You can't lose an atom without feeling it. The body is like an engine, a watch, a machine; must be kept in good order to run right.

STOCK MAY SUFFER

RANGE SHORT AND WEATHER ROUGH IN GRANT COUNTY.

Stock in John Day Country Turned Out on Foothills, Grass is Scarce and Storms Frequent—May Be Some Losses Yet This Spring.

Although the time of year has come when stockmen may reasonably expect their herds to find a good living on the range in the warmer valleys and among the long slopes of the different branches of the John Day river, the weather is such that the grass is not in good condition for grazing, says the Grant County News.

Considerable snow falls at frequent intervals and heavy frosts, which grew well during much of the winter, is not easily reached by stock. This fact, taken in connection with the chilly rains, makes the situation less hopeful than has been looked for by the stockmen generally.

Parties coming from the north end of the county, especially from the Middle Fork section, state that several hundred head of stock cattle have been turned out on the hills there, and in such condition that there is danger of considerable loss, especially among those that are weak and thin.

Owners, and those in charge, had fed a part of their hay, and in some instances had driven their herds quite a distance in hopes of finding good grazing on the long slopes of the John Day and Middle Fork.

From what could be learned, much will depend upon the kind of weather for the next few weeks. If it should grow warmer and less rain and snow fall, there will probably be very little loss, if any at all. But if chilling storms and heavy frosts continue, there is danger of more than ordinary loss on the range.

This situation is far from general throughout the county, and is due to the fact that early ranges are held upon to the extent that there is but little hay, comparatively, put up in that part of the county.

There has also been complaint made that a number of horses in the Suvaville country are starving, but closer investigation seems to prove that not more than the usual number of old and helpless ones are in difficulty.

Outside of these conditions in limited areas, the consensus of opinion is that there will be hay enough, and to spare.

PASSED THE DOCTORS.

Old Short Line Engineer With a Glass Eye Held a Job Over the Doctors' Examination.

The physical examinations, now being conducted on the O. R. & N., reminds old railroaders of the extraordinary experience of a Short Line engineer, working out of Glenn's Ferry. These examinations have been in force on the Short Line for a number of years, and one of the oldest freight engineers on the system was discharged from the service about two years ago after it was found that he had been running an engine there for eight years with a glass eye, contrary to all the rules governing the road under the physical tests.

The examining doctors had passed this man every year after a close examination, as prescribed in the rules, and he was finally promoted to a passenger run.

He was a very successful, cautious, able man, of good habits and genial temperament. Soon after his promotion to the passenger run, he was married, and his wife gave the secret away to a friend, and the story reached the ears of the superintendent, who ordered an immediate examination.

The same doctors who had always examined the engineer, went down to Glenn's Ferry, and called him in. It was found that he had a perfect glass eye, so nearly alike the natural eye, that these doctors had given him the eye tests, year after year, without detecting his infirmity. He could wink the eyelid of the glass eye and squinted it as a man would a good eye in talking and reading his orders, and he would have probably worked for years without interruption had his proud wife not boasted of his shrewdness in escaping the doctors. He was immediately discharged from the service and is now running an engine in a saw-mill near Sumpter.

ARBOR CULTURE.

Trees and Flowers Planted by the Public School Scholars.

The pupils of the public school will go gardening in a short time, and by next fall will have all kinds of flowers and green things for the decoration of the assembly hall and the winning of prizes at the annual flower show.

Last year the children were supplied with seed by the principal, and from this they raised flowers, received prizes for the best single specimen, the best assortment and the finest of one variety. At the exhibition when school began this year some very fine specimens were shown that had been grown by the pupils during the vacation time.

This year the matter has not been taken up as yet, but it will be in a short time and seed will be distributed and the gardening will begin. Superintendent Conklin has received a shipment of small shade trees from the government, which he will set out in the campus, and which will add much to the beauty of the grounds.

ROOSEVELT EXTRAVAGANCE.

President's Private Account Against the People Nearly One Million.

Washington, March 19.—President Roosevelt's latest request, which was transmitted to congress through Secretary Shaw, is for $200,000 for a new White House stable.

The one now in use, he says, is so damp that the health of his horses is suffering. They are threatened with influenza, according to the president, who uses Secretary Taft as a witness, and he wants a new home built for them on higher ground before they catch the disease and are permanently affected.

Col. Symons, superintendent of public buildings and grounds, in a report to Secretary Taft, said that a number of the president's best horses practically have been ruined by being kept in the old stables, which are damp and unhealthful. The president keeps eight horses in the stable, and Archie's pony Algonquin also is kept there.

If the president gets the new stable it will run his expense account against the government up to more than $210,000, divided as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Description and Amount. Includes items like 'Restoring and refurnishing the White House', 'Six-room office building at the White House', etc.

Total $910,641. These figures do not take into account the great naval display off Oyster Bay last summer, ordered by the President, which cost many thousands of dollars.

UTILIZE DEAD SEA.

Enormous Power Plants to Be Erected on a Canal Draining His Body of Water.

It is believed that before very long the famous Dead Sea will be exploited for industrial purposes. French engineers are at work on three different projects with this purpose in view.

According to the Boston Transcript the level of the Dead Sea being more than 1300 feet below that of the Mediterranean and Red Seas, it is thought by connecting either of these two seas by means of a canal with the Red Sea a stream of water would flow with a velocity calculated to produce some 25,000 horsepower.

There is no danger, it is asserted, of an overflowing of the Dead Sea, for the waters there evaporate at so great a rate (6,000,000 tons a day), that the incoming waters would make no appreciable difference in the level. One project is to start the canal from the Bay of Acre, lead it southward past Mt. Tabor, and let it join at Baisan, the waters of the Jordan.

Another plan is to build the canal along the railway line from Jaffa to Jerusalem. But this would mean blasting a tunnel of some 27 miles through the mountains of Old Judea. The third project, the cheapest, proposes to start at Akaba, in the Red Sea, and pass through the desert of Wady-el-Jebel. Having obtained power in this manner, it is thought many industrial works would be carried on.

Gives Birth to Five Boys.

David Swope, a workman on the Wabash bridge, was handed a message from his home at Pittsburg last Friday, which read: "Annie gave birth to five boys today. Come home at once. Annie and the boys are doing well." Swope asked for his pay and said he was going right home. He said: "Annie might have given me a housekeeper, but to hand me five bridge workers is a pretty hard jolt. One thing is certain, I won't name one of them after prominent men or a politician." He left immediately for Fulton county, where his wife lives on a farm with her father.

Underground New York.

The boring of the North river tunnel, which was begun in 1874, but was interrupted for a number of years owing to a terrible accident, in which many lives were lost, have finally been completed and there is considerable satisfaction over the prospect of an early completion of the gigantic work. With a tunnel under the Hudson and miles of underground subways in Manhattan, subterranean New York promises to become as formidable if not more so than underground Rome or Paris.
