MURRY AND MACK.

A Large Audience and a Very Good Performance.
Murry and Mack, the mirth makers, were greeted with one of the largest houses seen in the Frazer for some time, last night, when they presented their "Night on Broadway."
As far as plot is concerned, it would be hard to find one in the production, but the whole two hours is buried under an avalanche of fun. The choruses were good, the costumes were pretty and incidentally, the girls who wore them were not at all bad looking. The trouble taken to attend was fully worth the while.
A novel feature was introduced in the closing chorus of the second act, in the "ribbon drill," when the stage was buried in paper ribbons of many hues, and the audience was cobwebbed with the same bright colored bands. It was something never before seen in this city and something unique.
O. W. Dunbar Improving.

MINISTER CALLED THRICE.

W. L. Van Nuys of La Grande, Has Long Been Wanted by Pendleton.

Rev. W. L. Van Nuys, who comes to Pendleton April 1, to become pastor of the Presbyterian church, has been invited to this church three times, in the past.

Once he was located at Spokane, and since he went to La Grande, two invitations have been sent to him. He is counted to be one of the ablest ministers in the Northwest, and Pendleton is fortunate in securing his services.

The Presbyterian church in this is one of the largest and most active congregations in Eastern Oregon, and Mr. Van Nuys comes to a field already well organized. The special pride of the church in this city is Pendleton academy, which is supported by that denomination, and which is the only Presbyterian academy in Eastern Oregon and Washington.
