COSSACK TROOP LED BY WOMAN

JEWESS IN RUSSIAN ARMY IS A HEROINE.

Calls Herself Michael Smolko and Has Played Brilliant Part in Manchurian Campaigns in the Past Year—At the Head of Brave Cossacks Has Made Daring Exploits for Her Country.

St. Petersburg, August 3.—The doughty deeds of a brave Russian girl, said to be a Karaim Jewess, are graphically reported from Mukden. This courageous Hebrew, who is only 20, dresses as a man, calls herself Michael Smolko, and has played a brilliant and helpful part as scout and dragoon.

Recently, when some specially dangerous work was necessary, and qualified military men were called upon to volunteer, she was the first to offer her services and reconnoiter the Japanese position in the forest.

Several weeks ago she headed a small party of Cossacks, and not only obtained information needed by the Russian commander, but successfully drove back a large number of cattle which, having been looted by the Japanese were being taken to their camp by Chinese auxiliaries.

Changes in National Features.

Whether we look at portrait galleries, like Hampton court, or turn over illustrations in old books, it is evident that some physiological change has been taking place. The stout, plethoric, muscular, ruddy-faced man of stolid expression is being taken by a thinner, more alert, active type. The modern face is more keen, leaner and of less coarse mould than that of the older pioneers who laid the foundation of their country's greatness.—Aspects of Social Evolution.

What Becomes of Cardinal's Hats.

When I visited the new Roman Catholic cathedral in Westminster recently, the official who accompanied me pointed out Cardinal Vaughan's hat depending high in mid-air on the left hand side, near to but outside the chancel, and stated that it would hang there until in time it became dust, this being the usage with regard to all cardinal's hats, as the hat is the symbol of the rank with which they are invested.—Notes and Queries.

RUSSIAN RETREAT IS DISASTROUS

JAPS FORCE KUROPATKIN FROM STRONGHOLDS.

Rumor That the Japanese Cruiser Kasuga Has Been Sunk—Kuropatkin Reports That His Forces Have Yielded the Defenses of Hacing—Japs Capture Six Field Pieces and Many Prisoners at Tomu Cheng—Russian Loss 150 Left on the Field. Japanese Loss 100.

Rome, August 3.—The Giornale d'Italia's Liao Yang correspondent asserts that conditions among the Russians at the front are disastrous. The army correspondent says they are dying of hunger. After a march lasting 48 hours they were given nothing but a piece of sugar.

They have no bread or provisions, which arrive at long intervals, only. Under these conditions the work of the troops is truly heroic.

Hundreds of the starving troops fall down along the line of retreat and are carried to the ambulances or left lying by the roads. Very little complaint is heard from the stotcal Russians who accept this feature of war as one of the accompaniments of Russian citizenship.

The retreat of the Russian forces has been marked with the most terrible suffering from hunger, heat and fatigue.

Kuropatkin Still Retreating.

St. Petersburg, August 3.—Kuropatkin reports that the Russian troops have retired from Hacing along the road to Anshanchan. The retreat was in perfect order, despite the heat, which caused many sunstrokes. He adds that no serious news have been received from the Eastern front.

Fierce fighting continued throughout July 31, when our left wing expelled the enemy before them and threatened the rear of the main body of the enemy who were thereupon compelled to retreat during the night toward Hayingcheng.

"The enemy consisted of two divisions of infantry and seven batteries of artillery.

"We captured six field guns and some prisoners. Our casualties were 100. The enemy left 150 corpses on the field."

TAX CASE WILL BE HEARD IN AUGUST

Agreement by Counsel to That Effect Was Reached Today Before Judge Ellis.

EXACT DATE HAS NOT BEEN DETERMINED.

Action is to Annul and Not Amend the Assessment, Which is Held to Be Excessive—Prosecuting Attorney Phelps Thinks the Case Will Be Decided by the Supreme Court During Next November—This Case Was the Object of Mr. Phelps' Present Trip to Pendleton.

The suit of the O. R. & N. company against Umatilla county for the annulment of the assessment of $12,000 a mile, made by Assessor C. P. Strain will be heard in Circuit Judge Ellis' court sometime during the latter part of the present month.

District Attorney G. W. Phelps, of Heppner, is in town today and conferred with Judge Ellis and James A. Fee, who is assisting the county, for the purpose of setting the time for hearing. The exact date has not yet been determined upon.

"It is almost assured," said Mr. Phelps this morning, "that the case will not be finally disposed of until November. It is apt to go to the supreme court, no matter what the decision of the circuit court may be, and the supreme court does not convene until November."

The action of the railroad was occasioned by the advancement of the assessment from $4000 a mile last year to triple that amount this year.

Mr. Phelps will return to Heppner tonight. "I came to Pendleton," he said, "principally to see about the railroad matter. There is no other business just now in Umatilla county that requires my attention."

Natural Counterfeit of a Snake. Marshal Way has a peculiar curiosity in the show window of Rose's confectionery store. It consists of a maple root about six feet long. The root has all the appearances of a large snake. The coils are natural looking and the head resembles that of a rattlesnake in every respect. Mr. Way intends sending specimens to a museum and where it will undoubtedly attract much attention.—North Bend Evening Post.

PENDLETON SAW CHAFFEE'S BACK

Chief of Staff of United States Army Passed Through to Boise.

SAID HE WAS DEEPLY IMPRESSED WITH OREGON.

Expressed Regret at Not Having Seen Oregon Militia—in All His Wide Travels Has Seen Nothing That Impressed Him More Than the Wonderful Wheat Belt of Umatilla—is a Kindly, Approachable Man Who Came Up From the Ranks.

A pair of broad shoulders and a yard or more of the back of a white shirt was what Pendleton saw of Lieutenant General Adna R. Chaffee, chief of staff, United States army, when the noted soldier tarried in this city for 10 minutes last evening.

General Chaffee arrived in a private car from Walla Walla, and it was immediately attached to the east-bound O. R. & N. train and the general continued on his way to Boise barracks.

General Chaffee spent yesterday at Fort Walla Walla, reviewing the troops, inspecting the post and in luncheon with United States Senator Levi Ankeny. He came to Pendleton on the afternoon passenger.

When it was learned that the ranking officer of the United States army would be in Pendleton a crowd gathered at the depot to gaze at him. But the general was busy. Through a dust covered window of his car, the general was seen seated at a writing desk, his coat off and only his broad shoulders and the back of his shaggy head visible.

An East Oregonian representative found General Chaffee hard at work, but when introduced by an aid, the general pushed back his work, turned around in his chair, and with a jordan clasp of the hand, made his guest welcome.

"Where am I going?" he said. "To inspect Boise barracks. I have just come from Walla Walla, where I inspected the barracks there. I was sorry not to have been able to see your Oregon militia at their annual encampment at American Lake. I hear good reports of their work and I regretted not being able to see them.

"Oh, yes, I have seen quite a bit of the world in my army service. Out west here and in the Philippines and in China.

What Impressed Him Most.

"I'll tell you what impressed me as much as anything I have seen for some time, and that is the abundant prosperity to be seen on all sides in the West. This afternoon in riding from Walla Walla to Pendleton, I was impressed with your wonderful resources, especially in the line of wheat. I do not remember of having seen finer wheat fields or a more prosperous looking section of country than I have seen today."

General Chaffee's features seem rather stern in repose, but when he looks up, his kindly eyes and smile make one feel at ease at once.

He is cordial and pleasant and unlike many men high in public life, he is very "approachable." One can readily understand, after a moment's talk with the kindly, resolute, bluff old soldier, why the soldiers swear by him. He has been one of them and has carried a musket. He is a man who has come up from the ranks to his present position of lieutenant general.

He has proved in a hundred fights his disregard of danger and his bravery. He has the reputation of looking out for his men. He visited, while at Walla Walla, his old command, the Ninth Cavalry.
