AMONG THE EXCHANGES OF THE INLAND EMPIRE

Idaho Wool and Sheep.

The wool movement this season has been surprisingly good and prices have thus far been well maintained. Shearing in many localities has been somewhat backward owing to the lateness of the season but more large clips have been disposed of already than were marketed at this time last year.

During the past few days John McMillan, Andrew Little, the Butterfield Livestock Company, Pence & Payne and Brown & Stewart have sold their clips at satisfactory prices. The staple is much better than it has been for years. Including the small clips and wool of all qualities the market prices have ranged from 12 1/2 to 14 cents.

Just now Mountainhome is the chief center of activity. No less than 170 bands of sheep are located within a radius of a few miles of that point. Shearing is in full blast, both by hand and machine, and it is estimated that not less than 3,000,000 pounds of wool will be placed on the market from Mountainhome alone.

In many instances shearing has been postponed until after lambing this year because of the condition of the weather. As a rule machine shearing is favored over the old method. Woolgrowers claim they obtain from one-half to three-quarters of a pound more wool from the machine and the clips are more uniform and command better prices. The sheep are nicely trimmed by the machines and are not cut up as by the hand shears. In point of speed there appears to be little choice between the old and the new methods.—Boise Statesman.

Look for Bumper Crop.

A special to the Lewiston Tribune from Kendrick, Idaho, says: "Spring work on the farms is being finished up and fall sown grain is reported as looking fine with the prospect very flattering for a bumper crop of grain this fall. The grain acreage is large this season so that the grain receipt will be at the top notch this fall at Kendrick. While spring work is a month later than usual, farmers hope for the season being much longer so as to complete harvest operations before the fall rains begin. Those who held grain on their farms for spring delivery are taking advantage of the improvement in the roads and finishing up of farm work and are hauling the grain to the warehouses which is causing business to look up."

Grand Ronde Apples to Nome.

The Blue Mountain Fruit Co. this evening ship a car of apples from Engin grown on Pumpkin ridge. This announcement deserves more than passing notice for the reason that there are few fruit sections on this coast that can grow and market commercial apples this late in the season. This car goes to Seattle and from there will be shipped to Alaska mines. These are of the Ben Davis variety and it is needless to say the fruit is in prime condition or it would not be considered suitable for this destination.—La Grande Observer.

Potato Crop Pays.

Charles C. Miles, a farmer from the Webb Ridge section, is visiting in the city. Mr. Miles has recently marketed his potato crop which was dug only a few weeks ago. The price for which the crop was contracted was 75 cents per sack but during the last few weeks the price has advanced to a dollar. Mr. Miles states that the digging, sacking and marketing of his crop cost less than $12 per acre and the average yield of a four-acre tract is 100 sacks of marketable potatoes per acre.—Lewiston Tribune.

LARGER FUR CATCH.

Other Items of Interest About the Local Markets. The hide and pelt men will ship to Portland the first of next week, having more than a usual amount of those products on hand. During the past week approximately 150 bear hides have come in, and about 300 sheep pelts. Only a few horse hides are on hand at this time.

Last winter's crop of fur-bearing pelts was considerably larger than the average winter's output, in spite of the fact that more hunters and trappers marketed their catch directly, and not through the local fur buyers. Only one bear hide was brought into this market last winter that was marketable—all the remainder were practically useless on account of poor handling or for other reasons.

Strawberries are somewhat a little cheaper, being now 29 cents per box. The local crop will put in an appearance about the 20th. The prospects are that it will not be as large a crop as last year on account of the late freeze, but all are agreed that the quality will be superb. There will not be a shortage by any means, but not as abundant a crop as last year. All that are in the market now come from California.

Fresh green products of this season are becoming more plentiful and are reasonably cheap.

WOOL IN DEMAND.

Buyers Flooding to the Idaho Shearing Pens.

Secretary Monte B. Gwinn of the Idaho Woolgrowers' Association yesterday placed an order for 5,000 tons of stock salt for the members of the organization, says the Boise Statesman. The sheepmen will use considerably more than this amount of salt during the season.

From all reports it is judged that the sheep will go into the mountains this year in much better condition than usual. The animals are higher in flesh, owing to the favorable winter, than they have been for several years.

All the prominent woolbuyers are on the ground working night and day. At Mountainhome the buyers are in full force and are scouting about on horseback and in vehicles among the growers. In the wake of the buyers are the railroad men who are looking after the wool shipments. Spot cash is being paid for most of the wool and the season, as a whole, is one of the best in years.
