CHEHALIS' TRIUMPH

ACCOUNT OF HIS RECORD—BREAKING RACE.

Crowds at State Fair Went Wild on Oct. 7, 1897, When the Handsome Stallion, Driven by Frank Frazier, His Owner, Lowered the World's Two-Mile Pacing Record—Was Loaded With Floral Gifts.

While the death of Chehalis, the famous Umatilla county pacer, is fresh in the minds of horsemen, it is interesting to recount once more the splendid triumph of that horse at the Oregon state fair on October 7, 1897, when he lowered the world's two-mile pacing record to 4:19 1/4. The Salem Statesman of that date said of his remarkable feat:

Frank Frazier's handsome black stallion Chehalis, now holds the world's two-mile pacing record, and a prouder man than Mr. Frazier does not reside in the great state of Oregon.

The owner of this famous racer is one of the popular young citizens of Pendleton, Umatilla county, and his beautiful specimen of the horse family stands today, without doubt, the fastest pacer in the United States.

The record which places him in that enviable position was made on the state fair track near Salem, shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the presence of 12,000 people, and when the phenomenal time was announced by Racing Judge Jos. Buchtel, a cheer went up that fairly lifted the little black pacer off his feet and rent the air for miles.

As beautiful as a picture the little black horse moved along. Under his wire he went and the timers clicked their watches. The quest for a new triumph was on, and the vast crowd in the grandstand and the almost solid mass of humanity that stood in front of that structure were eagerly watching every step of the coal black steed as he flew along. Going to the first quarter in 32 1/2 seconds, the first half in 1:05 1/4, and reaching the three-quarter post in 1:37.

The great pacer was still moving grandly.

Before him was a quarter of a mile of track which was in perfect condition. Could he go the distance at a speed equal to any of the other quarters, was one of the all-absorbing questions of the moment. Still he came, if anything a trifle faster than ever, and before the crowd could realize it, he was even with the paddock gate and very close to the wire. A few more steps took him under that metallic line and the timers' watches were stopped at 4:19 1/4.

The world's pacing record for two miles had been broken.

The crowd waited patiently for the announcement of the time. Chehalis was allowed to go nearly an eighth of a mile before he was brought to a stop. Mr. Frazier turned him around toward the grandstand and he walked deliberately up to the front of the judges' stand.

The time was announced and a loud and continuous cheer was given for the pacer king and his owner and driver.

At this point in the exciting occasion President D. H. Looney advanced toward Chehalis and placed a large wreath of pink and white roses around his neck, then Ruth Gabrielson stepped up with another wreath composed of white dahlias.

Chehalis drooped his head sufficiently to permit her to entwine his neck with it. Attached to this last one was a card with the words, "To Chehalis; best wishes of Musa Geer."

Ruth had one more wreath, in the form of a crown, for the little black; it was made of red roses and by her own hands, and when Chehalis was led away toward his stable, this floral emblem was resting nicely upon his head, significant of the fact that he was king of the Oregon turf.

The performance of Chehalis took place October 7, 1897. The world's record of Chehalis of 4:19 1/4 for the two miles still stands. The record that Chehalis succeeded in beating was 4:22 3/4, made by W. W. P., who went against time with a running horse at Lincoln, Neb., on October 31, 1896.

Devout Churchman Helps Dedicate a Model Liquor House.

The following interesting account of the dedication and purposes of the model saloon just established in the New York subway is taken from the Denver Post:

In his address Bishop Potter said the keynote had been struck by this attack on the liquor situation. He

A FACT PROVEN.

Should Convince Even the Most Skeptical of Its Truth.

If there is the slightest doubt in the minds of any that Dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the fact that a rabbit inoculated with the germs became bald in six weeks' time.

It must be apparent to any person therefore that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germ which act is successfully accomplished in one hundred per cent. of cases by the application of Newbro's Herpicide.

Dandruff is caused by the same germ which causes baldness and can be prevented with the same remedy—Newbro's Herpicide.

TRIBES STILL IN DARK.

Inhabitants of the Philippine Bank at All Civilization.

The census of 1903 estimates the population of the wild tribes of the Philippine archipelago to be about 700,000, but it was naturally impossible to enumerate them.

There are 30 distinct tribes and 99 separate organizations, and they inhabit and control about one-half of the entire territory, writes William E. Curtis in the Chicago Record-Herald.

They are divided into three classes. First, the non-Christian tribes of the interior, upon whom the missionaries and the Spaniards were able to make little impression; second, the Christianized tribes along the coast who adopted Spanish civilization and were converted to the Roman Catholic faith; and, third, the Mohammedans over whom the Spaniards were never able to exercise more than nominal authority, and whose faith in the Prophet Mohamet has never been shaken by Christian missionaries.

All of these classes are of Malay origin except, perhaps, the pigmies, a race of black dwarfs called Negritos (little negroes), who are true savages, relying for food entirely upon wild plants and wild animals, roaming through the forests in small bands of a few families, having no fixed places of abode and no shelter except skin tents or tepees they carry with them.

They number about 30,000 and their death rate and birth rate must be closely parallel, as they seem neither to increase nor to decrease. These tuzzy-wuzzy men are said to be of smaller stature than any other distinct race, even smaller than the pigmies of Central Africa; and, while they have crinkled hair and black skins, their features and craniums are nearer the Mongolian than the African type.

Notwithstanding their small stature they are fiercer and more feared by the civilized inhabitants than any other of the savage tribes upon the islands.
