DON'T WANT MUCH

SOUTH DAKOTA SETTLER TURNS TO UMATILLA.

Seeks a County Where Lightning Will Not Strike Him Nor Blizzards Freeze Him—Would Like to Die a Natural Death—Commercial Association Receives Many Interesting Letters From Anxious Homeseekers Who Would Leave the East.

The following letter from a resident of North Dakota is a sample of the inquiries received from intending settlers, every day, by Secretary J. F. Robinson, of the Commercial Association.

Some of them are even more emphatic in their determination to leave the blizzard-ridden East than this man, but it is a fair sample of the literary matter that graces the desk of the secretary of Pendleton's live commercial association, and a hurried answer was sent to the anxious homeseeker, telling him of the glories of the country and sending him in advance a warm welcome to Umatilla county. Aside from a personal answer to the letter, the association turned the letter over to E. T. Wade & Son, who will write him more fully on the subject.

Mr. Wade will write him that even in this country a man takes the risk of dying a violent death, while not necessarily from lightning, it may be from different causes. In the first place the climate is so exhilarating that a man gets gay and young after a short residence here and his exuberant spirits may get him into trouble, which might result in serious bodily harm.

The letter is as follows: Mitchell, S. D., April 4, 1904.

Secretary Commercial Club, Pendleton, Or.—I am looking for a new location and would like to get into or close to a city of 2,000 to 6,000 population, where general farming and fruit is a success.

I want a city where fuel is not too expensive and where there is a Catholic church and school, but first of all, I want a country where it is warmer than here, where there is little or no snow in winters, where water is good and where the climate is dry and healthful, where winds don't blow so blamed hard and much as they do here, where there are no dust storms or sand storms, where lightning does not keep one in constant fear and a man would have an opportunity to die a natural death if he behaved himself, and live reasonably comfortable during his stay on this earth, where there is a chance to earn bread and butter by hustling at any old thing. I do not expect to find all my wants, but am going to try the place that I think is nearest. What has your place to offer?

I would like to know the annual rainfall and, too, what amount of foggy and damp days you usually have per year. I am writing this letter to about a half a dozen places, but no other town in your vicinity. I am going to make a change if I can see any place to better myself, not from a standpoint of wanting a place of prosperity, as this country is all right in that respect, but the climate is too much for me here. I would want to rent till I could build, so would like the name of some real estate outfit that rents property, as I want to do something soon. Yours respectfully, FRANK VAN WAGENEN.
