THE PRIMARY LAW

STATE LEAGUE SENDS OUT COMPREHENSIVE SYNOPSIS.

Reasons Why Voters Should Favor the Direct Primary Amendment Lucidly Set Forth in Circular Letter—Law is Successful in Other States—Voters and Lovers of Good Government Invited to Study it.

The Direct Primary Nominating League of Oregon has sent out the following circular letter to every newspaper in the state and to many of the individual voters. It clearly sets forth the objects of the primary law that is to be voted upon in June and should be studied carefully by those interested in the maintenance of good government through the people. The circular is as follows:
We ask your vote for the direct primary nominating election law, No. 202 on the official ballot, for the following reasons: It makes the people's votes the only power to nominate candidates for public office, and so destroys the party boss system. This is one of the greatest powers in our government, perhaps greater than the right to elect the officers from among the candidates after the nomination.

The men who really govern are those in the great parties who can make or break candidates for nomination. So long as these bosses can nominate their friends for office the government will be good for the bosses no matter who is elected.

When the people nominate the candidates as well as elect the officers, the government will be good for the people, no matter who is elected.

Men have died for the right to cast the ballot, and surely the right to make the ballot is not less valuable or sacred than the right to vote it.

No man would think of having delegates or conventions do his voting at the general election, and it is quite as important that he do his own voting at the nominating election.

In the last two years bills have been introduced in 22 legislatures for primary nominating elections. This bill is submitted for the approval or rejection of the people because it cannot be defeated at the ballot box by political tricks and trades.

If you enact this law you will choose your party candidates at a nominating election, and no combination of bosses will be able to name the candidates for your party, much less can they make a state for both parties.

This bill is endorsed by many republican county conventions and by the democratic state convention. By a political trick of the managers the question was not allowed to come before the republican state convention.

It is not a partisan measure in any sense of the word. Senator Mitchell, Governor Chamberlain and other broad-minded statesmen and politicians who are strong in an open contest before the people favor this bill. And with them are nearly all the men who trust the people and believe they are fit and able for self-government.

The men who fear the people, and all little politicians who must have a nomination given to them if they ever get one, and all the bootlickers and bosses who make money out of politics, are against the bill.

It is not expensive, for it will cost about 35 cents every two years for each voter, or $35,000 for the state.

But the power to make nominations must be worth more than it costs, for the politicians do not complain of the expense.

It is not more cumbersome or complicated than the Australian ballot law, and it is drawn on the same principles. Nominations will be made by the highest number of votes just as the constitution requires in all elections.

The best government is possible only by having the best men of all parties for candidates, and the people can trust no one but themselves to choose such candidates. Nominations cannot be bought nor stolen from the people as they have been from conventions.

When the people nominate, every candidate for nomination must stand alone on his own merits, and months before the nominating election his friends will be proclaiming his character, record, ability and fitness for the place. But they will never boast of his payments to the "primary fund," nor of the places he has found in his office for the friends of the "managing committee" at the expense of the taxpayers. And he who has not two friends per 100 members of his party who want to sign a petition to put his name on the party nominating ballot, is a very poor stick to ask the people to trust him with an office.

The Bill Provides
That on petition of two per cent of the party vote the county clerk will print the candidate's name on party nominating ballot. If he receives the highest number of his party votes at the nominating election he has his party's nomination and his name will be printed on the official ballot as its candidate. None but registered members of the party can sign his petition. None but members of a party can vote this ballot at the nominating election, but this does not apply to the general election in June for public officers. This enables members of a party to make its nominations without interference by other parties or mercenary voters. Every political party is given the right to the sole and exclusive use of all of its party name. This will prevent candidates for spite as well as fusion.

Political parties casting 25 per cent or more of the total vote must nominate all their candidates under this law. It does not apply to city elections in towns of less than 2,000 population.

Independent candidates and political parties casting less than 25 per cent of the total vote must continue to nominate as they do now under the Australian ballot law, which is Sec. 2791 B. & C. Codes.

Candidates for nomination for the legislative assembly may pledge the people in their petition that they will, or will not, vote for the people's choice for United States Senator, regardless of their personal preference. The bill provides for nominations for that office.

Senator Mitchell and many others believe this will prevent the nomination of any candidate for the legislature who does not pledge himself to vote for the people's choice, and thus result practically in the direct election of our senators in congress. The legislature will simply ratify the people's choice in much the same way that the president is elected.

The judges and clerks of the general election act also at the primary nominating election. All the proceedings for each party so far as possible are the same as at the general election. Each party has its separate ballot, but the nominating election is at the same time and place for all parties subject to the bill. The vote is by secret ballot, which gives every man an equal opportunity before the people of his party.

It does not destroy political parties but provides for their government by their registered members just as a city is governed by its registered voters.

This law does not make any change in the Australian ballot or the method of voting at regular general elections. It provides for opening the registration books from September 20th to October 20th before each presidential election.

Public officers will more faithfully serve the people because their political life will depend always upon the people and no one else.
If you enact this law you place the governing power more directly in the hands of the people, and therefore carry it a step nearer to the American ideal of a government of the people, by the people, and for the people.

YOUNG WIFEHOOD
BOSTON, MASS., 152 Shawmut Ave., Oct. 25, 1902.
After I had been married about four months I felt my health generally decline. I seemed to lose the light step and dragged wearily along instead. My appetite failed me and I lost health and strength. I was nervous and had shooting pains through my limbs and stomach while bearing down pains and constant headaches added to my misery. The menstrual flow became more and more profuse and I was unfit to attend to my daily duties. My husband called in three different physicians and I took enough medicine to kill or cure a dozen women, but it all had no effect on me whatever, until I took Wine of Cardui. In a few days I felt a change for the better, my general health improved and at the next time of my periods my flow was more natural and I was in less pain. Gradually I recovered my health and strength and am now in perfect health. I take an occasional dose of Wine of Cardui which keeps me well.
I am happy to give you this endorsement.
Betty Ricker

The state of Oregon has been experimenting with its young salmon to determine if they return to the place where they were spawned, and finds that they do, with great regularity. Marked fish from the Klamath hatchery, turned loose three years ago, have been caught there by the dozens this year.
