BETTER INSPECTION

LIVESTOCK REGULATIONS NEED REVISING.

Inspection of Stock is Now Largely a Matter of Form, With Little Scientific Knowledge Required—State Law Should Be Passed to Make Stringent Regulations and Protect the Stock Interests.

In speaking of the need of more thorough livestock inspection, a prominent federal officer connected with the bureau of animal industry, said in a recent conversation with the writer: "What we need is to have the office of the state veterinarian and his deputies incorporated with the state board of health. If they acted under the direction of this board it would be a long step toward making the service more efficient. As it is, the examinations for disease in animals are usually a farce.

As an instance, take the examination of the C. B. Wade herd in Pendleton for tuberculosis. There is a regulation by the state officers in the state of Washington that all animals from other states must be subjected to the tuberculin test before being admitted to that state.

This is, of course, a protective measure for the large catlemen of Washington. The raisers of fine cattle are in favor of it, as it tends to keep outside cattle out of the state while the creamery men, who wish to see more dairy cattle come into the state are adverse to it.

To properly perform the test for tuberculosis requires 48 hours. The animals are kept quiet and not excited in any way for 24 hours so that their temperature will be normal. The sterilized tuberculin is then injected at the same time their temperature is taken. At the same hour, 24 hours later, their temperature is again taken and if it is two degrees or more higher, it is considered a proof of the existence of the disease in the animal. In a healthy animal it causes no fever and consequently no rise in temperature.

Now at the C. B. Wade auction in Pendleton, his blooded stock, a certain deputy inspector completed the test of more than 100 animals within the space of five hours—an absurdity and a farce upon the face of it.

Usually these tests are a farce; a sort of holdup game. Pay a deputy 50 cents or a dollar and he will give you a clear bill of health; so that it is really no protection against the introduction of cattle affected with the disease.

The whole subject should be thoroughly studied by some intelligent and impartial man and a bill prepared for passage at the coming session of the legislature making a thorough revision of the existing laws.

The influential papers should agitate this matter to attract attention to the need of a thorough shake-up of the matter."—Fred Lockley.

INVADING CITY OF DEAD.

La Grande Real Estate Agent Selling an Old Cemetery.

The oldest cemetery in Union county, located between what is called the "Old Town" and La Grande, is now being invaded by a real estate company.

The land has been purchased by Dr. O'Connor, who has platted it and converted it into an addition to the city of La Grande. The bodies remaining in the old cemetery are now being removed and placed in the new cemetery and the old ground is being leveled down for new dwellings.

Many of the early settlers of La Grande were buried there and while the remains of nearly all the known dead have been removed by relatives, about 100 unknown graves yet remain.

The old cemetery is situated on a beautiful elevation adjoining the grounds selected for a new court house site and is now very valuable.

UNRULY FREEWATER GIRLS.

Go to Walla Walla for a "Time" and Land in Jail.

Two girls who reside at Freewater, are being held in the city jail awaiting instructions from their parents. In company with Kate Blue, another Freewater girl, they created a disturbance on South Second street Wednesday night, says the Walla Walla Statesman.

Yesterday the Blue girl was fined $20, but was allowed to go on parole, on promising to go to her home in Freewater. The others were taken in charge last night by the police. These three girls have been about the city for several days associating with questionable characters. Kate Blue is 16 years old and the Crimmins girls are aged 21 and 17 respectively.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured.

By local applications as they can not reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

LA GRANDE EDITOR'S PIANO.

How Fred Curry's Mind Was Suddenly Changed on Music.

There had been an agitation for some weeks in the home of Fred Curry, one of the editors of the La Grande Observer, over the question of purchasing a piano.

The luxury seemed rather expensive for a modest country editor and the question was seriously debated around the cook stove several times. Finally Mrs. Curry agreed to allow her musical aspirations to be satisfied with a harp—an Aeolian. Mr. Curry agreeing to buy the best one quoted in the catalogues at the local music store.

As he went down town complimenting himself on this compromise, he figured that his diplomacy had saved him $300 that morning, as a good piano would have cost him $400, and he innocently estimated that the best harp quoted in any list in La Grande could be purchased for $100 at the outside.

He rather proudly entered the leading music store and asked to see a price list of harps—Aeolians—and in advance of his scanning the best he ordered the best one quoted, which surprising plunge on the part of the newspaper man startled the dealer—the best harp quoted would only cost him $200.

Mr. Curry went to the phone and asked his wife what kind of a piano she wanted, without any reference to harps.

AGENTS WANTED.

Thrice-a-Week World Will Give All the Election News.

The result of the election will be foreshadowed in the World weeks in advance, exactly as Cleveland's election was foretold and as McKinley's triumphs were, the World giving the electoral vote by states with absolute correctness ten weeks before McKinley's election day.

The World will not only strive to be right, but it will be bright and large; national in its news and views. Every one who is interested in this vital presidential contest will need it every day. No democrat or republican should be without it.

The regular price for the Daily Morning World by mail is $2 for four months, but for a special time the World will send the Daily Morning edition by mail for four months for $1.00.

Agents are wanted to take subscriptions. A liberal commission will be given. Address World Campaign Club, Room 49, Pulitzer Building, N. Y.

Terms, subscription blanks, sample copies, printed matter, etc., will be sent by return mail.

No Discomfort.

Van Antler (entertaining Witherby at his country home)—Now, old man, if you should happen to want anything in the night just touch this bell.

Witherby—Never! I know how hard it is to keep servants in the country. Catch me touching that bell!

Van Antler—But, I assure you, you are perfectly safe. The bell doesn't work.—Life.

THE FAIR

One Hundred Dollars Reward.

One hundred dollars is a pretty good reward for five minutes work, yet that is what J. E. Storde, of Watsburg, Wash., got from the East Oregonian in our last subscription contest. He received with the compliments of the East Oregonian, without a cent of expense to himself, a $100 rubber-tired buggy. We propose to conduct another subscription contest on the following basis:

From now until November 4th we will take new subscriptions sent in by our subscribers and to the one who guesses nearest to the vote received by the winning presidential candidate in this state, we will give one-half of all the money received from this contest.

For example, if you think President Roosevelt will receive the majority of votes in the coming election, fill out the coupon, "Roosevelt's total vote in Oregon will be (.....)," and put in your estimate.

If our subscribers co-operate with us as they have in previous contests and as we expect they will in this, we will take in several hundred dollars and possibly much more, one-half of which will go to the person who guesses nearest to the vote in Oregon for the winning presidential candidate.

There is only one requirement and this is important. ALL NAMES IN THIS MUST BE THOSE OF NEW SUBSCRIBERS. Renewals of subscription will not be counted in this contest. Subscribers can participate in this way: Get some neighbor to take the Weekly East Oregonian for four months for 50 cents. Send in a money order for the 50 cents; or in 1c and 2c stamps or silver, accompanied by your guess on the presidential vote. If you do not want to ask some neighbor to subscribe, send in 50 cents and the name of some friend in the East who is interested in the western country. Let him read the Weekly East Oregonian and it will give him more news about the resources of the Inland Empire than you could if you wrote him a 50-page letter a week. For every 50 cents you will be entitled to one guess. If you get four of your friends to take it four months each, you will be entitled to four guesses, or if you get one new subscription for a year for the Weekly for $1.50 you are entitled to three guesses. Some one of our subscribers will get one half of all money taken in on this contest. It may be only $50, or it may be several hundred dollars, but whatever the sum the one who guesses nearest to the presidential vote in Oregon for the winning candidate, will get one-half of the money.

Remember the guess is on the vote cast in Oregon for the successful presidential candidate.

Only new subscriptions count.

A subscription for 50 cents gives you one guess.

You can send in as many subscribers as you wish and for each 50 cents you get one guess.

This contest closes November fourth, so be sure to send in your guess before that time.

The total vote in June, 1904, was 92,508; for republican candidate for supreme judge, 52,946; for democrat, 28,729; socialist, 6419, and prohibition, 5514.

ONE STAGE LINE QUITS.

Rate War on the Walla Walla Stage Line at an End.

For the past two months two stage lines have been operated between Elgin and Joseph, and as a result of the sharp competition rates were cut and passengers could get into Walla Walla at almost any price offered.

On Saturday the new line, called the Tenderfoot line, was discontinued, leaving the field open to the regular McCully Stage Company.

The old prices were immediately restored and business has assumed its former condition.

During the life of the Tenderfoot line business was carried on with a high hand. Both stage companies put "runners" on the Elgin train at La Grande, who engaged passengers in advance for their lines and the rates were cut lower than either company could afford to carry passengers for.

The McCully stage line now occupying the field is the one sold by Joe Keeney, a short time ago, to McCully Brothers, of Joseph.

NO SUNDAY EXCURSIONS.

The Northern Pacific Issues an Edict Against Them.

The Northern Pacific railroad company has placed the ban on Sunday excursions and special trains, says the Spokesman-Review. An order has been issued by General Passenger Agent Clelan to agents notifying them that requests for special Sunday trains cannot be granted. The bulletin says:

"Our management has decided, after investigation, not to run special trains on Sundays.

"It is their desire that the men shall, if possible, have one day in the week for physical and mental rest.

"The reasons for this are obvious. In addition to this we have received a great many protests from organized bodies and individuals against Sunday excursion business, and we feel it our duty to give heed to so large a number of our patrons. Govern yourself accordingly.

"I feel sure that when this is fully explained that everyone will appreciate the necessity for such action."

Stock Sales at the Fair.

One of the features at the Oregon state fair this year will be the big auction sale of pure bred Shorthorns and Herefords. Most all the prominent breeders who have anything to spare will consign a few head of their choice cattle to this sale which will aggregate a very select lot of cattle to be distributed among the small breeders throughout the country.

There is no better place to start a man into the breeding business than at the state fair where farmers can compare the different breeds and select the kind best suited to his choice. The large breeders, too, will in time profit by these sales, by inducing farmers to change from the scrub to the pure bred, which will give them a better market for their young bulls, but the greatest benefit will be to those who lay the foundation for a pure bred herd.—Rural Spirit.

The Way of the World.

When Thackeray was in this country he called on General Scott, full of admiration for his remarkable campaign in Mexico and eager to hear the warrior explain how battles were fought and fields were won. "Well, now you know all about it," remarked a friend as the novelist returned from a two hours' tete-a-tete with the soldier. "Not at all," replied Thackeray, with a twinkle in his eye. "The general takes no interest in strategy. I found that literature was his forte."
