JOHNSON NOT HELD

KILLING OF HAYNIE WAS PURELY ACCIDENTAL.

Only Element of Carelessness Noted by Coroner Henderson Was the Fact That the Scabbard Top Was Left Unbuttoned—Johnson Allowed His Liberty—Holverson Was Never Taken into Custody—Widow and Three Children Will Leave Tomorrow for the Old Kansas Home, with the Remains.

The coroner's jury that examined into the killing of Arthur E. Haynie, at Lehman Springs Wednesday night, declared that the death was due to the carelessness of Gus Johnson, coroner T. M. Henderson, in his report, agrees with the verdict of the jury, but adds that he does not believe the carelessness on the part of Johnson was such that would warrant the bringing of a criminal action. Dr. Henderson's report follows:

"I agree with the verdict of the jury as follows: That Arthur E. Haynie came to his death as the result of a pistol shot in the abdomen. The shooting occurred about 8 o'clock p. m., July 27, and he died at 2 o'clock, July 28. The discharging of the gun was caused by being carelessly handled by Gus Johnson, while in an intoxicated condition. But I wish to state further that I consider the firing of the pistol purely accidental. While there is a certain element of carelessness in this case, I do not consider it of a sufficient degree or kind as the law requires when charges are brought for manslaughter, the only element of carelessness being that the cap of the scabbard in

Sheriff T. D. Taylor arrived in Pendleton last night with Johnson, but the latter was allowed his liberty, and it is understood no charge will be preferred against him. Neils Holverson, Johnson's companion, was not brought to Pendleton by the sheriff. He returned to Hilgard yesterday and came to Pendleton this morning on the train.

The remains of Haynie, accompanied by the widow and children, will leave tomorrow for Homewood, Kan. Interment will be at that place under the auspices of the I. O. O. F. lodge.

Cattle Mange Decreasing.

Reports from all sections of the country where cattle mange has existed would seem to indicate that the disease is decreasing says the Denver Stockman. This is, of course, partly due to treatment, but much is due to the improved conditions of the cattle due to better feed. Dr. Parker, in charge of the bureau of animal industry at San Antonio, Texas, says he is much encouraged at the decrease of scabies in both cattle and sheep in his territory. He says that the improvement is most noticeable in cattle, but that the sheep are showing up well. He and his assistants have recently completed the inspection of 140,000 sheep, many of which, he says, found their way to this market. Dr. Parker says that he never saw such fine grass as is to be seen in Southern Texas this year. Cattle are thriving on it.

Committed to the Asylum.

Frank McIntyre, arrested yesterday morning on a charge of insanity, was yesterday afternoon ordered committed to the state hospital for the insane at Salem. He will be taken there today. McIntyre's mental disorder is occasioned by the fear that someone has hidden from him his wife and children. It is thought he will recover after a few weeks' treatment.

Because Mrs. Annie McNearney disobeyed a court order by leaving the state with her minor son, James Patrick McNearney, Circuit Judge Ellis has filed a second order transferring the custody of the child to his father, John McNearney. The McNearneys were divorced in the state circuit court at this place. Mrs. McNearney is said to be at Reed City, Mich.

IN SOCIETY

The beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Hartman, Sr., was the scene of one of the prettiest social functions last Thursday night, ever witnessed in Pendleton.

Over 300 invitations had been issued to a reception in honor of their son, George Hartman, Jr., and his bride, and from the happy gathering of guests that thronged the beautiful parlors from 9 o'clock until nearly midnight, it would seem that every one of the little missives had been answered in person.

The original plan was to hold the reception on the spacious lawn, but the rainstorm in the evening changed this plan, but did not detract from the happiness and picturesqueness of the occasion, nor from the hearty greeting that was accorded the young people.

In spite of the showers which freshened and cooled the atmosphere and made the evening more pleasant for an indoor reception, the wide lawn was lighted with long festoons of Japanese lanterns, which shed a soft and dreamy light over the verdure of the green carpet, and invoked the sweetest dreams and pleasantest thoughts of the long life that lay before the young couple just beginning the journey together.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartman, Sr., were ably assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. Dr. C. J. Smith, Mrs. S. P. Sturgis, Mrs. T. G. Halley and Mrs. A. D. Stillman. Two fairies in white, Gwendolyn Smith and Genevieve Halley, greeted the guests at the door and added an indescribable air of happiness and buoyancy to the scene, by their cheerful greetings.

The reception parlor was beautifully decorated with ferns, palms and potted flowers and the lights were softened by hanging ferns and flowers and music from mandolin and guitar rippled continuously throughout the reception.

In this main reception parlor the bride and groom were greeted by the throng of guests who filled the spacious parlors, porches and living rooms to overflowing.

In a nook in the living room, punch and sherbet were served by Miss Jessie Hartman, Miss Bertha Alexander, Miss Edith Epple and Miss Freda Roesch, and on the porch, under a bower of palms and lanterns Mrs. A. D. Stillman presided gracefully over the lemonade.

The guests began to arrive about 9 o'clock, and from that until nearly midnight a continuous stream came and went from the happy home.

The good wishes expressed and the kindly hopes given utterance for the happiness and prosperity of the young couple, will go with them down the pathway, as one of the priceless memories of youth.

It will be an event long remembered in the annals of Pendleton social history, for fortune has bestowed two of her choicest blessings on George Hartman, Jr., the one that he is a sterling young man, with a large and enthusiastic personal following, and the other that he is the son of one of the most honored pioneer families in Umatilla county, and he brings to Pendleton a bride no less honored and beloved than himself.

Carpenter-Ransom.

A recent social event of Portland, which was of much interest to Pendleton, was the wedding of Homer V. Carpenter, formerly bookkeeper for the Pendleton Woolen Mills, now bookkeeper for the United States National Bank, of Portland, and Miss Edyth Ransom, daughter of C. W. Ransom, representative of a wholesale drug firm of Portland.

The ceremony was performed at the beautiful home of the bride at 11 North Eleventh street, Portland, at 9 o'clock on Saturday evening, July 23.

The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion with sweet peas, smilax, fern and rubber plant.

J. C. Lindsey, the popular railroad man, well known in this city, was best man, and Miss Wells, of Portland, was bridesmaid. The bride was tastefully dressed in organdie with delicate lace trimming.

They were the recipients of many elegant and valuable presents, including several beautiful cut glass articles. Those present at the ceremony from Pendleton were Miss Jessie Hartman, Miss Nellie Cameron and Fred W. Lampkin.

Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter will reside permanently in Portland.

PARTISAN OF THE SHORTHORN.

Pioneer Stockman Has a Decided Preference for That Breed.

D. I. Mitchell, a Butter creek pioneer, was in town yesterday and until the morning westbound train. Mr. Mitchell came to Yamhill county in 1853, and to Umatilla county in 1860. He has not been east since he visited his native town, Liberty, Mo., in 1859.

Mr. Mitchell reports the existence of some scab in the Butter creek country among cattle and horses, the cattle suffering more than the horses. Many have been dipped and more will be. Industrial conditions have depressed the cattle market so much that the depression is felt by the cattle growers, who are in dread of a season of holding cattle already ready for the market. Two years ago 3000 beeves were full fed along Butter creek, but fewer are being fed this year.

Mr. Mitchell is a strong partisan of the claims of the Shorthorn. He believes them to be a better range cattle than the Hereford, or any other cultivated breed. He makes the conclusive point that the Herefords from the ranges to the southward seldom average as fine as Shorthorns of the corresponding grades. The Shorthorns are more tractable and easier managed, and the bulls are not so dangerous. "No fence will turn a Hereford bull when his head is set, and an old Hereford cow is nearly as bad."

It stands to reason that animals being fed for the market will do better in proportion to their mildness and quietness of disposition and ease with which they are managed. All this in spite of the claims that are made by the admirers of the Hereford.

VERY FINE WHEAT.

Best in Fourteen Years Raised on the Oliver Place.

Henry Neil, who has rented the T. D. Oliver place in Bean Gulch, two miles this side of Fulton, for 14 years, says the wheat thereon is the finest it has raised in that time, both in quality and probable yield, though the grain has not yet been threshed. The reason for this is said to be the cold and dry weather which prevailed during the period the barley was stooling.

On the Oliver place below town, the alfalfa crop is particularly fine. The second cutting has just been hauled in and the average per acre is four tons—a heavier crop than the same ground yielded last year for the first cutting. The quality is fine. This is not grown on irrigated ground, not having a drop of moisture except from the rainfall.

THE FISCHER REPERTOIRE.

Next Week's Attractions Promise a Wide Variety of Amusement.

The Margarita Fischer company, now at the Frazer, will play "Leah, the Forsaken," tonight and tomorrow night. This splendid Jewish religious play has been the favorite with audiences in every city in which it has been presented.

The Fischer company has special costumes for this play and it will be presented at the Frazer tonight and tomorrow night just as it is seen in the largest Eastern theaters.

The play is of intense dramatic interest, presenting the story of a beautiful Jewess who is represented as giving up her lover for gold. Fate and love and circumstance weave a tangled web about her and she is finally stabbed to death, but not until full retribution and complete satisfaction for all the falsehoods practiced upon her young life has been brought about.

Next Week's Repertoire.

The Fischer company will present the following attractions next week: Monday, "Won on a Wager"; Tuesday, "In Nevada"; Wednesday, "Mother and Son"; Thursday, "Divorced"; Friday and Saturday, "Under a Flag of Truce," and Sunday night, "Sex Against Sex."

Here's the Right Ring.

Five large bundles of wheat and rye have come in from Morrow county farmers and have been placed in charge of Mr. Gilliam for exhibition at the big fair next year. These exhibits are undoubtedly fine, but there is not nearly enough. Farmers throughout the county are urged to bring in specimens of this year's product. Let us have samples grown upon every kind of land and enough of each to properly represent us. It is not expected that luxuriant growths will be developed on semi-arid land, but we want an honest exhibition to this nevertheless.—Heppner Gazette.

Looks for Active Real Estate.

A business man and heavy realty owner who is not a real estate agent, is "making calculations" for a pronounced real estate boom in this place this fall. He says every indication is to the effect that more residence property will change hands here this fall than during any one fall for years past. The most noticeable feature of the situation, in his opinion, will be the demand for residence properties by ranchers who will move in to send their children to school.

A Two Months Tour.

Mrs. John Vert will start Friday next on a tour that will end with her return home about October 1. She will first go to the valley, meeting friends at Salem and Albany, who will join her for a trip to Newport, where they will remain for a month. Mrs. Vert will then go to San Francisco, where she will attend the Masonic convale. After that affair Mrs. Vert will tour California and view all the points of greatest interest, including the Yosemite.

Special Service.

Several churches of the city will join in a special service, according to the plans already announced, at the Baptist church, at 8 o'clock Sunday evening. The sermon will be by Prof. W. D. Lyman, of Whitman College. The purpose of these meetings is to unite the forces of the several churches for evangelistic effort. A cordial invitation is extended to all church members and those who have no church home to join in these services.

Two Dollar and a Half Gold Piece.

W. B. Mays a few days ago found in the middle of the street at the intersection of Alta and Thompson streets, a $2.50 gold coin of the mintage of 1852. Though battered, the coin is not badly worn, and the inscriptions of both sides can be plainly seen. Coin of this denomination is no longer made.

Whenever the opportunity permits the czar likes to indulge in a few hours' sea fishing, a sport of which he has been exceedingly fond since he was a boy.

JAMES A. FEE RETAINED.

Will Assist District Attorney Phelps in O. R. & N. Tax Case.

To assist the county in the defense of the suit brought by the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company to annul the assessment of its property in Umatilla county, Judge James A. Fee, of this city, has been retained. Judge Fee is at work on the case at the present time and will act with District Attorney Phelps.

That the railway company is determined to fight what it considers unjust taxation, to the end, is shown by the way in which it is working. Arthur W. Spencer, formerly deputy district attorney for Multnomah county, but now assistant to W. W. Cotton, general counsel for the O. R. & N., has been specially detailed on the case.

Mr. Spencer is considered among the brightest of the young attorneys of Oregon, and his record while deputy prosecutor for Multnomah county was unusually successful.

Rudolph Spreckles, of San Francisco, was successfully operated upon at Carlsbad, Friday.

Shoe Repairing

I have moved my shop to the second door east of the Sa lings Bank. Repairing of all kinds done in a workmanlike manner at reasonable rates. As I have been in business here 17 years, I need not speak of the quality of my work for it speaks for itself. My stock of shoes was somewhat damaged by water and the insurance company told me to sell them for what I could get, so I will sell them for less than wholesale price.
