When the venerable King Christian of the little Danish kingdom to the north observed his birthdaly yesterday, messages of hearty congratulation poured in upon him from all of the courts of Europe. It is doubtful, however, if King Leopold has received a single felicitous note on the occasion of his birthday, though the foreign diplomats, bound by custom and etiquette, called to pay their respects on behalf of their respective sovereigns.

Among the sovereigns of Europe there appears to be just at present a well defined disposition to boycott the Belgian king.
