PIMPLES

"I tried all kinds of blood remedies which failed to do me any good but I have found the right thing at last. My face was full of pimples and blackheads. After taking Cascarets they all left. I am continuing the use of them and recommending them to my friends. I feel fine when I take in the morning. Hope to have a chance to recommend Cascarets."

WAR ON "THE PIKE"

IGORROTTE AT ST. LOUIS REFUSE TO WEAR PANTS.

Governor Got Modest and Wanted the Natives of Bontoca to Hide Their Nakedness, But the Natives Hung Them on the Bushes and Continued to Shock the Lady Visitors by Exhibiting Their Bare Legs—War Department Helpless.

St. Louis, July 14.—When the Igorrotte village at the fair awoke this morning there was a sight to amaze the most blasé. The bushes wore "pants."

The first thought of Dr. T. K. Hunt, governor of the Igorrottes, was that nature had allied herself with the war department and that a new pants-bearing shrub had sprouted overnight for the purpose of delicately hinting that the head hunters be clothed, and at the same time producing a crop of "pants," so that there would be no excuse for continued flirtation with the war department on the subject.

But his second guess was nearer the truth. He recognized the breeches not as a new crop which had grown on the shrubs, but as an outfit which he had the day before put upon the protesting Igorrottes.

The Igorrottes had in turn put them on the bushes, which could not make more than a mute protest.

The first bunch of dinky trousers for the dog-eaters were completed yesterday, and Dr. Hunt grappled with the serious part of the problem—which was to get the Igorrottes into them. They could be led to the tailor to be measured, but it was another question whether they could be prevailed upon to wear the tailor's handiwork.

There was a big palaver. The Igorrottes balked. There was more bad talk than there had been since the Bontocos and the Suyocs fell out over the gazzas. All of the Bontocos mixed in the talk and passed it to Antero, and he made it over in pigeon English and passed it along to Dr. Hunt. They used all the arguments against clothes which their wise men had contributed to the unwritten literature of the tribe, and added a lot of new ones, which they thought out themselves.

But it was no use. Dr. Hunt told them that the war department had spoken and the war department must be obeyed. He mentioned the dimensions of a few of the guns owned by the war department and suggested what the Igorrotte village would look like after the war department got through shooting obedience into them.

They had experience with United States ordnance when they undertook to exterminate the American army with spears over at home once, and they were impressed. They said they would wear the breeches, but they wanted it understood that they reserved an objection.

Over night the inspiration came to them to make one more protest. With a fine sense of symbolism, they put the pants on the bushes, intending to convey their idea of the absurdity of clothing nature. Dr. Hunt ordered them to get back into clothes, and they sullenly obeyed, having made a last stand and lost. The breeches are red and green and other defiant colors.

LADY CURZON SELLS RAILS.

American Girl Now Vice-Empress of India, Looks Out for Business.

American steel rails are going to India, for which thanks may be given to American born Lady Curzon, for it is a particular friend of hers who placed the order, says the Sunday Denver Post.

Hajee Ismail Sait, who registered at the Brown hotel, from India, is the man who is to put Pittsburgh rails in competition with those from Manchester, and if they stand the test another market for steel will be established and Colorado will be benefited directly.

But the gentleman from India did not come over here simply to buy a few carloads of rails. He is here for pleasure. He came to the fair and to see America, the home of his particular friend, Lady Curzon. He is delighted with America, but he had expected a grand country, for is it not the home of Lady Curzon? Everything here delights him. Why not? When Hajee Ismail Sait is at home he devotes his business hours to banking, railroad and kindred pursuits that bring returns on money, but in his leisure hours he thinks of good deeds to be done and many thousands of the many millions he possesses are spent on a hobby of his—hospitals. He produces the money and when the hospitals are constructed and ready for occupancy Lady Curzon graciously dedicates them. On the arched gateway to the grounds of one magnificent institution appear the names of Hajee Ismail Sait and Lady Curzon—one on either side of the drive.

If the steel rails are satisfactory, other hardware may go to India, too.

ISLAND ROMANCE

STRANGE STORY OF "MONTE CRISTO" OF HAWAII.

B. F. Dillingham Lost at Sea, Washed Ashore on Oahu, Rescued by Beautiful Daughter of Missionary, Became Leading Financier of the Islands—Financial Crash Followed Romantic Career.

The recent physical and financial collapse of B. F. Dillingham, the "Monte Cristo" of Hawaii, recalls the romantic story of his youth, says the San Francisco Examiner.

Dillingham, when a very young man, shipped as an able seaman on a sailing vessel bound for Sydney. During a heavy storm the vessel was wrecked and he was the only member of the crew to survive the fearful hardships encountered while drifting in a small lifeboat in mid-ocean.

When almost dead from exposure and starvation Dillingham was cast up by the sea on the island of Oahu, where he was rescued from death by the beautiful daughter of a missionary. The young woman watched by his side day and night until he was restored to health.

It was thus that a pretty romance began, culminating in matrimony. His young wife brought Dillingham good fortune, for he had remarkable success in trading with the natives, and he soon had acquired the foundation of the vast wealth which afterward made him the richest of the numerous millionaire planters of the Hawaiian islands.

The financial genius of the young castaway astounded the growing commercial circles of Honolulu, and he rapidly developed into a powerful factor in commercial affairs. The handsome young girl who had nursed the castaway through his fever and saved his life became a social leader and the name of Dillingham took first place when aristocratic planters and their families from England and New England had gathered and formed an exclusive social circle in Honolulu.

For many years the Dillingham fortune grew, and B. F. Dillingham was at the back of nearly every scheme for promoting the commercial importance of the islands.

He built the beautiful scenic Oahu railroad and his name was identified with every progressive movement that was made in the islands. Four children came to the house of Dillingham. The two boys took high honors at Yale and the two daughters were educated in eastern seminaries.

The eldest, now the wife of Judge W. F. Frear, of the territorial supreme court, is a writer of some note, and her verses are frequently published in the leading magazines. The Dillingham home on Punahou road, Honolulu, is one of the most beautiful residences in the islands.

The financial crash that has demolished the Dillingham fortune came as a surprise to the financial world, which rated the name of Dillingham as one of the most substantial in finance, and it has made a complete wreck of Dillingham himself. Plunged into the depths of misery and despair and the victim of nervous prostration, he now lies in a sanitarium in this city, and beside him watches his wife, who has never once ceased to be his companion and comforter since the day she found him a miserably castaway on the island of Oahu.

Young Walter F. Dillingham, who inherits his father's financial genius, has declared his intention of retrieving the family fortune. He lost his own personal fortune in attempting to save his father's, and as soon as the crash came he sold his string of polo ponies, rolled up his sleeves and went to work. Those who know him say that the name of Dillingham will not be allowed to drop out of the financial and commercial affairs of the islands.

We meet misfortune with a smile. And go our way, content and joyous. Then wonder how to reconcile The thought that little things annoy us.

Truly Wonderful

Has been the trade at our little store. People realize that the size of the store, the number of clerks employed or the size of the stock carried has nothing to do with the money saving values given. Its the quality of the goods and the low prices placed on each article that counts.

The compulsory sale means a great deal to the buyers of clothing. It means the best suits at lower prices than ever quoted in Pendleton.

This shipment of clothing sent us through an error on the part of the factory before we are ready for it makes it imperative that we get rid of it at once. In order to dispose of a large shipment like this it is necessary to give great inducements and make the prices so low and the values so big that people will be compelled to buy because the bargains are irresistible.

OUR OFFERS ARE IRRESISTIBLE

And people who have called have found the greatest, grandest and most convincing money-saving prices ever offered in Eastern Oregon. We propose to close out every article by the end of this month. Clothing and furnishing goods. Its up to you to take advantage of this sale.

The manufacturers of the clothing who made the error, wired us to get rid of the goods and charge the loss to them.

Don't hesitate, but come in and see this magnificent line of clothing and separate trousers. The price is the main thing to you, but on that score we are positive to please you.

THE REMOVAL SALE

Prices on furnishing goods are more wonderfully low than ever. We are doing it. Come in and see.

KAHKI SUITS $1.00

Greatest bargain in Pendleton's merchandising. Coat and pants, best grade, regular army make, for only $1 suit. Come in and let the goods and prices talk to you.

Sullivan & Bond

Compulsory and removal sale. The little store that is breaking all bargain records.

BECK, the Reliable Plumber

Special Excursion to the World's Fair—The Denver & Rio Grande, in connection with the Missouri Pacific, will run a series of personally conducted excursions to the World's fair during June. These excursions will run through to St. Louis without change of cars, making short stops at principal points en route. The first of these excursions will leave Portland June 7th, and the second June 17th. The rate from Pendleton will be $60.00 to St. Louis and return. Excursionists going via the Deaver & Rio Grande have the privilege of returning via a different route. This is the most pleasant way, as well as the most delightful one, to cross the continent.

The stops arranged give an opportunity of visiting the various points of interests in and about Salt Lake City, Denver and Kansas City. If you wish to accompany one of these excursions write at once to W. C. McBride, 124 Third street, Portland, for sleeping car reservations.

In order to accommodate fishing parties the O. R. & N. Co. will, until close of season, have train No. 2, leaving here at 5:45 p. m., stop at North Fork on Saturday evenings, and train No. 1, due in Pendleton at 9 a. m., stop at some place Monday morning. This arrangement will be in effect Saturday, May 14.

"Aren't you afraid of catching cold, my dears?" "Oh, no sir; we've got on our overshoes."
