THE SIGNAL LIGHT.

Opening Attraction of the Engagement of Margarita Fischer Company.

"The Signal Light," the opening play of the Margarita Fischer Company, is one of the strongest melodramatic military plays ever written. It is a story of "love and war" between the North and the South; a young federal officer, Captain Blanchard, has been wounded and taken prisoner by a company of Confederate soldiers.

They stop to rest on the way to Libby prison at a place called "Lynwood." There he meets an old sweetheart, Lucille Carlyle, a sister of Colonel Edwin Carlyle, of the Confederate army.

She secretes her lover in the house until the guard has passed. Unfortunately, Blanchard is recognized by Colonel Carlyle as a man who struck him a blow in the face a year previous in Louisville. They quarrel again and come to blows, when one Dudley Middleton, a Confederate officer who is also in love with Miss Carlyle attempts to stab Blanchard in the back, but by a sudden turn he kills his own friend.

Meantime one Elias Rastus Confucious Carter, a correspondent for a London paper, appears on the scene and sketches the struggle. Blanchard is puzzled to know how the man came to his death, feeling that he himself is innocent. He goes to the grief-stricken sister and confesses to the quarrel, but maintains his innocence. She takes an oath of vengeance against the murderer of her brother, "whoever he may be."

Middleton, to protect himself, has Carter placed under arrest as a spy, and blames the murder on Blanchard. She is influenced to send for her lover and betray him into the hands of the Confederates, which she does by placing a signal light in the window.

Miss Kate Wilmarth, a creole girl, who has been played false by Middleton, betrays him in his schemes, and assisted by the artist correspondent, they save Blanchard at the last minute.

The company is bigger and stronger than ever. They have just finished a 12-weeks' engagement at Boise.

OREGON FLIMFLAMMED.

Governor's Staff Stolen Blind at the American Lake Camp.

Sabers, saddles, spurs, and in fact everything that was not nailed down at American Lake, was stolen from the staff of the governor of Oregon.

The members of the staff, who live in Portland, arrived home Monday and went directly to Chief of Police Hunt to tell their troubles, says the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Chief Delaney received a letter from Chief Hunt Tuesday night relative to the matter and yesterday every patrolman was given a description of the stolen goods with instructions to keep a lookout for them.

The members of the staff of the governor of Oregon went into camp with paraphernalia of every description.

The staff officers were quartered at Murray very near to a troop of regular cavalry. It was a colored troop and the sight of so much war apparatus that could be carried away was too much for the colored troopers.

A watermelon patch would have caused less trouble in the ranks. Silver spurs with plated buckles and saddles with hand workmanship were temptations that could not be withstood. The stuff just kept disappearing.

Sixty to the Beach.

Over sixty excursion tickets were sold to Portland and Long Beach at the local ticket office in Boise this afternoon. The two coaches which left at 1 o'clock were filled and many were utilizing the standing room. It was a good natured crowd all bent on reaching the beach and enjoying the delightful cool ocean breezes.—Boise Capital News.

Vag Run in.

Aj Rust, a semi-stranger and vag, was run in this afternoon for begging on the streets, and being drunk.

Letters of a Mysterious Nature Sent Out to People Who Expect to Find a Surprise When They Answer—Set of Books Purporting to Be of Great Value Being Sold to the Public—Sample of the Inviting Letter Sent Out.

Several leading citizens were more or less surprised a few days ago at receiving a letter which in every case was a duplicate of the letters received by other citizens, and of which the following is a copy:

Hotel Bickers, Pendleton, Or., July 20, 1904.

Mr. Thomas Thompson, Pendleton, Oregon:

Dear Sir:—In regard to a courtesy that has been extended to you from Washington, D. C., I would be pleased to personally explain same to you if you will kindly call at the Hotel Bickers at 11 o'clock on Friday morning.

Respectfully yours, S. H. HAWKINS.

It transpires that Mr. Hawkins is the agent for a compilation of public documents — Presidential Messages and Other Public Documents — made by Congressman Tom Richardson, of Tennessee, or at least alleged to be compiled by him. Mr. Hawkins visited this place some three or four years ago and roped in a number of citizens on exactly the same plan, at $26 per.

The scheme is not denounced by the victims as an out-and-out swindle, but those who invested do claim that the price paid was out of all proportion to the value of the returns. In other words, that the books are "dead horse" and are not fully what they were represented to be. Some even claim that whoever wishes can obtain of his congressman, under the franking privilege, and by an outlay of a two-cent stamp and the trouble of writing the request, any of the documents contained in the Tom Richardson compilation, and that if he wishes all of them, and has the patience to write for them, that he can get all of them. In other words, if the scheme is not a swindle out and out, it certainly is a big graft.

The assertion is made that Mr. Hawkins is careful to avoid making himself conspicuous on this trip, and that he does not renew the acquaintances he made on his former tour to this place. It would be interesting to know how many men he listed as subscribers to the compilation, by the above appeal to the vanity of those who supposed they had been selected as subjects for a special literary dispensation by the authorities in the government printing department.

J. V. Tallman, Dr. C. J. Smith and other prominent citizens have been selected as special marks by Mr. Hawkins, and the plan seems to be of general scope.
