

AMONG THE EXCHANGES OF THE INLAND EMPIRE

Spokane's population has increased in the past four years, and has now reached 65,000 people. This increase is both amply justified by the fact that the city is one of the most rapidly growing in the northwest, and is entirely independent of each other.

One of these sources is the school census, which has just been completed. The other is the number of names in the city directory for 1904. The census derived from calculating the population from these two independent sources coincide so nearly as to show the strong conviction of their reliability.

The number of school children enumerated by the school census for this year, when compared with the number enumerated in the population of the city in 1900, shows an increase of 51.4 per cent. The number in the city directory for this year, when compared with the number in the directory for 1900, shows an increase of 52.6 per cent. Averaging these two results shows an increase in the population of the city of 52 per cent.

The Spokane Directory Company, which publishes city directories for more than a score of cities, gives 2 1/2 as a reliable multiple for calculating the population of Spokane from the number of names in the directory.

The number of names in the directory for 1904 was 17,108, and applying the multiple of 2 1/2 to this number gives a population for that year of 42,770. The census for that year shows a population of 43,000, and applying the multiple of 2 1/2 to the population for the city of 43,000 gives a population of 107,500.

Epidemic of Appendicitis.

Operations for appendicitis are rapidly becoming one of the most common operations in this city. In nearly one operation a day, the operation is performed in private homes, and it is like a plague to the community. It is impossible to ascertain what percentage of the cases operated upon resulted in saving the life of the patient.

Persons performing appendicitis operations have come to make a marked distinction between a successful operation and an operation which saves the life of the patient. A successful operation is one in which all of the customary surgical phenomena are developed, and this is true whether the patient recovers or not. Some of the surgeons make the recovery of the patient the prime object of the operation, but the professional appendicitis surgeon, so some jealous rivals in the profession allege, make it their prime object to so develop the case as to display all the surgical phenomena which should, according to the best authorities, accompany a case of appendicitis.

The charge for performing an operation for appendicitis varies from $125 to $500, according to the physical and the financial condition of the patient. In addition to the charge made by the surgeon for his services and those of his assistant, there are the hospital fees, which range from $40 to $150 in each case. Estimating that the average cost to the patient for an appendicitis operation is $250, the aggregate income enjoyed by surgeons and hospitals of this class would be not less than $60,000 a year. This estimate makes the industry rank in importance with many of the lines of local manufacturing.—Spokesman-Review.

General Chaffee Coming.

Information was received yesterday in a letter from Colonel Godfrey to Senator Ankeny, that General Chaffee would arrive in Walla Walla Friday, July 29, to inspect the barracks at the fort.

Upon the occasion of his visit here General Chaffee will be entertained at a luncheon at the home of Senator Ankeny, and the question of his entertainment by the city as a token of appreciation for his services in the retention of Fort Walla Walla is being discussed and it is probable that some formal demonstration will be arranged. General Chaffee stood for Senator Ankeny most loyally in his efforts to hold the fort, and is regarded as deserving of some strong mark of appreciation at the hands of the people of Walla Walla, which they will no doubt be happy of an opportunity to publicly express. The matter will probably be taken up and managed by the Commercial club, which also took a deep interest in the fight for the fort.—Walla Walla Union.

Weak Hearts

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, the stomach expands—swells, and puffs up against the heart. This crowds the heart and shortens the breath. Rapid heart beats and heart disease is the final result. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat, takes the strain off the heart, cures indigestion, dyspepsia, sour stomach and contributes nourishment, strength and health to every organ of the body.
