in regard to the work of the irrigation office in Wyoming during the coming year, says the Cheyenne Tribune.

Mr. Mead has spent the last six months investigating irrigation in Italy and a report submitted by him with a view to advising the adoption of the best features of the Italian system in this country, will soon be issued by the interior department. It will be of great value to all interested in the subject of irrigation, as Mr. Mead has spent a long time in the valley of the Po, where irrigation has been known to some extent for half a dozen centuries.

He is greatly interested in the work of the Italians and undoubtedly his report will excite wide interest. He was asked for a general review of his research work in Italy and many of the facts which he gave will cause some surprise among irrigation enthusiasts.

"I first went to Baden on my way to Italy," he said, "and from there I went down to Switzerland. I was very much surprised to find that there were a great many irrigation districts in those two countries.

"It is rather strange that they should carry on irrigation in those parts, as the rainfall is heavy, but they want to feel sure themselves, and irrigation is the great protection. They had a suit on there in Baden and Switzerland similar to that which is now pending between Colorado and Kansas, over the Weisse river.

It was claimed that the Swiss were diverting the course of the river, and other allegations were made. The decision reached allowed the priority of rights in Switzerland, and Baden was to some extent beaten in the suit.

"I found the valley of the Po a most thrifty place. It is settled mainly by Germans from the north and they are all prosperous and contented. The rainfall averages 40 inches there, but nevertheless they carry on a fine system of irrigation and they keep on improving.

In 1897 a canal was built there which cost $1,200,000. In 1884 a canal was built there which cost $5,000,000. I also saw a pumping plant which lifts water 60 feet and which was built at a cost of $250,000.

Mind you, they could raise fine crops there with the average rainfall, but their irrigation gives them three times as much of a production, gives them a chance of course to sell twice as much and twice as many people are supported under the conditions."

At present the United States is fifth in naval power among the nations, but with the completion of vessels now building, she will be third.
