NEED Y. M. C. A. BUILDINGS.

J. Thornburn Ross of Portland, censures Spokane.

While attending the state meeting of the Washington Y. M. C. A. in Spokane, J. Thornburn Ross of Portland, in speaking of the absence of a Y. M. C. A. building in Spokane, said:

"A number of the larger cities are now building their second or third association building," continued Mr. Ross, "the work having outgrown those originally provided. I am glad, however, to see that Spokane is now coming in line and planning to erect a modern building adequately to care for the work. Salt Lake City, which is similar in size and general characteristics to Spokane, is erecting a $125,000 building for the association.

"Boise, Idaho, a city hardly one-fourth the size of Spokane, has a magnificent work which has been made possible because of the splendid association plant erected three years ago. Seattle is now raising the $180,000 fund for its new association building, and has, I understand, already secured $100,000 of this amount.

"At Los Angeles and Oakland, Cal., the associations have outgrown large and valuable buildings and are now rebuilding on an enlarged scale to provide for the growing work in those cities. In Portland, during the past eight years, we have erected two buildings, and are now expecting that within five years we shall have outgrown our present $140,000 association home, so that we shall have to take steps to secure an enlarged equipment."

SALEM'S CANNING INDUSTRY.

Strawberry Crop is Now Being Cared for by 175 People.

The Salem Canning Company's plant is one of the busiest places in the city at the present time and from early morning until late at night the luscious strawberries and toothsome cherries are being transformed into a condition where they will withstand the ravages of time, and appeal to the appetite of many people hundreds of miles away in countries less fortunate in productiveness, says the Salem Journal.

About 175 persons are employed in the cannery, and the entire time has been occupied with strawberries until this week, when a portion of the crew was transferred to the cherry crop.

The Elton cherry is about the only one that is in the market at the present time that is suitable for canning purposes, but a few days later the Royal Ann will commence to get ripe enough, and work on that crop will start in earnest.

NURSERYMEN IN SESSION.

The Industry Maintains a National Organization.

Atlanta, Ga., June 22.—The annual convention of the American Association of Nurserymen, in session at the Piedmont hotel, is the largest meeting in the history of the association, which extends over a period of 30 years. The opening session was held this morning and was called to order by Frank A. Weber of Missouri. Gov. Terrell and Mayor Howell welcomed the visitors and responses were made by C. L. Waltrous of Iowa, and E. W. Kirkpatrick of Texas. Reports of officers and committees occupied the greater part of the day.

The principal papers read before the convention were as follows: "The Cost of Growing Trees," Harry L. Bird, Michigan; "Insurance for Nurserymen," E. Albertson, Indiana; "The Last Word on Fruit Picking and Storing," G. Harold Powell, United States department of agriculture. The convention will remain in session until Saturday.

NEWS OF ATHENA

Athena, June 21.—Grandma King, who has been sick at her home for some time, with cancer, is growing weaker all the time.

Mrs. Ankeny of Walla Walla, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. LeGrow last week.

Miss Lilly Banister has recovered from her recent illness and has gone back to her school.

The new bank building is nearly completed.

Fay LeGrow made a business trip to Walla Walla Thursday.

The walls of the new brick building known as the Gross & Worthington store, are almost completed.

Mr. and Mrs. Sim Kilgore, accompanied his young brother, Gerald Kilgore, to Teal Spring to spend a few weeks.

Thomas Ogle is gradually improving after a long illness with a kidney trouble.

Jim Woods left this morning for Teal Springs for the benefit of his health. He will spend the summer there.

BLAMES THE LORD.

Novel Testimony in a Seattle Family Row and Divorce Case.

Seattle, June 2.—P. H. Nelson, the preacher who claims the Lord spoke to him in a dream and commanded him to desert his lawful wife and flee from the city with the wife of Barney Smith, is being tried in the superior court today on a charge of adultery. Nelson hastened to obey what he thought to be a divine instruction, and thereby came into conflict with the law.

Nelson's arrest was the result of sensational evidence given against him in the divorce suit instituted by his long-suffering and industrious wife. At that time Nelson had obeyed the orders given him in his dream regarding the deserting of his wife and the taking unto himself of Mrs. Smith, but had neglected to flee, as per instructions.

When he heard that a warrant was out for his arrest, however, he promptly fled to Tacoma, where he was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Jack Williams.

Nelson's defense is probably the most novel ever advanced in a King county court. He does not hesitate to admit his guilt, but claims he is only obeying the Lord's will and is a martyr to his religion.

Nelson has been holding services on the streets of Seattle for more than a year, assisted by Mrs. Smith. He claims that one reason why the Lord wanted him to leave his wife was because she would not assist him in his work, and that she used to scold him because he said such long grace before breakfast that the meal would get cold.

Mrs. Paline Smith, Nelson's alleged spiritual wife, entertains the same religious belief as does the preacher. She has left Barney Smith, who was a devoted husband, and six small children, to link her fortune with Nelson's, and has recently become the mother of a seventh child, of which Nelson is the father.

Firemen at Canton.

Canton, S. D., June 21.—This city is given up to the twenty-first annual tournament of the South Dakota State Firemen's Association today. It will conclude Friday. Nearly every train brings in firemen, accompanied by bands and excursionists. Several contests were scheduled for today, but the most of the day was given up to the reception of the visitors. The big parade takes place tomorrow morning and promises to be the most notable affair of the kind ever seen in the state.
