WINS HERSELF THE UMATILLA

Pain From a Nervous Case Resulted in Mental Angement.

ANGLE WAS GREAT SUFFERER FOR YEARS.

ody Was Found Nearly Three Below a Point Opposite Her She Left a Note Pathetic in Evidence of Mental and Physical Suffering—Arrangements for the Burial Will Be Made When Out-Relatives Are Heard From.

ing behind her a pathetic note "This awful pain I can't stand any more with all my suffering, even for my boy's sake. I go to the river and I'll die. God bless my boy. Good-bye to you both, Anna." Anna Engles, of 512 West Bluff, the wife of John Engles, who for a long time has been employed at Platzoeder butcher shop as a cutter, this morning sought to end her trouble and suffering in the embrace of the Umatilla.

Engles a Great Sufferer.

Engles was a woman about 50 years of age, though she looked several years older, her face being seamed with wrinkles and her hair whitened by suffering. She has been suffering with nervous prostration for several years, and for the two years has been practically blind. Last summer she was taken to California and returned some months ago much improved, but had been here long until she began to feel and grew gradually worse until she was in almost constant pain.

This morning Mr. Engles found his wife seemingly better when he arose, and the morning meal was passed cheerfully. She gave Mr. Engles a letter for some meat to be sent up to him, and seemed to be in better spirits than for some time.

Mr. Engles went home for dinner at the usual time, shortly after 11 o'clock, and found the door locked. Finding it strange, he hunted up the key, which he found in the usual place, and entering the house found the note above quoted. He then descended from the house and notified the marshal, and a search was commenced.

Found Opposite Jane Street.

The body was found a short time after 1 o'clock at a point opposite residence of Wesley Matlock. It had lodged under the roots of a large tree that had straddled the high water and stretched out over the current.

HITCHCOCK SEES A SCHEME.

Suspects the Provision of Congress to Sell the Grand Ronde Indian Reservation to One Man.

Washington, May 21.—Secretary Hitchcock has expressed his disapproval of the provision of the bill passed by congress for the sale of the Indian lands on the Grand Ronde reservation, in Yamhill county.

The bill provides that the land may be sold in separate tracts or in one body to suit the purchaser, and as the reservation consists of 27,000 acres, the secretary sees a scheme of some friends of Congressman Hermann to take over the entire body, against the spirit of the government, which intends the remaining vacant lands for the use of the actual settler.

If the land is bid in by one person, or if the bids show collusion on the part of land sharks to gain control of the entire body, the secretary will reject all their bids, as prescribed by law.

DIVORCE CASE.

Wife of John Anderson, Who Disappeared, Wants Legal Separation.

Britta Anderson has filed a suit against John Anderson for divorce, alleging desertion as cause.

The plaintiff alleges that she and the defendant were married in 1901 and that one child, Hanna Anderson, has been born to them. About a year ago the defendant left the home and has not since been heard of, and the plaintiff would have the care of the minor child and the use of her maiden name, Britta Kontas. Winter & Collier are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

The husband in this case was arrested a short time before deserting his family, for assault with a dangerous weapon, and was put in the county jail. His wife put up a bond of $250 for him, and when he was released he left the country, going to Canada, since which time no one has ever heard of him.

Ex-Senator George Turner, of Spokane, will probably be the democratic nominee for governor of Washington.

ANOTHER BRICK ON COURT STREET

GEO. ROBBINS WILL PUT UP BUILDING 20x85 FEET.

Will Have Some Peculiar and Valuable Novelties of Construction, and Be Peculiarly Adapted to the Queensware Business—Will Be Erected This Summer.

It is rumored that George A. Robbins, the owner of the Owl Tea House, will in a short time have a brick building of his own, where he will continue his present line of business.

Mr. Robbins has bought the property adjoining the Standard Grocery, on Court street, of Jade Switzer, and will build a one-story brick building there inside of the next 60 days. It will be 20x85 feet in dimensions, and will be on the property now occupied by the Spoonemore employment office.

Notice has been served upon Mr. Spoonemore to vacate and as soon as he gets out of the way the old frame he occupies will be torn down and excavations commenced for the new building, which will cost in the neighborhood of $3,000.

Mr. Robbins will show the Pendleton people something new in the way of floors when he has his new building completed.

It is generally the case in business houses as usually built, that the floors give and sway and sag, oftentimes jostling chinaware for its place on the shelves, and rattling things around in general. Mr. Robbins will do away with that inconvenience by putting in a floor seven inches thick. He will first cover the joists with 2x6 timbers set on edge and placed one against the other. Over this solid six-inch floor, he will put his ordinary 1x3 flooring, making a seven-inch base for the stock and fixtures.

NEXT MONDAY IS SALES DAY

Sellers and Buyers Are Congregating for the First Great Event.

PRICES PROMISE ABOUT SAME RANGE AS LAST YEAR.

All of This Year's Wool Crop is of Excellent Quality and Condition—Approximately One-Half the Crop Has Been Sold Which Has Caused Much Dissatisfaction Among Those Who Stay by the Agreement of the Members of the Associations.

Monday morning next, at about 9 o'clock, the sheeps, or a large part of them, will offer their wool to the buyers who have gathered here representing the Eastern woolen mills. It will be the first sale day of this year's season, and for that reason will be very interesting to the woolgrowers, as it will to a certain degree set a standard for prices to be gotten this year at the public sales.

A great many of the growers have already sold their clips and have pocketed the money, to the displeasure of some of the warehousemen and the joy of the warehousemen and the handlers. Even with this proportion out of the houses floor space is at a premium and the managers are crowded that they have to delve into higher mathematics to figure out how to get at the different lots stored here and there.

Same Prices as Last Year.

The prices given so far by the buyers have been about the same as those of last year. They have ranged from 12 1/2 to 14 cents, and no sales have been reported above 14 cents and but few below 12 1/2. The market is not so rushing as it might be, but is steady, and there is a good demand for the wool at the prices which the buyers want to give. There has been no great roar raised by the growers so far at the figures offered, those who did not think they were being offered enough simply holding out until the date of the sale, when they will have their kick coming if they do not get what they consider a fair offer for their product.

All of the wool, practically, this year is good. The staple is long and alive, and the fleeces are clean. For this reason the growers hope to get good figures for what they have raised.

Those Who Have Sold.

Those who have already sold their clips are, (with the approximate amount of their holdings): E. A. Rugg, 33,263 pounds; Jake Sherman, 52,164; Otto Reiman, 11,207; Pedro Brothers, 29,121; Charles Cunningham, 30,770 pounds in the Pendleton warehouses, and about the same amount shipped from Echo; E. C. Evans, 11,608; C. A. Johnson, 24,292; A. Perard, 20,694; J. M. Hens, 17,871; Donald Ross, 30,000; Waucup & Hubbard, 8,000; Charles Matthews, 24,000; Joe Blanchet, 13,000; George Adams, 12,250; John M. Wynn, 13,000, and Leon Battis, 2,636.

Those Who Have Stored.

Those who now have their wool in the warehouses waiting for Monday, are Gas Lafontaine, 50,000 pounds; A. C. Henderson & Sons, 18,535; Hensel Scales, 17,233; Farelwald Brothers, 54,042; Douglas Belts, 30,768; Joe Connelly, 19,442 (about one-half of his clip); Sam Warner, 8,000; J. B. Smith & Co., 25,000; Pat Dougherty, 39,000; W. H. Evans, 11,000; A. A. Cole, 28,000; J. W. Groom and Co., 21,500; Troxel & Hallaberg, 18,000; Adams & Bryson, 45,000; Smith & Campbell, 8,000; J. F. Wagner, 12,000; Lee Butler, 5,913.

According to this estimate there have been 443,470 pounds of this year's clip sold, and there are now in the warehouses approximately 882,862 pounds waiting for buyers on Monday.
