OREGON MILITIA WINS HIGH PRAISE

COL. GODFREY, OF WALLA WALLA ADMIRES THEM.

In a Private Letter to Major Moorhouse, the Gallant Colonel, of the Ninth Cavalry, Speaks Highly of the Oregon Boys at American Lake—Colonel Godfrey to Be Transferred to Fort Riley, Kansas—Is an Old Friend of Major Moorhouse, Who Regrets the Transfer.

The Oregon militia boys acquitted themselves so well in the military maneuvers at American Lake, that they aroused the admiration of and won unstinted praise from a gallant and appreciative regular officer, Colonel E. S. Godfrey, of the Ninth Cavalry of Walla Walla.

In a letter to Major Moorhouse, Colonel Godfrey writes enthusiastically of the conduct of the Oregon boys, and expressed the belief that they will make excellent soldiers, with training.

That part of Colonel Godfrey's interesting letter referring to the Oregon boys is as follows:

"I had the separate battalion, Oregon National Guard, the cavalry troop and one platoon of field artillery, Oregon National Guard, in my brigade, and I found them all quite serious and efficient. The separate battalion behaved like veterans; the troop is new and composed of young men, who exhibited great zeal and intelligence. It takes time to make good cavalry, and I think you have good material and the boys will eventually come out O. K."

Among other personal references, Colonel Godfrey says he will be transferred to the command at Fort Riley, Kansas, after October 15, and while he has been long in the Northwest, and has become attached to Walla Walla and the people of the country, yet, soldier like, and cheerfully obedient to the regulation of the army, he does not refer to the regret which he must feel in going away from the scenes of so many of his thrilling exploits during the Indian wars of the last 20 years.

Major Moorhouse and Colonel Godfrey are old friends and Major Moorhouse deeply regrets the transfer of his friend to the distant post, where their meeting must necessarily be less frequent, although their friendship will not wane.

CHILDREN ARE SANE.

But Grownup People, Most of Them, Are More or Less Insane.

There is one disadvantage which is involved in the very nature of education—that is, that we have to assume that grownup people are representative. We have even to go the length of assuming that grownup people are sane. When we talk about encouraging health in children and discouraging morbidity, when we talk of such and such a child being abnormal or interesting or neurotic or a genius, we are all the time taking for granted that we ourselves have attained to what is profitable and eternal in human nature. But there is at least something that may reasonably be said upon the other side. It may at least very plausibly be maintained that it is children who are, age after age, sane and reliable and grownup people who are, age after age, more or less fantastic and disconcerting. The great majority of grownup people in any age will be in all probability slightly insane; for since no human philosophy is perfect, and since every human philosophy naturally treats itself as if it were perfect, the chances are in every generation that the majority of educated people will be ecstatically certain of something that is quite untrue. Children, on the other hand, if they are maintained, represent the actual primary and unadorned human nature. Whatever agrees with that is sane; whatever disagrees with it is eccentric. Children are always children, or, to build the matter with more precision, babies, at any rate, are always babies. But few will be so paradoxical as to maintain that men are always men or women always women.—Black and White.

End of Bitter Fight.

"Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abscess on my right lung," writes J. F. Hughes of DuPont, Ga., "and gave me up. Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The benefit I received was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I've entirely regained my health." It conquers all coughs, colds and throat and lung troubles. Guaranteed by Tallman & Co.'s drug store. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

WEST VIRGINIA DEMOCRATS.

Discussions in Republican Ranks Give Hope of Success for Parker.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Aug. 2.—Encouraged by the discussions in the republican ranks and by the support expected to be derived from the nomination of ex-Senator Davis, for the vice-presidency, the democrats of West Virginia meet in state convention here tomorrow confident that they will name the ticket that will win at the November election. Much enthusiasm is manifested among the delegates already arrived and the attendance is expected to be unusually large.

Prior to the St. Louis convention it was the intention of the democrats to nominate ex-Senator Davis for governor. Now that he has been called to a higher place there promises to be an interesting contest for the head of the ticket.

Among those whose names are mentioned in connection with the nomination are Judge John H. Holt, of Huntington; Judge David E. Johnston, of Bluefield; John W. Davis, of Clarksville; C. Wood Diley, of Elkins; O. S. McKinney, of Fairmont; ex-Governor McCorkle, of Charleston; Stuart W. Walker, of Martinsburg; Judge L. N. Tavenner, of Parkersburg; and C. W. Osenton, of Fayetteville.

THE CAVE OF GHOSTS.

This is One of the Wonder Places of New South Wales.

One of the curiosities of Oakley creek, N. S. W., is a cave which very few people care to enter. It is of the usual order of stalactite and stalagmite shapes and figures, but in order to get inside it the visitor must crouch down and squeeze himself through a narrow opening and grope his way in the inky darkness for a few yards till he can stand erect and light a torch.

As soon as he has done this he sees faintly the weird shapes assumed by the water dripping from the limestone and he hears a whirring noise. He feels impelled to make his exit at once, but he hears something moving all round him, and presently something touches him.

He concludes that there are uncanny spirits about, and this sensation is multiplied many times in intensity when on turning to retreat his steps he finds himself confronted by a tall, glaucous figure.

If the visitor has a strong nerve or has been forewarned, which is not always the case, he recognizes that the ghostly figure is a senseless block formed by the dripping from the limestone, and that the moving creatures are bats.

There is one part of the cave which no man has dared to explore. It is called the blowhole. One adventurous visitor was about to squeeze himself through this narrow aperture when it occurred to him to throw a stone through. He did so, listening for the stone to touch bottom, and the dull sound that finally reached him convinced him that there was a sheer drop of 200 feet on the other side of the blowhole.

Favors Matthews for Coadjutor.

Springfield, Ill., August 2.—A special synod of the Springfield diocese of the Episcopal church is in session here today to elect a bishop coadjutor to assist Bishop George F. Seymour. Two assistants have been elected at previous meetings but both declined to accept. The most likely candidate now appears to be Rev. Matthews, of Cincinnati, a son of the late Stanley Matthews, who represented Ohio in the United States senate.

CATHOLICS GATHER

CHURCHMEN AND LAYMEN ASSEMBLE AT DETROIT.

Convention Marks the Progress of Confederation of Catholic Societies—Delegates From All Parts of America—Ten Thousand Catholic Indians in America—Movement is But Four Years Old and Very Successful.

Detroit, Mich., August 2.—It was a remarkable assemblage that filled St. Mary's church this morning when Bishop Foley celebrated pontifical mass as a prelude to the opening of the fourth annual convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies. Seated side by side with the delegates from the various states of the Union were full-blooded representatives of the ten thousand Catholic Indians of America, a party of native Porto Ricans and a delegation from the Centro-Catholics of the Philippine Islands.

The Irish Benevolent Union, Knight and Ladies of America, Western Catholic Union-Foresters, Knights of America, Catholic Mutual Benevolent Association, Knights of Columbus, Young Men's Institute, Knights of St. John and the German Central Verein, were represented by delegates-at-large, and the state leagues of Vermont, Texas, Minnesota, New York and Pennsylvania, besides 10 state federations. Hundreds of county federations located in 39 different states had representatives on hand.

The delegates were escorted from convention headquarters to the church by the uniformed Knights of St. John, headed by the Indian Chief Tall Man, the color bearer, who carried an American flag. In the celebration of pontifical high mass, Bishop Foley was assisted by Bishop McFall of Trenton, Bishop Stang of Fall River, Bishop Maes of Covington, Archbishop Messmer of Milwaukee, Bishop McEvoy of Canada and a number of other eminent prelates of the Roman Catholic church.

Following the services at the church there was a business session of the convention at which the necessary committees were appointed and the reports of several officers presented. These reports show that the federation movement has, since its inception in 1901, made steady progress, its growth being due not to mere enthusiasm of sentiment, but to the well sustained, thoughtful progress of conviction. Its work has the endorsement and blessing of the apostolic delegate and of all the members of the American hierarchy, and has the blessing of the late supreme pontiff, Pope Leo XIII, and likewise of his holiness, Pius X.

This evening there will be a great open meeting in the Light Guard armory at which addresses will be made by Rev. T. J. Campbell of New York, on "Socialism;" Judge Paul Carpenter of Milwaukee, on "The Church and Society," and by several other speakers of wide prominence. The sessions of the convention will continue through Thursday. In addition to the addresses there will be discussion on various subjects relating to the work and duties of Catholic laymen and the consideration of plans for increasing the membership of the American federation and widening its scope of influence.

The officers in charge of the convention are: T. G. Minahan of New York, president; J. B. Oelkers of Newark, N. J.; E. J. Klerce of San Francisco, and Edward Feeney of Brooklyn, vice-presidents; H. J. Fries of Erie, Pa., treasurer; Anthony Maitre of Cincinnati, secretary, and Archbishop Messmer, Bishop McFall, Walter G. Smith of Philadelphia; N. Gonner of Dubuque, Iowa; Thomas H. Cannon of Chicago; Dr. J. W. Fowler of Louisville; F. W. Immeckus of Pittsburgh; John Galvin of Vermont, and Peter Wallrath of Evansville, Ind., trustee.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.
