FROM PENDLETON

AN EX-CONVICT HAS TROUBLE AT SALEM.

Simple-Minded Girl is at the Bottom of the Row and Causes a Fight Between Her Lover and Her Father—The Latter, Who Was Sent to the Penitentiary From Umatilla County, Prosecuted the Girl's Father for Assault and Battery.

News comes from Salem, of the prosecution of Jacob Idiewine, an old character of that city, by Lester Bell, an ex-convict, for assault and battery. Idiewine was dismissed on the motion of the prosecuting attorney.

The story is that Bell was paying attention to Dora Idiewine, the 16-year-old daughter of the old man, who had forbid the ex-guest of the state to come to the house. On last Thursday Bell accompanied the girl home from a Salvation Army meeting, and was invited into the house. When Idiewine found out who the visitor was, he ordered him from the premises and a fight ensued. The arrest followed.

At the trial on Saturday the old man told his story in court and was dismissed, the prosecuting attorney making an attempt to protect his home. At the close of the trial the old man pleaded with his daughter to return to her home with him, but she refused and left the court room in company with her mother and Bell.

Idiewine is an old resident of that city and a respected and industrious citizen. His wife is an epileptic and has for a long time been an inmate of the asylum, where she was known as one of the hardest patients to manage in the institution. She was recently released, but since the trial of Saturday has been returned. The daughter is a pretty girl of somewhat simple mind, and easily influenced.

Lester Bell was sent to the penitentiary from Umatilla county March 2, 1902, under a two and one-half year sentence for the larceny of a gold watch, two chains and a silk muffler from Elmer Hales. The crime was committed a short time prior to the March term of court in that year. He was indicted under the name of Calvin Lester, and was considered a hard character by the officers here.

OWEN W. FEE DEAD

A PIONEER STRICKEN WITH HEART DISEASE.

Came to Pendleton in 1884—Was a Native of the Emerald Isle and Came to America at 14—Was a Pioneer of Wisconsin, Iowa, California, Washington and Oregon—Leaves Large Family and Hosts of Friends.

Owen W. Fee, a well known pioneer of Pendleton, died Sunday afternoon at the residence of his son, James A. Fee, in this city.

The immediate cause of his death was heart failure, this fatal ailment having been superinduced by rheumatism. His last illness was very brief, he having been on the street on Friday, and although he was suffering greatly with rheumatism, was in very good health otherwise.

On Sunday morning while dressing to get up for the day, he was suddenly stricken with heart disease, and never regained consciousness, lingering until 2:30, when he passed away.

Owen William Fee was born in County Fermanagh, Ireland, on September 17, 1818 and came to New York in 1832, at the age of 14 years.

He resided in that state until 1842, when he came to the farthest frontier of Western settlement, to Wisconsin, where he was married in 1848. He remembered the present site of the city of Chicago as nothing but a village of log huts.

He worked in the lead mines of Wisconsin until 1865, when he removed to Central Iowa. In 1873 he came to California, from there to Washington in 1878, and from that state to Pendleton in 1884, where he has since resided. His wife died in this city in April, 1890.

His family consists of seven children, two sons and five daughters, all of them living at this time except one daughter. The two sons are Judge James A. Fee and P. H. Fee, of this city; the daughters are Mrs. Maggie Salisbury, of Reinbeck, Iowa; Mrs. Nellie Langtry, of Everett, Wash.; Mrs. Hattie Allen and Miss Carrie Fee, of Portland.

Mr. Fee was a rugged, hardy, honest pioneer of that sturdy type which has helped civilize and conquer every frontier of the United States. Coming to this country as a boy from the Emerald Isle, he at once pushed to the front of settlement in the wilds of the Great Lake region. When that country began to settle up he went to the Iowa prairies, then almost a wilderness, and later came with the advance guards to Washington territory when that country was attracting the widest attention.

Although 86 years of age he had recently spoken of going to Alberta, Canada, the last lingering frontier on the North American continent. He was a kindly genial, homeloving man, whose familiar presence will be missed by a large circle of friends.

FORMERLY OF PENDLETON.

Death of Mrs. Wallace J. Bruce, in San Francisco.

Mrs. Wallace J. Bruce, formerly of this city, died in San Francisco Tuesday last. Mrs. Bruce was well known in this city, having been prominently connected with the work of the Church of the Redeemer while here, and her many friends will be saddened to hear of her death. The following notice of her death is reproduced from the San Francisco Examiner:

"The death of Mrs. Wallace J. Bruce in this city last Tuesday removed a woman who had endeared herself to many acquaintances by her Christian charity and kindly traits. Mrs. Bruce came here from Portland recently. For many years she was a confirmed invalid, but was patient and gentle in her suffering. She leaves surviving her father, General W. H. H. Boadie, president of the state normal school of Madison, S. D.; her husband, two sisters, Mrs. Fred B. Hughes of this city and Mrs. Fred E. Brink of Ann Arbor, and a niece, Mrs. L. C. Hornschuck."

ELECTION APRIL 12.

People Will Vote on Bond Issue for School Improvement.

The school board met last Saturday evening and set the date for the special election, at which will be determined whether or not the district is to have the bond issue and the new buildings.

Notices will be published calling the election for April 12, the polling place to be in the circuit court room at the court house, and the voting to continue from 1 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon. According to the law the board will call the meeting to order and will at that time appoint from those present the judges and clerks of election.

The question is now before the people, and the board is anxious that the people inform themselves in regard to the conditions of the school buildings and the general situation.

SIX CARS OF ICE.

Pendleton Factory is Turning Out Fifteen Tons Per Day.

The Pendleton Ice and Cold Storage Company shipped six cars of ice yesterday afternoon to Pomeroy, where it will be stored for the summer trade. The shipment aggregated 120 tons, and nearly cleaned up what surplus ice the company had in the ice room.

The plant is now running at its full capacity and is turning out ice at the rate of 15 and more tons a day. Thursday next another consignment of six cars will be shipped to Pomeroy and from this on the factory will be rushed with orders for storage ice.

Herr Martin

The Naturalist

Says he bought a horse which "was thin, almost a skeleton, and so weak it could hardly walk," and began giving it coffee, in the form of infusions of the roasted beans, and sometimes ground and mixed with honey. After a few months Herr Martin refused $250 for it. The German says he has brought round many horses since by the same treatment.

Coffee is better than horse-feed put up in packages and called cereal coffee.
