The company is meeting with flattering success and opens a three nights' engagement at that place tonight. On next Monday the company will open a week's engagement at the Frazer in this city, after which they will go to Baker City, Sumpter, La Grande and Weiser. The new company is well received and the patronage has been very satisfactory. The company includes the Howards, who were at the Pantheon for two weeks.

Huckleberries Are Ripening.

Already the Blue mountain huckleberry is in the market, several small lots having been brought from the mountains within the last few days. The crop this season will be very heavy all over the mountains, and many huckleberry parties are now in contemplation. The frosts which played havoc with crops and gardens in the foothill districts did not injure the berry crop to any extent.

CARNIVAL GOES MERRILY ON

KING WILL BE ANNOUNCED TOMORROW EVENING.

Confetti Battles, Gay Masqueraders and Coronation Will Make Friday Night Joyful—Parade at 7:15 Tomorrow Evening—All Attractions Well Patronized—Hinkle Leads for King—Grand Ball Saturday Night.

The Eagles' carnival limbered up properly last night.

The rainstorm of Monday night, threw a damper over the opening but the increasing crowds of Tuesday night were eclipsed by the streams of people that thronged the grounds last night.

Tonight promises to be still more spirited and tomorrow night, when the real Mardi Gras features come on, in the confetti battles and the gay masqueraders, the carnival will be at its height.

The voting for king of the carnival has been extended until 1 o'clock tomorrow, when the ballot boxes will be closed and the successful candidate announced. At this time, Joe Hinkle is slightly in the lead with Conrad Platzoeder a close and beautiful second.

On tomorrow evening the grand parade will take place. All Eagles will meet at the hall at 7:45 o'clock and the line of march will be formed at 8 and will be as follows: From Eagles' hall on Court street to Main, and up Main to Water; countermarch from Water up Court street and back to Main to the carnival grounds, where the coronation of the king will take place at 8:30 o'clock, after which confetti battles will be waged on the ground.

The carnival band will lead the parade, after the musicians coming the king, who will be gorgeously attired before leaving the hall. The members of the local aerie of Eagles will follow. A special invitation is extended by the committee to everybody to place floats or banners in the parade. Local merchants will be permitted to have banners in the parade, and those who wish to do so are requested to notify the committee of their intentions as soon as convenient.

The features of the carnival are all well patronized, especially the electric palace and the statue turning to life, which are now leading features. Last night "No Name" was exhibited for the first time and attracted great attention, and must be seen to be appreciated. Language cannot adequately describe the monstrosity.

The Berger Brothers, balancers, feat of strength performers and jugglers are star attractions, also, and are receiving merited praise.

Samson, the boa constrictor, is still a favorite and in fact all the attractions are doing well. The high dive is the most thrilling outdoor attraction ever seen in Pendleton and Mangels is a hero among the boys. Several high dives have been constructed on the bank of the Umatilla since this feat has been seen here.

The carnival will close with a grand Eagles' ball on Saturday night at Music hall.

The vote for king of the carnival was counted at 2:45 this afternoon and the result at the different newspaper offices was as follows:

POLICE COURTINGS.

Marshal Bent a Billy Over a Hard-Headed Resistant.

"This man has the hardest head I ever saw," said Marshal Carney this morning, indicating J. Callaighan with a wave of the head as he brought two prisoners before Police Judge Fitz Gerald.

"He made a disturbance in Gus Stangler's saloon Tuesday and I arrested him. On the way to the jail I met Fire Chief Withee, who accompanied me to the jail. As I started to unlock the door Callaighan made a pass at me. I dodged and cracked him on the head with my club. I had to hit him three times before he was quiet."

Here the marshal exhibited a new "billy," which had been bent by the force of the blows. Notwithstanding that they were delivered with force enough to fel an ox, Carney explained, Callagahn retained his feet. He was given eight days.

Bob Alsop, a brickmason, who fought with Deputy Marshal Thompson when arrested for disturbing the peace while intoxicated last evening, and attemped to assault him at the jail, was sentenced to serve eight days. Thompson produced his club when the jail was reached and with one blow put Alsop out of commission for 10 minutes. He was very meek when he regained sensibility.

In imposing sentence, Judge Fitzgerald said he would have given the prisoner eight days in jail, but he believed about three days' time had been served by his head, one blow for each day. So Bob got five days.

Mrs. Nellie Shaw, of Seattle, was bound and gagged by four masked robbers in her home Wednesday night.
