Granted that men have held hard and narrow notions about the Bible; that they have been deluded into the absurdity of imagining that its truth could only have been kept by mechanical and verbal inspiration; that they have held that every detail in it must be accepted as though it were accurate, modern, scientific utterance; that they have held that all its honest acknowledgment of the extreme earthliness of the vessels in which the treasure of continuous teaching was conveyed is meant to be God's warrant for cruelty and just wrong; granted that we must hold in abeyance our childhood's impression of the authorship of certain books; granted that the Pentateuch may be traced to an earlier compilation, and that the four Gospels may have had a further back and earlier matrix from which they were formed; granted all this, and yet the great structural soundness of the Bible remains untouched.—Dr. Doane, Bishop of Albany.

W. S. Mayberry is a plain, hard-working, educated man, and is conducting an ideal campaign by following the carpenter's trade between schools and deserves to be elected school superintendent of Umatilla county.

People who follow crooked lives don't know how soon a turn will come that will expose their baseness. No matter how far away from home you are, it pays to be straight. This has not been learned from experience. It is only theory, but it seems to be true.

How the Morning Tribune can have the countenance to face its intelligent readers and the thinking business men who patronize it, after printing such silly, nonsensical rot in the shape of mud slinging editorials, is one of the unspeakable things of the campaign. There is no wit, no sense, no satire, no truth, no wisdom, no politics, no hurtful statement, no pointed sarcasm, no help for its friends nor hurt for its enemies in any of it. It is just plain rot.

The phenomenal growth of the Oregon Daily Journal has reached a climax never before attained by a newspaper west of the Rocky mountains. Yesterday its circulation was 22,000, and it closed the largest printing contract ever closed on the Pacific coast. A contract for printing 54,800 inches of advertising matter in a period of 15 months, was closed with Olds, Wortman & King, one of the progressive department store firms of Portland. The Oregon Daily Journal has also reached a higher circulation in the remote corners of Oregon than any other Oregon paper.

No other county judge in Oregon knows and understands the needs and conditions of his county as well as George Hartman does of Umatilla county. His life has been spent here, principally, and he has been a servant of the people in places of trust which have fitted him for this important office. His experience is worth dollars and cents to the people of this county as the head of the county court. His wide knowledge of practical business affairs places him in a position to save money for the taxpayers in the conduct of the office and politics cuts very little ice with those who must pay the taxes, when a saving of dollars and cents is part of the consideration. The county government requires $5,584.72 less for running expenses this year than in 1902, this saving having been accomplished through the rigid economy in the offices of county judge, sheriff, clerk and assessor, the very offices that cause the greatest expense to the county. The county debt has been reduced to $32,000 and by the same rigid economy can be entirely wiped out in two years more. What more can you ask of county officials? Think of these things before you vote.

The trouble with most of the heavily endowed schools and institutions of the country is that they are out of reach of those who need them most. If the Reed Institute which has just been endowed and founded in Portland is brought down within reach of the school-hungry mass of the common people, it will be a blessing to Portland and to Oregon. But if it is built among the clouds of aristocratic ideals, accessible only to the rich and fortunate, its influence for ultimate good to humanity will be questionable. The great need of today is some plain rich people who will die and leave their idle wealth invested in institutions within reach of the hard-working boy and girl just out of the high school who needs one or two years finish at a moderate cost to fit them for useful, profitable lives. There are too many "art schools" and "schools of technique" intended as spawning grounds for aristocratic sentiments and for the propagation of snobs who despise manual effort and who are incapable of well directed mental effort. If the Reed Institute in Portland is made accessible to the great mass of needy youth in the middle walks of life, who need and deserve education at moderate cost, Portland as a city, may rejoice. Otherwise, the rich may rejoice alone.

The Oregonian persists in wilfully and maliciously misrepresenting the official conduct of Governor Chamberlain's administration on every conceivable occasion and seems perfectly willing to sacrifice the dignity and veracity that should go with its high position in journalism in order to wreak a petty, narrow vengeance on democrats. In speaking of the conduct of State Game Warden Baker's office, a correspondent of that paper writing from an obscure Willamette valley point, alleged that game is being ruthlessly slaughtered there and that the reason for it was that "Oregon has no game warden; one J. W. Baker, a democrat, having been appointed, is no better than a wooden man." This cowardly attack in its news columns, where straight news and not biased opinion should be found, shows the length to which the Oregonian will go to injure someone who is not of its political faith. The facts about the office of game warden are these: During the entire two-years' term as warden, Mr. Quimby, the predecessor of J. W. Baker, instituted but 15 cases against violators of the game law, and secured conviction in but 11 of them, securing fines of $810 on that number. That is the official record taken from Mr. Quimby's official report. While J. W. Baker has held the office of game warden but 11 months, he has already brought 46 cases against violators of the game laws, securing 32 convictions and securing $1,115 in fines and costs. Why will a reputable newspaper, circulating among intelligent people, so wilfully misrepresent written records that are accessible to the public? Whom does this record prove to be the "wooden man?" The sole ground of attack on Mr. Baker is that he is a democrat and that it is the duty of republican papers to malign him, cause or no cause.

Good Boys

Are the bad boys very often. The boy that's good for anything is generally pugnacious. He's a healthy animal, and the healthy animal will always fight for his rights.

When a boy shuns the rough sports of his companions he is apt to be a weakling, and to be conscious of the fact.

A great many mothers have testified to the wonderful curing and strengthening power of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. All strength comes from food after it has been perfectly digested and assimilated. By curing diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, "Golden Medical Discovery" enables the perfect nourishment of the body, which is thus built up in the only way a body can be built up—by food.

There is no alcohol in "Discovery," and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

"Dr. Pierce's medicine has done wonders for my two sons," writes Mrs. M. Harrick, of Deuster, Oswego Co., N. Y. "Both had scrofula. My eldest son was taken two or three years ago with hemorrhage from the lungs. It troubled him for over a year. He took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and has not had one in over a year. My younger son had scrofulous sores on his neck; had two lincos, but has not had any since he commenced to take your medicine."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper cover, sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. For cloth binding send 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
