GOOD HAY CROP.

T. P. Gilliland Reports Good Cutting at Pilot Rock.

T. P. Gilliland, the county commissioner from Pilot Rock, was a Pendleton visitor today. Mr. Gilliland is in the midst of haying on his place and is well pleased with the crop that he is getting off his land. According to him there will be no shortage in the hay this year for he has seldom if ever seen so much hay grown to the acre as is being taken from the fields of the Pilot Rock country and back towards the mountains this year. All kinds of Oregon hay is better than it has been for some years and the stockmen over that part of the county are feeling jubilant.

BLOOD POISONING.

Result of Slight Wound on a Finger With a Wire.

A. G. McCarthy came to town today with a hand in very bad shape. It is terribly inflamed and in the opinion of the attending physician, blood poisoning has developed in the member. Only last Monday a finger of the hand was hurt by having a wire thrust into it while Mr. McCarthy was at work, and the slight wound thus produced being neglected, has developed into a very serious proposition.

Mr. and Mrs. Rees left in the morning for their future home on the Nez Perce Indian reservation, where the groom is in the employ of the government. The bride is well known to a large circle of Pendleton friends, having attended school here for the past year or two. She is the daughter of R. Raymond, one of the largest wheat farmers of the county.

NO CREDIT IN DAWSON.

Big Commercial Companies Will Grub Stake No More Miners.

Over $3,000,000 in gold dust has been shipped by the Alaska Pacific Express Company, consigned to the Seattle assay office, and the steamboat White Horse, leaving Saturday, takes $750,000 for the Bank of Commerce of Seattle. Shipments by express of dust to date are far in excess of last year and the Klondike yield by extensive summer work is predicted to hold up its previous record for the output of gold.

The most important event in the history of Dawson since gold was discovered is the decision of the Northern Commercial Company and the N. A. T. & T. Co., that no more credit will be granted consumers after July 15.

For years these mercantile houses have handled the bulk of business in the Yukon and Alaskans have extended credit to miners on bedrock pay which it is claimed has been a losing proposition. Louis Stoss, vice-president of the Northern Commercial Company, now at Seattle, says:

"We have decided not to give further credit in the Klondike, for good reasons. Big companies have maintained this camp. This has been done under the stress of heavy taxation by the government and the city of Dawson and we propose to stop doing it.

"Our company has borne heavy expense and done the greater share of grubstaking, and has made nothing here. The cash system should force miners to keep their money here rather than elsewhere. As a plain business proposition we propose to quit giving credit and either make something for ourselves or have goods left."

Highest Priced Sermon.

Probably the highest sum ever paid for a sermon goes each year to a lucky German preacher, who receives $3600 for his effort, says the Kansas City Star. In 1690 a wealthy French baron named Favart, who lived in Elberfeld, died and bequeathed his money to the Protestant church there, on the condition that it should be invested and the interest given annually to some clergyman, chosen haphazard from those holding the poorest living in the see, on condition that he preach a short sermon extolling the good deeds of the dead baron. It is generally delivered on the first Sunday in June, after the regular morning service, and being of only a half hour's duration, is paid for at the rate of $120 a minute.

At Fifty Cents a Week.

Last week th' ol' man raged my pay 't fifty cents a week. I think he'd done it long ago if I'd had the nerve t' speak— An' now I don't know what to do with all my extry koin— Th' city ed's a Mason, and I kinda think I'll join— They say it costs a heap o' dough fer doos and fees an' such, But if it's mor'n fifty cents, why I kin make a touch. Fer ten cents er a quarter—at ain't so very much— A feller shud do somethin' 'at's 'rig'inal an' you neck. When he's attained th' dignity o' fifty cents a week! —The Copy Kid, in Seattle Star.
