THE RUSSIAN ICON.

Wonderful Amulets That Bring Luck to the Slav.

The veneration with which the Russian regards the icon, or sacred image of his particular saint, is a survival of an ancient belief in the efficacy of symbols.

For the most part these icons are rough paintings upon wood, though some of them are works of art by the best of Russian and Greek painters.

After the painting is finished it is covered with a screen of silver or gilt, with openings through which only the hands and face of the saint are visible. This silver is often beautifully engraved and mounted with precious stones.

In the Greek churches of Russia a great deal of the magnificence of the decoration is due to thousands of these images which hang upon the walls.

In some of the churches the decoration is so splendid that even St. Peter's in Rome seems cold in comparison.

In the outlying districts the priests still maintain a vigorous trade in these images, either selling them to the parishioners, or renting them for a consideration, which varies with the supposed efficacy of the icon, or the ability of the parishioner to pay.

In the home the icon receives first consideration from the devout visitor. Upon entering a house the stranger seeks out the special icon of the establishment, makes his prayer before it, and then turns to greet the host or hostess.

Innumerable legends are current as to the wonderful cures wrought by these images, and by the lower classes they are prayed to regularly in order that he who owns or rents the icon may be rid of his enemies, or that some other miracle may be performed in his favor.

Longest Wharf in the World.

The wharf at Port Los Angeles, which runs out into the ocean from the mouth of the canyon two miles north of Santa Monica, Cal., is 4,700 feet long, and is said to be the longest wharf in the world. It is built on wooden piles, set in rows 12 feet apart; and if the trees could be gathered together, standing as they did before they were cut and buried head downward in the bed of the ocean, they would make a forest of 5000 evergreens.

The pier has double tracks the entire length, and numerous switches at the wharf proper, which broadens considerably and is surrounded by a circle of massive, concrete piles to support coal bunkers, offices, warehouses, landing for steamship passengers, refreshment booths, etc.

A ride down the long wharf is quite a scenic trip; and the pier is a favorite haunt for anglers, who count up trophies of halibut, many varieties of bass, bonita, sculpin, yellow-tail, mackerel, pompano, smelt, kelp-fish and countless other fish that roam the clear water and feed off the kelp fields of Santa Monica bay.

Where Latin is Still Spoken. In the central part of the Balkans, far up in the mountains between Bulgaria, Servia and Turkey, there is a community of mountaineers among whom strangers seldom come. During the ascendancy of the Roman empire a Roman colony was founded here, and then forgotten on account of its remoteness. For the reason that the descendants of those ancient colonists have never mixed with the people about them, they retain their original characteristics, even to the language.

In several villages the Latin that the peasants speak is so plain that students of classic authors can understand them.

The La Grande electric light plant is to be increased from 150 to 300 horse-power at a cost of $16,000.

Japan is the Real "Tomorrow Land."

In the countries over which Spain held rule the favorite word of the people is "manana," meaning tomorrow, and in those countries tomorrow answers just as well as today. But even in these countries there is nothing which compares with the Japanese disregard for time.

The Bible says, "Yet a little more sleep, yet a little more slumber, yet a little more folding of the hands in rest." In Japan the traveler finds the phrase, "A little more tea, one more smoke and the folding of the legs to sit."

Japan is, under ordinary conditions, the Land of Tomorrow. When the time comes to act quickly, she is the Land of Instant Movement. She strikes quickly, and, as an American naval officer said the other day, "that is why Japan has made it understood that she is going to carry on this war as mistress of the Eastern Seas."

Sudden Death at Walla Walla.

Walla Walla, June 10.—Judge M. A. Calhoun, a lawyer from Washington, D. C., who came to Walla Walla May 19, was found dead in his bed at the Hotel State at 8 o'clock last night. He had been drinking very heavily since his arrival in Walla Walla. For the past two days he had been ailing and had not left his room since Monday. His home was in Denver, where he leaves a wife.

Arm Twice Broken.

Algie Ryan, aged 12 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Ryan of this city, while picking cherries Monday, fell from a stepladder and fractured the bones of both his forearms. Dr. Du-Gas attended the injured lad and early recovery is expected. About a year ago the boy fell and broke one arm about one and a half inches from the present fracture.—Roseburg Review.

WASHING WITHOUT WATER

Is Like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide.

Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water?

If you did what would you say of him? It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of Dandruff and to prevent Baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with Cantharides, Vasoline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Vigors.

Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasitic germ which feeds on the hair roots. It is the original and only genuine scalp germicide manufactured.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.
