NEW OFFICERS.

Foster is Now Captain and Cameron Manager of the Wonders.

At a meeting of the Wonders yesterday evening George Strand resigned as captain and Lee Drake as manager of the team, owing to pressure of business which makes it impossible for them to give so much time to the work. They will continue to play with the team during the season, however.

Chaater Foster was elected captain and Charles A. Cameron manager, and they will make arrangements for a new schedule of games to be played in the near future. The team is in good financial condition, and is in a position to give some good games.

GRADUATES HEAR ABLE SERMON

DR. S. B. L. PENROSE DELIVERS BACCALAUREATE SERMON

Graduating Classes of the High School and Pendleton Academy Unite in This Service—The Text of the Able Address Was Taken From Goethe's Masterpiece—Spoke of the Reverence for God, for the Law and of Self as the Basis of All True Education.

The First Christian church was filled to overflowing yesterday afternoon on the occasion of the baccalaureate sermon, preached by Dr. S. B. L. Penrose, of Whitman College, to the graduating classes of Pendleton high school and Pendleton Academy, which united in this exercise.

Rev. Jonathan Edwards presided at the services, Rev. G. L. Hall read the Bible lesson, and Rev. Van Nuys led the meeting in prayer.

Dr. Penrose expressed his appreciation of the honor of having been invited for the second time to deliver a baccalaureate sermon in this city, he having delivered the sermon before the high school graduating class last year.

He took as the text for his remarks the "Three Reverences" given by Goethe as the foundation for an education, as set forth in "Wilhelm Meister," the reverence for the Most High, the reverence for the law and the reverence for self.

He said in the beginning of his remarks that the past 30 years had witnessed almost a total reversal of scientific opinion on the subject of religion. Thirty years ago, the tendency of education and science was toward materialism. It was what might be termed a godless period in science. The spiritual and religious were subordinated to the material. The Most High was not revered by scientific minds but these minds were drifting farther and farther away from God and the Bible.

Today the psychical and spiritual reign almost supreme in science. The great minds of the century have returned to the religious, the spiritual and reverential tendency and the trend of science is toward the Creator as the source of all the splendor and all the majesty of nature's laws.

Lord Kelvin, the eminent English scientist, has just said that the laws of chemistry and physics inspire him to a deeper reverence for that power which is behind these wonderful forces of nature.

The expansion of modern science has magnified the Most High, and the return of the scientific world to the reverential age has made all the mysteries more plain.

In speaking of the reverence for law, he said that the present tendency in American life is toward lawlessness. That men in high positions make practice of ignoring the laws of the land. That a mild form of anarchy exists in the most respectable places.

This tendency must be overcome and cried down by modern education. No education is safe which does not recognize the sacredness of the law. Because a law is bad is no excuse for breaking it. Obey it, and seek to reform it afterward. He questioned if the 21st century would not exhibit a still more flagrant disregard for the law, and asked where the end of lawlessness would be, if the educational forces of the land did not come to the rescue of this sacred principle of American government.

The third and last reverence underlying an education is the reverence for self—self-respect. In proportion to a man's conception of his own position in the world, just so high would be his ideals and his aspirations. How high do you estimate the human mind? How high an estimate do you place on the human virtues? Are you higher than the beasts that perish and the clouds of the earth? This estimate of yourself is the gauge by which men rate your intellectual force and strength.

Self-respect is the beginning. A man who does not respect himself cannot be a good Christian, a good man nor a good citizen.

In closing his able and thrilling address, he said to the graduating class: "In closing I can ask nothing better of you, as you enter the great, untried world, before you, than that you incarnate in your lives, as the basic principles upon which all their majesties must be founded the deepest reverence for the Most High, for the law and for yourselves."

WOOL SALES TODAY

BUSINESS GENERALLY SATISFACTORY TO ALL.

Highest Price Realized Was 14 1/2 Cents; the Lowest 10 1/2—Approximately Half a Million Pounds Offered—Next Sales Day May 26th at Heppner; at Pendleton June 10.

The first sales day of this year opened this morning with 20 men, representing almost as many Eastern wool houses, in attendance. The sales have been fast and the inclination on the part of the buyers seems to be to buy at a good figure.

The lowest figure paid for any clip was that of Joe Connelly, who took 10 1/2 for his wool. He grows a wool of heavy shrinkage, which accounts for the lowness of the price offered and accepted.

The highest price was paid by Elsemann Brothers, of Boston, to K. G. Warner for his clip of 22,000 pounds at 14 1/2 cents.

The prices paid average about the same as those paid last year, and the growers seem to be well satisfied.

There were approximately 500,000 pounds offered for sale this morning, and it is not thought that nearly all of it will be sold at this time.

The sales that were made up to this afternoon were: K. G. Warner, 22,000 pounds to Elsemann Brothers, of Boston, at 14 1/2 cents; Rugg Brothers, 39,000 pounds at 13 1/2 cents; Joe Connelly, 40,000 pounds at 10 1/2 cents to E. Y. Judd; Henry Scales, 17,000 pounds at 13 1/2 cents; Dan Dewey; Gus Lafontaine, 50,000 pounds at 10 1/2 cents, to Elsemann Brothers.

The next sales day will be held at Heppner, May 26, and the next sale in Pendleton will be June 10.
