IN POLICE COURT

OLESON, THE REGULAR IS IN CITY JAIL AGAIN.

Steady Vag, Drunk and Bootlegger—Another Chronic Receives His Regular Prescription From Judge Fitz Gerald—Other Delectables Disposed of—City is Ahead a Suit of Clothes and a Few Stray Dollars.

Pete Oleson, the regular boarder at the city jail, was arrested last night for being drunk, and for peddling whiskey to Indians, though the latter is more a supposition than a fact, in the minds of the officers. He was given five days in jail.

Harry Bennett, who has also written his name on the register at the city hotel before, was arrested last night for being drunk and donated $5 towards the city expense account.

TI Carney, a young Indian who was named after the city marshal, was taken in custody by the night police this morning for being drunk. He had $5 which he gave to the city.

Andrew Barnhart, the Indian who gave the police such a chase a couple of days ago, and who was sent to the city jail or five days as a consequence, managed to dig up the remaining $8 standing between him and freedom, and was allowed to go.

Marshal Carney found a suit of clothes this morning, which he now has on exhibition waiting for someone to claim it. The clothes were found behind one of the saloons, and had been evidently stolen and thrown away when it was found they would not fit.

WHEAT LOOKING FINE.

Umatilla County Never Had a Better Stand at This Season of the Year.

Reports from all portions of Umatilla county say that the stand of wheat this spring excels anything ever seen in the county before.

In the Athena and Weston districts the grain is now from seven inches to one foot in height, of the darkest green color and well stooled, making it the best stand ever seen.

A farmer said to the East Oregonian today that it seemed that he could almost see his crop grow these warm days. The ground is full of moisture, and the grain is so high now that even weeks of hot sun will not bake the surface of the ground, as it is protected by the stand of wheat, and taken altogether the crop prospect in Umatilla county is even better than in 1897, when the bumper crop of 5,000,000 was grown. The corn acreage in the vicinity of Athena will be about the same as last year.

WILL ARGUE DEMURRER.

Defense in Land Case is on the Alert—Gone to Portland.

Judge J. J. Balleray and Colonel James H. Raley left this morning for Portland, where they were called to argue their demurrer to the indictment in the case of the United States vs. Charles Cunningham et al.

The time of hearing was set for this afternoon at 2 o'clock before Judge Bellinger, of the Federal court, and the Pendleton attorneys will contend that the indictment returned by the Federal grand jury did not contain facts sufficient to constitute a crime.

Drew the Suit.

Charles Marsh, of the Hartman Abstract office, was the lucky man at the suit drawing at Sullivan & Bond's Saturday evening, winning the suit.

Brewers and liquor dealers of Portland have begun the anti-local option crusade.

DEATH OF COL. BOYD

AN EMINENT CITIZEN GONE FROM AMONG US.

Passed Peacefully Away Last Night—A Soldier With an Enviably Record and a Civilian Whose Life and Works Were Above Reproach—Ex-Union and Ex-Confederates Will Unite Tomorrow to Do Him Honor.

Col. E. D. Boyd, who has been seriously ill for the past year, died at his home last night at midnight.

Several weeks ago it was thought at one time that the suaver had breathed his last, but he rallied and seemed to be gaining strength from that time on Sunday afternoon, and again yesterday, he was wheeled out into the sunshine for the first time in several months, and seemed to be stronger and brighter than for some time. Last night he suddenly grew worse, and passed away about 12 o'clock.

Funeral Tomorrow.

The body will be taken to the Masonic hall, where it will be watched over by the lodge until the time of the funeral, which will be tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Episcopal church, of which he was a life long member. Rev. Andreas Bard of Walla Walla, will conduct the services. The interment will be in Olney cemetery.

The deceased leaves two sisters, Mrs. Mary Clifton and Miss Ida clared, Col. Boyd went to Richmond, where he went into business and remained for several years.

He next went to Somerville, Tenn., where he was called to take charge of the Somerville academy, as principal. He held this position until 1867, when he established Phillip's academy in Arkansas, continuing as principal of that institution for four years.

Col. Boyd turned his attention to journalism in 1873, when he commenced the publication of the Arkansas Grange at Little Rock. At the same time he was the state lecturer for the Patrons of Husbandry. The people of the state called him to the senate in 1878 and he served them with ability and distinction in that office for four years. While in the legislature he was the chairman of the senate committee, appointed to investigate the condition of the books of the state treasurer and the auditor, and it was through his efforts largely, that a large defalcation was discovered.

During the gubernatorial battle of 1878, in which Baxter and Brooks struggled to become governor of the state of Arkansas, and through what was afterward termed the Baxter-Brooks war, Mr. Boyd was a staunch supporter of Baxter, both in public utterance and in print, and when Mr. Baxter was declared to be the governor of the state, the services of his friend were acknowledged by an appointment on the official staff of the governor, which office he filled during the term.

Col. Boyd next moved to Fort Worth, Texas, where he entered the brokerage business, of which he made the usual success. After some years spent in the Texas city, Col. Boyd moved to Chicago, where he

G. A. R. Will Participate.

Kit Carson Post, G. A. R., is commanded to meet at Hendricks' hall at 2 p. m., April 13, to attend as a body the funeral of Colonel E. D. Boyd.

All ex-Confederate soldiers in the community are invited to meet with the post and march with it to the Church of the Redeemer.

This meeting of the post is in consonance with an invitation from the family of the deceased to attend the funeral, and the invitation to the ex-Confederates to meet with us is in accordance with the expressed wishes of all the ex-Federal soldiers whose wishes could be ascertained.

The post as a body, and its individual members, are pleased and proud of the invitation. They remember the colonel's broad tolerance as illustrated by the fact that he contributed to the purchase of the stars and stripes, which will be carried tomorrow at the head of the marching veterans of the Union army and their brethren who were participants in the great struggle of 1861-5, but upon the opposite side.

G. W. RIGBY, Commander.

Biographical Sketch.

Edward D. Boyd was born in Lynchburg, Virginia, February 14, 1843. His father was James M. Boyd, one of the prominent figures in the state of Virginia in the commercial, literary and political world. The son grew to early manhood at Lynchburg and there received his education, graduating from the Lynchburg college at the age of 18. This was in 1861, and when the South rushed to arms to defend their state and homes, Colonel Boyd was one of the first to join the ranks of the Virginia soldiers who served through the war with Jackson and Lee. In this bloody conflict Mr. Boyd received the title of colonel, which he has borne until the day of his death.

He enlisted as a private in the artillery and was with the division of General Johnson during the war. He served under General Mosby, and was promoted to a colonelcy in his brigade for valiant service. When Lee laid down his arms at Appomattox and peace had been de-engaged in business for some time.

In 1888 he came to Pendleton and soon after reaching here opened a brokerage business taking Frank B. Clifton as his partner. This firm was continued until 1898, when Mr. Clifton withdrew, since which time the business has been conducted under the name of Col. E. D. Boyd.

Col. Boyd was a man to whom this city and the entire eastern part of the state owes much. He was progressive in his ideas and was always among the first to help on the advancement of the community.

He was a charter member of the Commercial Association, and was for three years president of that body, at a time when it was doing much for the good of the city and the advancement of its interests.

He was prominently identified with the democratic party of Eastern Oregon, and was for three years chairman of the democratic county central committee. He was fearless in his views, conservative in his statements and a man upon whose judgment and honor the people placed the utmost dependence.

Col. Boyd was a prominent member of the Masonic fraternity and also of the Elks.

WHY MOTHERS WORRY

Did you ever hear a mother worry over a plump child? There is no better bank of health for a child to draw from than a good supply of healthy flesh.

Scott's Emulsion not only gives a child weight and plumpness, but it feeds the brain, bones and nerves with strength and active power.

Fewer mothers would worry if they knew more about Scott's Emulsion.

COUNTY COURT.

Saloon License Granted, and Viewers Appointed.

The county court considered the petition presented by J. H. Tomlinson of Umatilla, who wished to be granted the privilege of conducting a saloon in that place. The petition having been properly advertised, the court granted it.

The petition of William Baker of Adams, was also considered. Mr. Baker asked for a road of public easement from his place near Adams to the county road, and viewers and a surveyor were appointed by the court to investigate and lay it out.

There being no other business advertised for this meeting of the court, it adjourned until the next regular time of meeting.

Notarial Commission.

A notarial commission has been issued to Cecil R. Wade by Governor Chamberlain, and is now on file in the office of the county clerk.

A French Naval Officer

In 1720 brought a coffee plant in a flower pot to the West Indies. From this one tree originated all of the coffee trees of the American continent, and which together furnish about three-quarters of the world's supply.

The tree is rather dwarfish in size and grows to about the height of an American wild plum, blossoming in the spring and yielding one crop annually. The ripening period lasts for five or six months, and one often sees the ripe berry and blossoms on the same tree. The blossoms are white and fragrant.
