PETROLEUM FOR DIPPING CATTLE

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE RECOMMENDS OIL.

Where Two Dippings Have Been Required With Lime and Sulphur, But One Will Be Necessary With Beaumont Crude Petroleum—Best Dipping Vat in the West Located at Echo and Owned by Asa Thompson and J. B. Saylor, of Butter Creek—Prompt Measures Taken for Eradication of Mange.

Experiments by the bureau of animal industry have been carried on extensively in other states in the dipping of cattle for Texas fever and mange have shown that the use of Beaumont crude petroleum, grading one and one-half per cent sulphur, is the most effective.

With this mixture one dipping is all that is necessary for cattle. This will be a great advantage as heretofore with other dips the department has required two dippings 10 days apart before infected cattle could be shipped. A circular will soon be issued by the department of agriculture covering the matter fully.

It may not be generally known, but it is nevertheless a fact that one of the best dipping tanks in the West is located in Umatilla county. It was erected at their own expense by J. B. Saylor and Asa Thompson and is near Echo.

The vat cost about $750, and is made of cement with cement draining pan. At each side are large receiving pens with a capacity for handling between 600 and 700 cattle. The posts and other woodwork are treated with preservative chemicals. The vat is 36 feet long, 8 feet deep and holds 4000 gallons of prepared dip.

This capacity permits the dipping and holding them the required two minutes and treating fully 600 cattle a day.

Heretofore they have been using the lime and sulphur dip, but it is the intention of many of the cattle feeders in the great feeding district tributary to Butter creek to dip all their stock cattle this winter before putting them in the feed yards. It is more than probable that the Beaumont oil will be used in the future.

Last Friday after dipping 300 head of their own stock they dipped 160 head of transient horses. When these horses were offered for shipment at Grant's Ferry on the Columbia they were condemned by the federal inspector and ordered shipped. In North and South Dakota, Nebraska and Montana mange is prevalent and has reached such a stage that its eradication is becoming a matter of great difficulty. If other sections of Oregon would show the same commendable spirit as the Butter creek stockmen, the eradication of this disease in the states of Oregon and Washington where it has as yet but a slight foothold in circumscribed districts, would be comparatively an easy matter.

WATER FAMINE BROKEN.

Walla Walla Gets an Additional Supply of 300,000 Gallons.

At the council meeting last night Mayor Hunt stated to the members that Water Superintendent Knight had been doing some development work on the city's land above the city and had secured an additional supply of 300,000 gallons of water, says the Walla Walla Statesman. This had been turned into the city reservoirs and will assist materially in tiding over the difficulties now confronting the water department.

When the announcement was made Councilman Smith said in a ludicrous manner that he was surprised that the councilmen would stand for the use of water from wells and underground galleries. He had the impression that the only possible place to secure water was in the mountains. Councilman McLean said that it was well that more water had been secured, but as far as he was concerned he did not like the quality. He said that it was the poorest water that he had drunk in many years, and if that was a sample of what would result from wells he did not want any more of it.

TAMING A HORSE.

Three Articles That Will Subdue the Most Savage Animal.

There were trouble and excitement one day on a ranch in Colorado. A high spirited, half broken stallion was prancing about the yard attached to the rancher's house. He had just thrown a cowboy who boasted there was nothing on four legs he could not ride, and he was rearing and bucking so that not even the pluckiest man on the ranch dared to approach.

While the men were standing around wondering what to do the rancher's sixteen-year-old daughter came out of the house and calmly walked up to the excited animal.

When he saw her he ceased rearing, whinied and stood still. She just put her hand on his mane, stroked his nose and then vaulted lightly on his back and rode around the yard, to the amazement of the men.

"How do you manage it?" one of them asked her. "Before you tackled him he was as savage as a tiger."

"It is simple enough," the girl replied. "Any woman can handle a horse better than a man can. See this"—showing the man a small round object she had in her hand—"this is horse castor. Horses love the smell of it and will go up to any one who has it."

"Any horse has sense enough to know the people who love it. That stallion began to quiet down as soon as he saw me. When I got near him he smelled the musty horse castor in my clothes, for I always carry a little piece in my pocket."

"That pleased him so much that I was able to stroke his head. While doing so I rubbed his nose with a few drops of oil of cumin, which I had poured into the palm of my hand. Horses positively love that scent. Then, did you notice that I put my hand into his mouth? The object of that was to pour a few drops of oil of rhodium on to his tongue from a tiny vial which I always carry."

"With these three articles any horse can be tamed. Where do you get them? Well, the cumin and rhodium can be bought at any drug store; the horse castor must be cut from a horse's forehead. It is a warty growth there."

It is a fact that horses are very fond of these scents. They are often used by women in the tropics and west in the training and breaking of horses.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

MODERN UTOPIAS.

European Countries in Which Pauperism is Unknown.

Denmark claims that there is not a single person in her domain who cannot read and write. On the northeast coast of New Guinea the island of Kutaba, surrounded by a wall of coral 300 feet high on one side and from 50 to 100 feet on the other, maintains thirteen villages of natives, to whom war, crime and poverty have been unknown since the beginning of their traditions. The most peaceful and comfortable community in Europe is the commune of the Canton Vaud, in Switzerland. Nearly every one is well off, and there are no paupers. Finland is a realm whose inhabitants are remarkable for their inviolate integrity. There are no banks and no safe deposits, for no such security is essential. You may leave your luggage anywhere for any length of time and be quite sure of finding it untouched on your return, and your purse full of money would be just as secure under similar circumstances. The Finns place their money and valuables in holes in the ground and cover them with a big leaf. Such treasure is sacredly respected by all who pass it, but in the rare event of a man wishing to borrow of his neighbor during his absence he will take only the smallest sum he requires and place a message in the hole telling of his urgent need and promising to repay the amount on a specified date. And he will invariably keep his word, for the Finn is inviolable in his independence.

Agneta Park, near Delft, in Holland is another Utopia example. A tract of ten acres has upon it 150 houses, each with its little garden and with certain common buildings and common grounds. The houses are occupied by the employees of a great distilling company, who form a corporation which owns the park. Each member owns shares in the corporation and pays rent for his house. The surplus, after all expenses have been paid, comes back to him as dividend. If he wishes to go away or if he dies his shares are bought up by the corporation and sold to the man who takes his place.—Detroit Free Press.

Chickweed.

Like the plantain, which the Indians called "the white man's foot" because it sprang up wherever the whites penetrated, the chickweed seems to follow the track of the white colonist, and in New Zealand the Maoris call it "the mark of the paleface." The little flower is a sort of barometer. It opens when fine weather is coming, remains closed if rain is in the air.

New Bank at John Day.

The new bank building is making good progress. The huge steel-lined vault has been enclosed with a double wall of brick, thus making it fire-proof. The structure is an ideal one, modern in every way, and perfectly adapted to the use for which it is being built.

GETTING READY FOR IRRIGATION

REVIEW OF THE PROPOSED MALHEUR PLANS.

Malheur Irrigation District Comprises About 100,000 Acres Which Will Be Supplied by a Reservoir Which Will Have a Capacity for Two Years' Water—Government Will Not Undertake the Plan Unless All the Water Users Join the Association.

The Ontario Democrat, speaking of the prospects for irrigation brought out at the recent irrigation mass meeting, says:

"Mr. Whistler stated that it had not yet been determined whether the reservoir would be located in Harper basin or Little valley; the formation of the ground was now being tested, work having been begun that morning, to see which site would prove the most desirable.

"The proposed district, which embraces about 100,000 acres of land, would be supplied with water by two large canals of about equal size. One on the north side of the river, which would water a small portion of Lower Bully creek, Lower Willow creek and all of the Dead Ox flat country.

"The other canal would be taken out on the south side of the river and would follow along the foothill, terminating at Snake river, near the mouth of the Owyhee river.

"It is estimated that about 15,000 acres of land under the proposed canals can not be utilized on account of some of it being bad land, while some is too high to get water on and the rest includes the river bed. There is now about 15,000 acres in cultivation in the district, most of which has not a sufficient water supply, and it is the desire of the government that this land come into the association.

"In reply to a question, Mr. Whistler said it was doubtful if the government would take hold of the project unless all the present land owners in the district would come into the association.

"The reservoir will hold two years' supply of water, sufficient to meet all the necessary demands during two consecutive years of drouth."

INTEREST ACCUMULATIONS.

Fabulous Total of Interest That Would Have Accrued Since 1492.

F. C. Fritz, treasurer of the Milwaukee Savings Bank, has issued the following interesting estimates of interest accumulations on a given amount since the time of Christopher Columbus.

The Commercial National Bank of this city calls attention to these peculiar financial statistics:

"There are probably few, however, familiar with the subject of the rapid increase of capital put at interest, who would not be startled at the statement that the cost of the outfit of Christopher Columbus in his first voyage of discovery, put at interest at 6 per cent, would by this time have amounted to more than the entire money value of this continent, together with the accumulations from the industry of all who have lived upon it, says Mr. Fritz.

If any doubt this, let them reckon the amount, estimating the entire outfit to have cost only the small sum of $5000, and remembering that money doubles, at 6 per cent, in a little less than 12 years (or, accurately, in 11 years, 10 months and 21 days).

Allowing it to double every 12 years this $5000 at interest at 6 per cent since 1492, it will be found, would have amounted to about $60,000,000,000,000, which, estimating the population of the entire continent of America (North and South) to be 150,000,000, or 30,000,000 families, (averaging five members each), would give $2,000,000,000 as the possession of every one of these families.

The interest upon $2,000,000 at 6 per cent is $120,000, which would now be the princely annual income of these 30,000,000 families from the accumulations up to this time: upon so small a sum as that named for the outfit of the discoverer.

A hog is a person who jams his suitcase in front of you at the railway station so as to get your place in the line to the gate.

A hog is a person who "breaks in" while you are negotiating in a store and takes the attention of the salesman or saleswoman away from you.

A hog is a person who opens his window in the railway car and allows dust and cinders to fly in the face of the passengers behind, though he would not tolerate an open window at the seat next in front.
