FLAT FLOUR MARKET

ORIENTAL TRADE IS PARTICULARLY DULL.

Local Mill Sent Five Thousand Barrels to Tacoma Which is Stored There for Demand—Immense Flour Stock Stored Here and no Room for Incoming Wheat—Mills Will Be Shut Down During Low Water.

There is more flour stored away in the Byers warehouse at this time than for many months. All the buildings near the mill have been filled, and the present output of the mill is being put in the stone warehouse next to the wooden mills. It is estimated there are now 20,000 barrels and more of flour stored and no immediate prospect of being able to sell.

The Oriental trade is at a standstill, and no flour is being shipped there. Five thousand barrels that were bought by the American Trading Company for January delivery, have been shipped to Tacoma in the last week, where it will be stored for future shipment to the Orient. Owing to the war all shipping has ceased practically from here to the Far East and all orders from eastern shippers have been left in the warehouses; but the buildings became so crowded here that some room had to be made, and the American Company was asked to get their flour out of the way. It is stated by representatives of the company that nothing can be sent out before the first of August or September, before which time all back orders will have to be kept in storage in this country.

The Byers mill is up against the room question badly and will have to shut down in a short time if the market does not open so that some of the flour now on hand can be disposed of. Not only is there no room now for more flour, but there is no room in which to place any of the new wheat that must be bought in a short time. The mill now is being run at a loss, and so much money is being tied up in outputs that it has been practically decided to shut down as soon as the water begins to fall in the river, perhaps about the first of July. This will give the management an opportunity to work off a little of the stock now on hand.

During the low water it is very difficult to run the mill full time, and it will be just as well to close entirely until the market begins to open again, though such action is against the policy of the owner of the plant if any way out of the dilemma can be found.

NEW FEDERAL BUILDING.

Spokane Will Try for Increased Appropriation.

Spokane, June 10.—Compromise ground was taken today at the meeting of the chamber of commerce relative to the construction of the new federal building on Lincoln street and Riverside avenue. The point at issue was whether the government department should be asked to go ahead with the $400,000 building which congress has agreed to build or whether work should be postponed until after the next congress meets, when it is believed from $200,000 to $400,000 additional can be secured.

It was decided to ask the supervising architect to proceed with the construction at once, but to put in a foundation which will warrant adding another story to the building if the additional appropriation can be secured. The present plans call for a three-story and basement building.

BAPTIST CONVENTION.

Spokane, June 10.—The second day of the Baptist convention opened this morning at the Grace Baptist church. A. M. Allyn, district missionary, reported on the work in the field. Most of the churches are in a prosperous condition. There are 75 churches in the field, but 21 of these are without pastors. Rev. Allyn reported that he has traveled 150,000 miles and has covered the field. The missionaries are attempting to raise $10,000 for missionary work. Some of this amount will come from the mission funds collected by the various churches.

F. H. Thompson made a report of the work done by those in charge of the gospel wagon. The wagon has traveled 2581 miles this year.

Astoria's New City Hall.

Astoria, June 10.—The council last night entered upon consideration of a new city hall. There is a wide difference of opinion as to the cost of the structure, due to the statement of City Attorney Smith that the council can no longer incur any further indebtedness. Most of the councilmen want to put $40,000 into the building, but others say $25,000 is enough.
