SCRAPS OF JAPAN'S ROMANTIC HISTORY

The skill and courage displayed by the mikado's sailors in their successful attacks on the Russian warships are not surprising to anybody who is familiar with Japanese history. From the earliest times of which there is any record, the Japanese have been daring and ever victorious sea fighters. Over and over again their junks fought those of the Chinese, the Mongols, and the Koreans; and they always managed not merely to defeat, but to annihilate them. Japan is used to being the mistress of the Far Eastern seas, and her story tellers can reel off a string of Viking sagas every bit as wonderful as those of Norway and Denmark. The Emperor Jimmu, who founded the present Japanese dynasty 660 years before the birth of Christ, was every inch a Viking, and he won his empire in the good, old Viking way by fitting out a fleet at the island of Kyushu and sailing out upon the "swan's bath" to see what he could annex from his neighbors. He landed on the main island of Japan, after sinking or capturing all the ships he met. The natives naturally objected, but the fierce Vikings defeated them in battle after battle, by land and sea. At length, 80 of the leading native chiefs and warriors were caught in a cave and mercilessly slaughtered. Perhaps the most glorious episode in the naval annals of Japan was the annihilation of the Mongol invaders in 1281 A. D. Kublai Khan, the Mongol Napoleon, demanded tribute from Japan. The Japanese made him an unmistakable answer by cutting off the heads of his envoys. Kublai Khan thereupon sent an immense fleet, with over a hundred thousand soldiers aboard, to invade Japan. The Japanese had only a few far inferior ships at that time, but they fought several hot battles off the coast of Kyushu. Then their good friend Ryugu came to their help with a severe storm, which destroyed many of the enemy's vessels and dispersed his fleet. Taking prompt advantage of this chance the Japanese vigorously attacked and annihilated the invaders. It is said that only three Mongols returned to tell the tale. The Japanese regard this great victory in the same light that the English regard the defeat of the Spanish Armada. One of the famous sea fights in Japanese history was the battle of Dan-no-ura, which ended the civil war between the Taira and Minamoto clans in the twelfth century. Taira had been worsted in land fighting, so they set sail, with their families and belongings, in five hundred junks, hoping to escape from their enemies and to live quietly on another island. But the Minamoto pursued them in 700 junks. Encumbered by their women and children, the fugitives were at a disadvantage, but they put up a splendid fight. The Japs had no cannon in those days and they did not worry about maneuvering. They simply grappled their ships together, and fought hand to hand with bows and arrows, spears, swords, and battle-axes. Japanese artists are fond of depicting the horrors of this Homeric combat with an abundance of realistic detail that might turn Verestchagin green with envy. The Taira were annihilated, men, women and children being alike slaughtered. Only a small remnant escaped. The Japanese junks in use when the Dutch and the Portuguese first visited Japan were far less seaworthy even than the unwieldy, impractical European vessels of that time. They had improved scarcely at all on the ship of a much earlier period, which is shown in the ancient Toyokuni color print reproduced lately. Yet the Japanese sailors made daring voyages in these frail craft throughout the whole of the eastern seas, heedless of cyclones and typhoons. They frequently visited Siam and India, and even planted a colony at Goa. They claim to rival the Vikings, too, in the discovery of the American continent, for there are records showing that vessels sailed from Japan in the early days of the country's history to the western coast of Mexico.

THE PRESBYTERIANS

116TH GENERAL ASSEMBLY MEETS AT BUFFALO.
 Over 600 Commissioners Have Received Cards of Assignment in the Convention—239 Presbyteries Are Represented—Question of Amalgamating With Cumberland Branch Will Be Discussed—Vital Subjects Are to Be Considered.
 Buffalo, N. Y., May 16.—Arrangements are practically completed for the meeting of the 116th Presbyterian General Assembly, which will begin here Thursday morning. The 600 commissioners have received their cards of assignment to their places of entertainment, and the Rev. Dr. William H. Roberts, stated clerk of the assembly, has practically completed the roll for organization. The commissioners represent 239 presbyteries and 32 synods in all parts of the world and many are arriving already from China, India, Japan, Korea, Siam, Africa, Mexico and South America, as well as from some of the remote parts of the United States. The most important issue to come before the assembly this year is the question of amalgamating with the Cumberland Presbyterian church and the Reformed Presbyterian church. Both bodies left the parent organization many years ago, owing to disputed points in government and doctrine. Many are now of the opinion that the members of the protesting bodies can and will conform to the present doctrine of the older and larger church and that a reunion is possible. The two ministers who are most prominently spoken of for moderator are the Rev. Dr. J. Addison Henry, pastor of the Princeton church, Philadelphia and Rev. Dr. James D. Moffat, president of Washington and Jefferson college.

BUTTER 42 YEARS OLD.

Buried in Stone Jar in Nebraska It Remains Sweet Nearly Half a Century.
 A stone jar of butter that had been buried for 42 years was found the other day on a farm in Burt county, in Northeastern Nebraska. Forty-two years ago a family by the name of Decatur lived on the place, and one day in summer this jar was packed and placed in the spring. A few days later, when one of the family went to get the butter it was gone and no search unearthed it. The Ponca Indians roamed the neighborhood, and the supposition was that it had been filched by some of them. The Decaturs lived and died, and the farm has changed hands several times since then. Two weeks ago a man was put at work excavating for an outbuilding close to the spring. At a considerable depth he encountered a stone jar. On being exposed to the air the jar crumbled to pieces and a four-pound roll of butter fell out. It was mouldy on the outside, but yellow and sweet inside. The butter was brought to town, and neighborhood tradition soon established that it was the self-same roll put in the spring house 42 years ago. A member of the Decatur family recalled the circumstances fully. An investigation of the spot disclosed the fact that the bottom of the old spring was in quicksand, and it is supposed that the weight of the jar and its contents caused it to drop to a firmer bottom, where it was kept intact all these years. This is undoubtedly the oldest roll of butter in the world, and steps have been taken to preserve it for exhibition at the St. Louis fair.

We Paid $100,000

For Ligozone—Yet We Give You a 50c. Bottle Free.
 This Company, after testing Ligozone for two years in the most difficult germ diseases, paid $100,000 for the American rights. That is by far the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery. We publish this fact to show you the value of Ligozone. Men of our class don't pay a price like that save for a product of remarkable worth to humanity.
Kills Inside Germs.
 The reason for that price is this: Ligozone alone can kill germs in the body without killing the tissues too. Nothing else in the world is so good for the human body; yet Ligozone is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a germ that it cannot kill. Ligozone destroys at once and forever the cause of any germ disease. And there is no other way to do it. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is helpless in troubles of this kind.
Not Medicine.
 Ligozone is not made by compounding drugs. Its virtues are derived solely from gas, made in large part from the best-oxygen producers. By a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time, this gas is made part of the liquid product. Ligozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. The result is a product that does what oxygen does. Oxygen is the very source of all vitality, the most essential element of life. Ligozone is a vitalizing tonic with which no other known product can compare. Its effects are exhilarating and purifying. But germs are vegetables; and Ligozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetable matter. Ligozone goes wherever the blood goes, destroying every germ in the body. In this way it cures diseases which medicine never cures. It will do more for sick humanity than all the drugs in the world combined.
Germ Diseases.
 These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Ligozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.
