IN THE BEET BELT

FRED LOCKLEY WRITES OF THEIR CULTURE AND PROFITS

Grande Ronde Valley Has Been Converted into a Valley of Small, Highly Cultivated Farms Through Beet Culture—The By-Products Invite Creameries, Dairying and Diversified Farming.

Elgin, June 24.—From La Grande to Elgin one passes through a country largely devoted to the culture of sugar beets. Here and there one will see a thrifty orchard, but on both sides of the creek may be seen the level beet fields. Men and boys, and here and there women and girls may be seen in the fields thinning or weeding the beets.

Those who are familiar with the sugar beet industry are prophesying a bumper beet crop as the rains have come at times when most needed.

The beets look very thrifty but no more so than those at Echo. Echo seems to have a warm sandy loam soil peculiarly well adapted to the sugar beets' growth and development. It is to be hoped that the farmers in Umatilla county will take hold of the growth of sugar beets.

There are indirect benefits which follow in the wake of sugar beet culture, which are as important as the raising of the beets. Wherever a sugar beet factory is established there is the by-product of sugar beet pulp. This is usually sold at from 50 cents to $1 a ton, and makes a cheap and nutritious food for stock. It has been found better for milk production than for a fattening ration. This means that the sugar beet industry will stimulate the dairy industry. An increase in the dairy herds means the establishment of a creamery. Wherever creameries are found you will find a prosperous community, not alone from the monthly check for their butter fat, but from the use of the waste product of the creamery—the skim milk. This is used for feeding hogs, calves and poultry. It is a sort of endless chain and benefits all alike. Sugar beets mean that more money must be spent, more labor hired in their cultivation, thinning, weeding, topping, etc. This means more money in circulation and increased trade for the merchant.

It means that the tops and pulp will be fed to stock, thus enriching the land from the excretion of the cattle. It means more attention paid to dairying with its attendant industries of hog-raising and poultry raising.

All this tends to diversify farming and the breaking up of the large farms so that more people can engage in farming. It means more attention paid to irrigation, for the sugar beet requires two to four inches of natural precipitation a month during its growth, or a like amount of water from irrigation if the rainfall is deficient.

Since the sugar in sugar beets is simply sunshine, air and water, they must have the necessary amount of each of these ingredients. We have no shortage of air and sunshine and irrigation solves the problem of water.

It is well worth the while of the Commercial Association to use every effort to encourage the planting of sugar beets. The establishment of a sugar factory and of a creamery. We have ideal climatic conditions. They can be planted early and have a long season of growth. They are successfully grown in such states as North Dakota, where they can not be planted till the middle of May on account of the coldness of the soil.

They can not be planted there much later than the first of June, or they will not mature before the growing season is over. We have no such handicap to contend with. Prof. Lockley has given conclusive proof on the experiment farm near Union that beets can be raised of a high tonnage per acre, and of a high sugar per cent without containing large percentage of mineral salts which interfere with the extraction of the sugar.

The Vilmorin and the Kleinwangler are the two varieties best liked as they combine large sugar per cent with good tonnage.—Fred Lockley.

Management of Walla Walla Hospital Want Protection From Fire.

The case of the Walla Walla Hospital Company against J. Baird, to prevent the latter from building a feed warehouse near the hospital on Alder street, was taken up yesterday in superior court, says the Union, and after the evidence was taken, was adjourned until counsel should present their arguments as to whether the extension of the fire limits recent-passed by the city council should affect the status of the present case, which was begun before the ordinance was passed.

Doctors Cropp, Stiles and Stewart, J. P. Mullins, Fire Chief W. Metz, J. Baird, J. B. Dunham and others were examined. An endeavor was made to show that the building would be a menace to the inmates of the hospital because of danger from fire, and for sanitary reasons.

SUICIDE IN JAIL.

Sheepherder Insane From Effects of a Ten-day Spree.

Heppner, June 24.—Karl Winterkorn, a sheepherder, hanged himself in the county jail yesterday between 10:30 and 1 o'clock. He had been herding for A. J. Cook at his sheep ranch on Little Butter creek, having returned to the ranch a few days ago from a 10-days' spree in Heppner. Since then he has been acting strangely, and on one occasion was found endeavoring to hang himself at the ranch. This act led other men at the ranch to suspect his sanity, and a man was dispatched to notify Mr. Cook, who was in town. He went out Tuesday and brought Winterkorn to the city for examination.

Karl Winterkorn was a German, about 50 years of age and had been herding sheep in Morrow county for the past several years. It is thought that the only relative he has is a sister living in Germany.

This is the second suicide that has been committed in the county jail within the past year. China Henry, a murderer, having hanged himself there last July.

SCROFULA

Swollen glands, tumors, white swellings, sores, pustular or scaly skin eruptions, flabby muscles, brittle bones, weak digestion, emaciated, ily-nourished bodies, are some of the well-known earmarks of Scrofula. Scrofula is inherited. Parents too closely related by the ties of blood, or tainted with consumption or blood poison, may look for signs of Scrofula in their children. The middle-aged often have it, but children are the chief sufferers. Scrofula breaks down the vital forces, and the blood becomes so weak and poor that it does not nourish the body. The remedy in all scrofulous affections must be one that purifies the diseased blood, builds up the weak digestion, increases the appetite and gives new energy and strength to all life's forces. No medicine has won so much fame as a blood purifier as S. S. S., and its tonic effects upon the system are not equalled by any other remedy. It makes the weak, tainted blood rich and strong, and drives out of the circulation all tubercular deposits and morbid matter that causes glandular swellings, sores, abscesses, tumors and other horrible symptoms that make Scrofula so dreaded and dangerous.

Write us fully about your case. Medical advice will cost you nothing. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.
