COUNTY FAIR PROPOSED.

Will Be Discussed by Commercial Association Tonight.

The Commercial Association will hold its regular monthly meeting this evening in the association rooms. Some business of importance will be transacted, and plans will be laid for holding a farmers' congress here at some early date. A great many people are asking that the city make arrangements to hold a fair in Pendleton some time during the fall, when all residents of the county can have a chance to bring their stock and other products of their farms to the exhibition. It is contended that such a fair would be a great advertisement to the town and county, and that it is to the general interest that such a movement is inaugurated. The subject will be talked over this evening and plans laid for pushing the project if it is thought feasible.

ANTICS OF THE FROST.

Fruit Crop is Thinned Down so the Trees Can Bear the Load.

Frost has killed and injured some fruit in the west end of the city, cherries, peaches, strawberries and pears being particularly injured. A noticeable feature of the injuries is that trees a few feet away from those on which the fruit is all killed, are not touched. On the hill, on each side, in the residence portion of the city, no signs of the frost are visible, but many orchards in the river bottom have suffered. In many orchards the frost thinned out the fruit just enough to make room for a good crop on the trees, the load of young fruit being far too great for the trees to bear, before the frost came.

PIONEERS IN TOWN.

Arrival of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Johns, of Fairview.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Johns are in town the guests of Mrs. John's mother, Mrs. A. M. Raley. Mr. and Mrs. Johns have been traveling for the past seven months in hopes of benefiting the health of Mrs. Johns. At the time of the death of Mrs. William Fitzgerald, who was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johns, Mrs. Johns had a stroke of paralysis. Mr. and Mrs. Johns will be remembered by all old-time residents of this county. In 1865 Mr. Johns married Miss Goodwin at the old emigrant crossing just below town. Mr. Goodwin at that time owned the farm upon which, sometime later, Pendleton was located. In 1868 a son, Charles Johns, was born to them in a house close to the old bridge where the Pendleton Hotel now stands. This child was the first white child born in Pendleton.

After a few years spent in Washington Territory, Mr. Johns moved with his family in 1871 to Weston, where for many years he ran the St. John Hotel. His daughter, Mrs. William Fitzgerald, formerly Miss Rhoda Johns, taught school in Pendleton for nine years. For some years past Mr. and Mrs. Johns have resided at Fairview, near Portland.

HELIX WHEAT PROSPECTS.

W. & C. R. Passes Through the Best Wheat District in the West.

S. B. Calderhead, general freight and passenger agent of the W. & C. R., is in the city this afternoon on business connected with his road. The W. & C. R. passes through one of the richest wheat belts in the United States, near Helix, in this county, and that company expects to handle the largest amount of wheat this year, in its history. Near Helix and in the country tributary to that station, the stand of wheat is excellent. Old settlers say that there were never better prospects, at this season, than now. Even in the spring of 1897, the year in which the bumper crop of 5,000,000 bushels was raised, in this county, the prospects were poorer on the first of May than they are this year.
