CONTEST ON MAY 6

WILL BE INTERESTING
DECLAMATORY AFFAIR.

Ten High School Students Will Recite May 6—The Winner Will Go to Walla Walla to Contest in a General Elocutionary Affair May 13—Program Will Be Interspersed With Music.

The contestants for the declamatory contest at the high school have been selected, and are now busy putting the finishing touches to their recitations for the evening of May 6, when the try-out will be held in Assembly hall.

There are 10 students entered for the contest who have been chosen from the different classes. Each has chosen a recitation which will be presented on the evening of May 6. From the number the best will be decided by judges appointed by the management of the school, who will take into consideration the correctness of delivery as well as the stage presence, and the successful student will be sent to Walla Walla May 13 to compete in the interscholastic contest between the high schools and academies of the Blue mountain country.

On that day the track teams from Union, Baker City, La Grande, Walla Walla and Spokane will meet at Walla Walla to settle their differences in an athletic way, and in the evening the declamatory contest will be held.

The students who will try for the honor of going to Walla Walla are George Strand, "Emmett's Vindication"; Glen Scott, "Ben Hur's Chariot Race"; Milton Shaw, "The Horse and Its Rider"; Albert Warner, "Virginia"; Clara Boylen, "At Noe's House"; Jessie Raymond, "Home, Sweet Home"; Orville Reeves, "Devotion to Duty"; Margaret Williams, "The Famine"; David Hill, "Mona's Waters"; Javina Stanfield, "Aux Italiens."

This program will be interspersed with musical numbers provided by the students, assisted by talent from the city.

DOG TAX DECISION

CITY SCORES AGAINST THE TURNER BROTHERS.

The Defendants Believe in the Legality of the Stand They Took, But Do Not Feel Able to Make a Fight—Issue is the Double Assessment of Canines—E. E. Turner Asks to Have His Fine Remitted—Drunk and Disorderly Pays a Fine.

The city court had two cases this morning and one yesterday afternoon. The first one called this morning was that of John Murphy, charged with having been drunk and disorderly. He was fined $5, which he paid.

Yesterday afternoon the dog tax case of Elmer E. Turner was brought up and disposed of. Marshal Carney had arrested Mr. Turner on a charge of having and keeping a dog without paying a license, and for having refused to pay the license when asked by the police. The contention of the defendant was that his dog had been assessed once as personal property by the county assessor, and that he was not therefore in justice liable for another tax on the same property.

City Attorney Carter presented the case to the court in behalf of the city, and Mr. Turner spoke in his own defense. The court fined the defendant $5 for having disregarded the ordinance by not having paid the tax when called upon to do so. Upon the request of Mr. Turner he was given until this morning to consider the advisability of appealing.

This morning Mr. Turner appeared and asked to have the fine remitted and allow him to pay his dog tax, as it would be too expensive to fight the decision. The matter was referred to the council, the court holding that since the council had ordered the cases brought, and the fine had been imposed, it lay in the power of that body and not with the court to remit the penalty.

O. F. Turner, who was brought into court this morning on a similar charge as that lodged against his brother, had decided to pay his tax with no further delay, and upon the motion of the city attorney he was allowed to take out a dog license, and the case against him was dismissed.

"BROWN'S IN TOWN."

Scant Audience Saw a Fairly Good Play.

Perhaps more people would have been present at the Frazer last night to see that Brown had certainly reached town, if it had not been for the Sunday school convention, or perhaps the people were saving their money to buy seats for the Davenport lecture. At any rate, the house could have accommodated more.

Brown is very funny when he comes to town, provided he does not forget to leave his specialties behind him, for the fun and the meat of the play is in the specialties. Last night these brighteners were missed, with the exception of twice. These, however, were very good and the play served to pass the time from dinner to bed time. All things considered, it was very good, but it would have been better had it had more to offer than the straight play, which is really only a peg upon which to hang the bright turns that go to make it a success.

BINGHAM SPRINGS SANITARIUM

H. G. Kelley Has Leased Popular Resort and Will Make a Specialty of Treating Consumption.

The Bingham Springs hotel and summer resort has been leased by H. G. Kelley, an experienced hotel and sanitarium man from the East, and the place will be refitted and remodeled and made one of the very foremost resorts in Eastern Oregon. Instead of keeping the hotel open to tourists and campers only during the summer months, Mr. Kelley will make a sanitarium of the place, especially for the treatment of consumption, and will keep open during the entire year for the treatment and accommodation of consumptives.

Mr. Kelley is an experienced sanitarium man and believes that the pine ozone of the Blue mountains, the pure water and mountain air are three necessary and vital elements in the cure of consumption. The resort will be opened to the public in the near future.

Digging Potatoes in April.

H. W. Swart, O. R. & N. agent at Bingham Springs, has a man at work digging potatoes that were left in the ground over winter. The potatoes are in good condition and are seemingly as new and fresh as if they had just matured. Some few of them are sprouting, but not enough to spoil them for use. He planted 20 acres on his Meacham creek farm last year and left a small portion of the crop in the ground as an experiment and finds that it is a successful method of keeping them over.

Umatilla County Pioneer Leaves. James Simonton, who has resided in the vicinity of Uxell for the past 36 years, will leave next week for Spokane, where he will make his future home.

As a result of a raise of 25 per cent in telephone rates in Albany, citizens of that locality will establish a co-operative system.
