

MEETS TOMORROW

USHERS IN A WEEK OF GREAT EXCITEMENT.

Battle of Conflicting Interests and Policies in the National Democratic Convention—Complete Uncertainty Attends the Outcome Both in Relation to Platform and Candidates—Will Probably Be the Most Dramatic Political Episode in History of the Party.

St. Louis, July 5.—An even thousand delegates will assemble in the Coliseum tomorrow to name a candidate to run as the democratic party's choice for president of the United States. These delegates represent 53 political divisions—45 states, four territories, Alaska, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands. The number of delegates exclusive of the territories and insular possessions is twice the number of United States senators and members of the house of representatives. There is no doubt that the national committee will decide that the six delegates from Porto Rico are entitled to seats in the convention.

Each delegate to the national convention represents a section of the country peopled approximately by 80,000 people, of whom at least 16,000 are male adults of the voting age. So the whole convention represents the democratic party of approximately 16,000,000 voters, or $9,000,000 people.

The delegates will assemble in the Coliseum at noon on Wednesday. They will be called to order by ex-Senator James K. Jones, of Arkansas, chairman of the national committee. Secretary C. A. Walsh will then read the official call for the convention. Senator Jones will make a brief address, presenting to the convention John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, who will be introduced as temporary chairman.

The choice of Representative Williams for temporary chairman is made at the suggestion of prominent democrats of all factions. Though he comes to the convention as an instructed Parker delegate, the Bryan and Hearst element offered no objection to his election. Mr. Williams' chief duty as temporary chairman will be to deliver a speech which will voice the general party policies, and will be what is popularly termed a "key-note" speech.

William J. Bryan, who is here as a member of the Nebraska delegation, is understood to desire the chairmanship of the resolutions, or platform committee. His selection will naturally be combated vigorously by the "conservatives" who are mostly supporters of Judge Parker. The platform committee will have a difficult task on its hands to satisfy the opposing elements and draw up resolutions that will be acceptable to a majority of the delegates. The platform will discuss trusts, labor, immigration, statehood and other subjects.

There are numerous contests to engage the attention of the credentials committee, among the most important being the cases from Illinois and the District of Columbia. The recommendations of the national committee, which has been considering the contests for several days, will govern in most of these cases brought before the credentials committee. The committee on order of business prescribes the rules and order of business which will govern the convention and names the permanent officers who will have charge of the convention's deliberations.

Senator Halley of Texas, Thomas Barkworth of Michigan, Patrick A. Collins of Boston, and James Hamilton Lewis of Washington, are among those mentioned for permanent chairmen. John W. Martin will be sergeant-at-arms, and C. J. Gavin, of New Mexico, will be reading clerk.

Thursday the convention will be called to order by the temporary chairman, who will receive the reports from the committee on credentials, and permanent organization, and order of business, and these reports having been adopted, a committee will be named to escort to the chair the permanent chairman. The latter will then deliver a speech similar in character to that of the temporary chairman, dealing with the issues of the campaign. This speech will later form an important part of the campaign literature and be published in the official party publication known as the "campaign text-book."

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

ports having been adopted, a committee will be named to escort to the chair the permanent chairman. The latter will then deliver a speech similar in character to that of the temporary chairman, dealing with the issues of the campaign. This speech will later form an important part of the campaign literature and be published in the official party publication known as the "campaign text-book."

Friday will be the big day of the convention, the day to which all of the previous sessions and proceedings are but an introduction. It will be the day on which candidates for president and vice-president will be named. The candidates will be placed in nomination, but few believe that the convention will be able to make a selection before Saturday and probably later. This is the part of the game when heated debates and fiery oratory are in order.

The roll of states will be called alphabetically and each state will be asked if it has a candidate to present. Arizona or California might present the name of Hearst, but it is probable that no response will be made until Delaware is reached, when the leader of the delegation from that state will present the name of Judge George Gray for the presidential nomination. It is probable that Illinois, with its 54 delegates, will be selected to present the name of Hearst. Massachusetts will present the name of Richard Olney. When New York is reached the name of Parker will be formally presented to the convention.

The speech nominating Judge Parker will be made by Martin W. Littleton, president of the borough of Brooklyn, Missouri will cast the candidacy of her favorite son, Cockrell, upon the turbulent waters, and Wisconsin will place in nomination Wall of Milwaukee, whose candidacy succeeded in preventing the Padger State from falling into the hands of the Hearst column. The Gorman candidacy will be presented by West Virginia, which is the only state instructed for the Maryland senator, though this fact is not by any means indicative of his real strength in the race.

With the selection of the ticket the national convention will adjourn.

The national committee, however, will remain in the city to choose a chairman, a vice-chairman, and a secretary, who will be his assistants, and an executive committee, who will act with him in an advisory capacity. The selection of a chairman will depend upon which wing of the party gains control of the convention. The chairman will naturally be one who is personally acceptable to the presidential nominee. In any event, it is stated definitely that ex-Senator Jones the incumbent, will retire and a new man chosen for the place. Should Parker be nominated it is rumored that Thomas Taggart, the present national committee man from Indiana, and a practical politician of recognized ability, will be selected to head the committee.

After the new committee is made up the chairman and his assistants will proceed to open headquarters for the campaign. Headquarters will be maintained in New York, and the Western end of the campaign will probably be directed from Chicago as in former years.

ABOUT THE TEA YOU DRINK.

The culture of tea is Ceylon's one great industry and a visit to the fields, crowded with native pickers, with their queer wicker baskets, is well worth the tourist's while. When the baskets are filled or the field is picked clean of young leaves the tea pickers turn in their crop to be weighed and credited to them, and by a good day's work these women make as much as 8 and 10 cents a day, says Eliza R. Sedmore, in Chicago Grocers' Criticism.

Besides money wages these coolies are provided with quarters, rations of rice, medical attendance, and care in sickness. There is a constant coming over of Tamil coolies from India to earn these big wages and a going home of the provident ones who have accumulated enough to return and take up independent agriculture in India, to become landed proprietors in their old homes.

The tea leaves are carried to the factory, a two-story building with a tall stovepipe and many windows. Any large leaf or twig is sorted out, the leaves are spread on tiers of shelves or trays on the upper floor and left to wilt over night.

Twelve or 18 hours are required to wilt the leaf until it can be put in the roller, that the cells of the leaves may be broken, the tannic juices freed, ready to be eliminated by the next process of fermenting. The moist, withered leaves, which have been rolled and crushed into no semblance of a green leaf, are spread again on trays and covered in the higher temperature until by fermentation they have turned to a bright reddish copper color.

For many years the Ceylon planters have been anxious to make green tea and capture the Canadian and American markets, since they cannot convert those people into black tea drinkers, but their efforts were not successful. The Ceylon green tea did not look like either the Chinese or the Japanese green teas, and the green tea nerve wreckers would have none of it; but by diligence the tea makers learned to make the big long Assam or hybrid leaf look like the needle-like Japanese leaves when cured, and a moderate success has been attained.

A bounty was offered and last year 12,000,000 pounds of Ceylon green tea earned the bounty of six cents on each pound before it reached a market.

One tea planter, who had been rejoicing over Japan's naval successes and the "hiding" she is giving Russia, as all the British elegantly term the afflictions of the bear, took to

How to Judge Beer PURITY

Impossible to find it in most bottled beers, because their preservation is gained through chemical adulteration.

Bottled beers, as well as food products, are often adulterated with chemical preservatives, etc., which for awhile keep them from souring, but are injurious to the stomach. A. B. C. BEER is guaranteed to be absolutely pure and free from any adulterant whatever. It is never exposed to the air (which is germ-laden) but is brewed, fermented and aged for eight months in air-tight compartments, then piped in tin-lined pipes direct to the air-tight bottling machines, where it is bottled, sealed, pasteurized and packed for shipment.

boasting of these 12,000,000 pounds of green tea, and as friends of Japan we protested.

Since Japan is fighting the battle of civilization, and more particularly the battles that will restore England's prestige and influence in the East, it is hardly fair for England's people to steal Japan's markets while the islanders are busy battling.

We besought that planter to turn from the evil way of robbing an ally, and assured him that the swiftness with which Secretary Gage put a countervailing duty on Russia's bountied beet sugar might be equaled by Secretary Shaw's matted fist falling hard on this 6-cent bounty-fed green tea of Ceylon.

With an abundant supply of cheap labor, this beautiful climate and beautiful scenery, few insect pests, and a steady market, one would think the tea planters in Ceylon much envied mortals.

They have pretty bungalow homes in the midst of their estates and the country life of England is kept up as nearly as the climate permits. Everyone rides and drives, plays cricket and tennis and there is an immense lot of visiting back and forth and up and down the island.

Everyone knows everyone else on the estates, and each winter there is an influx of visitors from England who bring the world's news and last notions to these pleasure-loving, strenuous young planters.

But while they grumble in Ceylon and pine for home, their visits to that delectable place always end before the time set and they come back to the sunshine and the exquisite tea fields, to the easy outdoor life of the unending spring, and to the gentle black folk in their brilliant and picturesque dress with a thankfulness beyond expression.

SOCIALIST "VAGARIES."

Professor Richard T. Ely figured out some years ago that the Mississippi valley alone is capable of supporting a population of 600,000,000 and that all the necessities and luxuries of American life at its very best could be produced on a labor basis of four hours a day.

Of course it was set down as a "pipe dream" by those whose narcotic is a thousand times worse than hashbeeh; but now comes Professor Herzkia, the famous Austrian statistician, who has been looking into the same problem. Read his figures:

"I have calculated how much labor and time are necessary to the aid of the present mechanical appliances to produce what is required to support in ease and comfort the 28,000,000 inhabitants of Austria—viz: food, clothing and shelter, consisting of a five-room house to a family, and including fuel, medicine, furniture and utensils.

"I find it would require 26,000,000 acres of arable land and about 8,000,000 acres of pasture, or about one and one-half acres per capita, and 615,000 workmen, working 11 hours per day 300 days in the year.

"These 615,000 are but 12.3 per cent of the population able to work excluding the women, children below 16 years of age, and men above 50 years of age. If instead of these 615,000 men the whole 5,000,000 men able to work were engaged, they would need to work but 37 days in the year, or if they were to work 300 days in the year they would need to work only one hour and 22½ minutes per day.

"Again, if all the luxuries of life were included it would require 5,000,000 workmen, or 20 per cent of the population able to work, 120 hours and 11 minutes per day 300 days in the year. With this working power 26,000,000 Austrians would be supplied with all their hearts could possibly desire.

"But if, again, the whole 5,000,000 men were employed three hours and 12 minutes per day they would need to work two months of the year only. Behold what time could be spared for study and pleasures, while the cares of life, in so far as wealth is concerned, would be obliterated altogether."
