GOVERNMENT ENGINEER WRITES OF IRRIGATION.

Warns States Against Speculation in Water Rights—Says the Government Will Not Irrigate Large Private Holdings Adjacent to Government Projects—Insists on Care Being Taken to Prevent Fraud and "Booms" Under Government Plans.

T. A. Noble, chief engineer of the reclamation survey in the state of Washington, has written the following letter to the press of Washington in regard to the objects and intents of the government in promoting the great irrigation enterprises under the national irrigation act.

The same wise injunctions concerning the speculation in water rights apply to the state of Oregon and the East Oregonian takes pleasure in printing Mr. Noble's letter, in full.

The letter says:

"I would request that through your valuable paper you call the attention of those who are contemplating the purchase of lands in Franklin county with the expectation of these lands being irrigated from a government canal to the following facts:

First—The work now being done is a preliminary step toward determining whether it is feasible or advisable to irrigate any portion of these lands under the reclamation act. It may or may not be found feasible.

To Induce Settlement.

"Second—The primary object sought in the passage of the reclamation act was to irrigate the arid public lands for the purpose of inducing settlement of lands which, without the aid of irrigation could not be occupied. You will note that the primary purpose is not to irrigate private lands, but to irrigate public lands.

"Third—There is sufficient water to irrigate only a small portion of the arid area in the vicinity of Connell and Pasco.

"Fourth—In view of the evident intent and purpose of the reclamation act, preference will be given to the irrigation of those lands which were public land at the time of the withdrawal and to those private lands which are occupied by actual bona fide settlers.

Rights for Settlers Only.

"Fifth—Should the irrigation plant be put in no water rights could be acquired by other than actual bona fide residents of the land and to any one resident in the amount sufficient to irrigate not more than 160 acres, probably less.

"Sixth—Five years actual residence will be required to acquire title to public land or water rights. Inspection will be made by the engineer in charge as to the nature and extent of improvements of desert land claims and homestead claims.

Private Lands Excepted.

"It is evident from the above that all of the lands in private ownership will not be irrigated from the system contemplated and those who contemplate buying lands in private ownership at high prices are running a serious risk.

"Every legitimate means will be used to prevent speculation in these lands and protect the innocent purchaser from the inevitable loss that will result from excessive speculation. It is believed that this speculation will result only from false representations by unscrupulous dealers or those more sanguine than wise.

"Every practicable encouragement will be given to the settler who seriously contemplates occupying these lands and making a home for himself, and his family."

Worst of All Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years," she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel troubles. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered." For Liver, Kidney, Stomach and Bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by Tallman & Co., druggists.

FIRST LIGHTHOUSES.

England Will Exhibit Ancient Relics at St. Louis.

Models of the first two lighthouses erected at Plymouth, England, and known as the Eddystone lighthouse, are exhibited in the British section of the Palace of Liberal Arts at the St. Louis World's fair.

The first lighthouse was built in 1694, was 120 feet high, and was destroyed with its occupants by a storm in 1703.

In 1708 the second beacon tower was erected in its place and this remained until 1755 when fire burned it down, the tower being of wood. Two half-pound candles made in 1788 which represent the kind used in the lighthouse from 1759 to 1811, are shown in connection with the models and pictures of the two old towers. The exhibit gives visitors a good idea of lighthouse construction in England in the 17th and 18th centuries.

MONTANA WOOL CLIP.

First Sales Made at 17 Cents With Prospects of 18 Cents Later.

Seventeen cents for Montana wool before the opening of the Great Falls market is considered an excellent price for that product, and it is a fore-runner of the prices which may be expected upon the market this year, says the Great Falls Leader. Several of the large woolgrowers of this city have already disposed of their clips, some of them before they were sheared, and of these J. B. Long & Co. and A. W. Kingsbury have received 17 cents for their Valley county clips.

These clips were sold to A. W. Elliott, buyer for the Boston firm of Jeremiah Williams & Co., and portions of the purchase have already been shipped from Glasgow and are now en route to Boston. These sales, although very large, do not compose all of the clips of these growers, but only the wool from their sheep in Valley county.

According to these prices, which are about a half cent higher than those of last year on the same clips, it is fair to claim that the prices to be paid on the Great Falls market after its opening will range from one-half to 1 cent higher than those of last year, which prices were the highest prices paid for a number of years.

The competition between the buyers seems more lively this year than last, and already most of the big clips in this part of the state have been sold, the price being agreed upon before the wool left the backs of the sheep.

At Glasgow, in Valley county, and at Geyser, in Cascade county, J. B. Long & Co. of this city, now have large forces of men steadily engaged in sheepshearing. The work began at the former place three weeks ago. At Glasgow about 125,000 animals will be sheared during the next few weeks and at Geyser about 15,000.

The wet weather has interfered with the shearing somewhat. Now and then a cold rain has made it advisable to knock off for a day or two. With their winter coats just sheared off, sheep will not stand much in the way of weather and a cold rain will often chill an animal to death, particularly an old or weak one. But the woolgrowers are not complaining. This has been a particularly good season for the sheepmen. There have been no severe storms since March; the crop of lambs raised was excellent throughout the state; feed came on early and the bands are looking fine. The crop of wool is up to the average and with good prices prevailing wool men are jubilant.

HOW MANY VOTES TO BE CAST?

Awards for Those Estimating Nearest the Winning Vote in the Presidential Election of 1904.

The Florodora Tag Company has made arrangements for the distribution of 10,855 cash awards, aggregating $145,000, among those who estimate nearest the vote cast for the winning candidate for president of the United States in the election, Tuesday, November 8, 1904.

The only conditions imposed are that there shall be sent with the estimate five of the tags or five of the whole coupons or ten half coupons or ten of the cigar bands of the kind that are being redeemed by the manufacturers through the Florodora Tag Company, and all estimates must be received not later than November 5, 1904.

Further information, which will be useful in making estimates, together with estimate blanks, will be furnished by the Florodora Tag Company, Jersey City, N. J., on receipt of two cents for postage.

LOOTING THE RUINS.

Vandals Are Despoiling Relics of Ancient Colorado Settlements.

The looting of ruins of prehistoric villages located in the valleys of the tributaries of the Colorado and Gila rivers in Arizona, has stirred up archaeologists to urge their preservation by legislative action for the benefit of students of ethnology. Vandals digging in the ruins find relics which they dispose of, and so distribute articles of great value in throwing light on the prehistoric inhabitants beyond the reach of ethnologists, says the New York Tribune.

Among the groups which the archaeologists are particularly anxious to preserve in this way are several between Flagstaff and the Black Hills, in the Little Colorado valley. They consist of a citadel and buildings evidently devoted to a number of different purposes.

The structures, as a rule, are small with low walls, the largest not being more than three stories high. The stones fit closely together and show signs of having been dressed into shape.

Apparently the rooms of the lower floors were entered from the roof, and never from lateral doors. When windows were present they were mere lookouts, or small, rectangular openings, which would admit scanty light. The roofs, apparently, were flat.

The most impressive of the masses of aboriginal masonry in this region is about five miles from Flagstaff. The ruin stands high above the plain and is visible for many miles.

From a distance, perched on a low, red sandstone mesa, the top of which is 15 feet above the plain, it resembles an old castle. At its highest point this ruin was evidently three stories high, or at least, had three rooms, one above the other. The walls are fine examples of primitive masonry, due care having been taken to bind the corners and otherwise tie the walls together.

BECOMING A MOTHER

Is an ordeal which all women approach with indescribable fear, for nothing compares with the pain and horror of child-birth. The thought of the suffering and danger in store for her, robs the expectant mother of all pleasant anticipations of the coming event, and casts over her a shadow of gloom which cannot be shaken off. Thousands of women have found that the use of Mother's Friend during pregnancy robs confinement of all pain and danger, and insures safety to life of mother and child. This scientific liniment is a god-send to all women at the time of their most critical trial. Not only does Mother's Friend carry women safely through the perils of child-birth, but its use gently prepares the system for the coming event, prevents "morning sickness," and other discomforts of this period.
