PROSPEROUS ECHO

WHEAT AND FRUIT SOURCE OF INCOME AND PROSPECTS.

Peaches and Apricots Grown Adjacent to Echo Are in Pendleton Markets—Wheat Not Injured by the Storms, and a Highly Profitable Grain Season is Anticipated—Echo Will Be Lighted by Electricity in a Short Time.

Wheat and fruit are both showing up in excellent form this season at Echo. The Pacific Coast Elevator Company received several loads of wheat from the surrounding country yesterday, the first sent in this year. This information is furnished by W. H. Boyd, a dealer in merchandising at Echo, who is in the city today on business matters. The first fruit of the season also reached Pendleton today from Echo and was sold to a local retailer. This is said to be very early for the arrival of fruit. The consignment consisted of peaches and apricots.

"The wheat crop is doing fine, better than in years," said Mr. Boyd. "In our vicinity it has not been hurt by the storms at all. It is already beginning to come in. The Pacific Coast Elevator Company received several loads by hired teams yesterday. From next week on to October the streets of the town will be crowded from morning until night with teams. A highly profitable season is anticipated."

"New peaches and apricots were shipped to Pendleton this morning. They came from the farm of Joe Leaser. The fruit looks well. The shipments this year are beginning earlier than usual, and some of the finest fruit the state ever produced will soon be on sale at the local Pendleton markets."

"Echo will soon have one of the modern utilities in the shape of an electric light plant. At a recent meeting of the city council a franchise for the installation of a plant was granted J. P. Nelson of Alameda. The plant will be large enough to meet the future needs of the city for some time. I understand that the work of installation will begin in a short time."

INVADING CANADA.

J. J. Hill Contemplates a Coast Line of Road to the North.

James J. Hill has invaded the territory of the Canadian Pacific and that road is planning revenge, says the Seattle Star. In fact its plans are already being carried out and others are slowly materializing. Hill's work has been going on so quietly that few people have noticed it. Some time between July 20 and 25 the immense bridge across the Frazer river at New Westminster will be completed and Hill will have a line into Vancouver.

He has been holding his main line from Seattle northward to use the bridge as soon as it is completed and by August 1 one of his plans will be fully carried out. The bridge across the Frazer has been built by the Canadian government at a cost of $1,000,000 and is planned to be used by all roads that desire to enter Northwestern Canada through this opening. The Great Northern has planned to use it in order to get into Vancouver and thus enter into competition with the Canadian Pacific in its own territory.

This main line extension is not the only plan Hill has made and is ready to carry out when the bridge gives him his opening to the district across the Frazer. He has invaded the territory of the Canadian Pacific on Vancouver Island and is attempting to split the trade between Victoria and Vancouver with his rivals.

Without attracting much attention Hill has built a line from Victoria northward to Sidney, on Vancouver Island. At Sidney he is using the steamer Victorian to convey the freight and passengers up the straits to the Frazer river. The Victorian has had an eventful career, and it is now said that for the first time she has become a paying property.

The Victorian runs from Sidney north to Active Pass, which is said to be one of the most beautiful stretches of water in the Northwest. The mountains and islands in this section make it attractive to travelers and tourists, and Hill is now giving the Canadian Pacific a close run on time.

CROOKS IN THE WAKE.

Followed the Carnival Company and Watched and Reported by Them.

Since the Dixie Carnival Company reached the city it has been noticed that a few suspicious characters have also taken up a temporary residence here. They are always to be found in the wake of such a company and were obliged to "move on" by the authorities of a number of cities. It is believed that they came to Pendleton a day or so in advance of the carnival company.

"We do all we can to discourage these fellows from following us about on the road," said a person connected with the management of the company last night. "Every time we catch sight of one of them and an officer is handy we point the fellow out. The only danger of people losing anything is in a thick crowd, and then a little watchfulness will usually insure safety."

City Marshal Carney and his deputies are on the lookout for the undesirable chaps. Any suspicious character will be forced to get out of town as fast as located or given free board and lodging in the city jail.

The National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, in session at Trenton, N. J., have voted $1000 to aid the striking miners of Colorado.

THE FAIR

EVERY DAY IS BARGAIN DAY HERE.

AWFUL.

"What's the matter with the bum?"
"He came rushing in my place and said he wanted a glass of whiskey and wanted it bad, so I gave him the worst I had."

Abyssinian Oddities.

At the present time there are nearly 800 miles of telephone wires in Abyssinia, and enough more are being stretched to bring the total length to nearly 1800 miles by the end of this year, if nothing happens to stop operations.

An American engineer who laid out many of the routes and helped to install the first few hundred miles of wire, under contract with the Abyssinian Minister Jig, who initiated most of these improvements, says:

"There wasn't a thing that weather, man or beast could do to us that wasn't done. Tremendous rainfalls were the first source of damage. The water would literally pour out of the sky, and when the shower was ended we had the pleasure of going over miles of line and resetting poles that had been washed out of their places by young floods."

"Scarcely had we begun to erect the poles before we found that they were falling again, mysteriously, as it seemed. Then we saw that we were up against the termites."

"As soon as wood was placed into the ground they were at it. You can see acres and acres of land in parts of Abyssinia that are as well cropped as if some one had gone over them with a giant lawn mower. That is the work of the termites."

"Immediately after discovering this we ceased to erect wooden poles and used iron ones. Then man began his work. The natives saw great uses for the beautiful round iron posts, and when we had moved on a few miles they would sneak up and tear them out."

"Finally King Menelik had to send messengers throughout the country proclaiming that extreme punishment awaited any who touched the telephone plant."

"Now that the wires are up and men leaving them alone, there is constant damage still. The monkeys of Abyssinia have discovered that they make magnificent trapeze wires, and they swing on them and play with them until they come down."

"The elephants, too, destroy a lot. They have found the iron posts very nice to lean against and to scratch their sides on, and as they were put in to support wires and not elephants, a few give way every day in the elephant regions."

"Inanimate nature also is at work continually to bother the telephone superintendents of Abyssinia. The jungle grows so fast that hardly a day passes in which it isn't necessary to send out a party to cut away some of it where it has reached the wires."

"The worst trouble is from the huge creepers that grow over all the trees. They fall here and there all the time, especially after heavy rains. And when they drop over a telephone wire they either break it or else they conduct the current into the earth."
