WILL NOT STRAW THE ROADS.

Walla Walla County Commissioners Object to Paying High Prices for Straw.

Not much will probably be done by the board of county commissioners this year toward strawing the county roads, unless a different attitude is assumed by the people using the roads, says the Walla Walla Union. The board holds that it is too much to ask the citizens of the county to pay $2 a load, the price usually asked for straw for the purpose. Speaking of the matter yesterday, a member of the board said:

"To pay $2 a load for straw costs too much. Farmers near the city usually charge that for straw used for this purpose. While those living further away are willing to supply the straw gratis, the expense of hauling it to the district surrounding the city, where it is most needed, is too great. "The board will not, therefore, buy straw. If anyone is willing to furnish the material the board would probably allow them for the labor spent on the roads."

Some work has already been done by private firms and farmers in this regard, but the amount is very inconsiderable, comparatively.

VALUABLE DOG KILLED.

W. G. Sutherland Brings Suit Against Miles Kemler for $200.

Two hundred dollars damages is what W. G. Sutherland, a farmer residing near Pendleton, wants for the destruction of his white bulldog, "Jack." He alleges in a complaint filed in the state circuit court yesterday afternoon that the animal was shot and killed by Miles Kemler.

According to the complaint the dog was kind and gentle, was well trained and useful as a protector of the plaintiff's wife and children. On May 30 last Sutherland declares a bullet from a gun held in the hands of Kemler laid the animal low, and it

Brokenhearted, Seeks Asylum.

Begging to be taken back to the Steilacoom insane asylum, from which she was recently discharged, Mary Ettinger, a young girl whose mind became unbalanced three years ago on account of a disappointment in love, was brought before Superior Judge Albertson today for recommitment, says the Seattle Star. She told the court and physicians who had been called to examine her that she was wretchedly unhappy because everyone seemed to be afraid of her, and looked upon her as disgraced because she had been in that institution.

Helping the County Fair.

The county commissioners' court in session this morning, at the solicitation of the promoters of the district fair, which is to be held here during the week beginning September 20, appropriated the sum of $150 to be applied on the $1000 bonus which was required to secure the fair here for five consecutive years.—Eugene Guard.

Demented Man Picked Up.

Sunday night the marshal at Arlington discovered a half demented man in an old warehouse. He gives his name as McClure and said that his home was in Iowa, but that he had been working near Echo and had gotten lost and been without food for four days. He was in a pitiable condition, as his body was all sunburned, showing that he had been without clothing part of the time.—The Dalles Chronicle.

Ready to Launch.

When asked about the Spencer this afternoon, Agent Eastwood said they were all ready for launching her and only waiting till the wind dies down to send her adrift. He expects they will succeed in getting her off either Tuesday or early Wednesday morning.—The Dalles Chronicle.

County Wood Purchased.

The board of county commissioners yesterday afternoon awarded the contract for furnishing wood to the county court house to Montgomery Brothers. The contract calls for 110 cords of wood to be delivered by November 1. The price to be paid by the county is $545, or about $4.95 per cord.

HERD OF TURKEYS

MRS. MOTTINGER WILL MARKET 600 THIS YEAR.

Only Turkey Ranch Known in Inland Empire Located in Klickitat County, Washington, Just Across From Switzer's Island, in the Columbia—Regular Herder and Camp Tender Are Employed—Turkeys Feed on Grasshoppers and Insects—Coyotes Are Proliferous and the Herd Must Be Closely Watched.

A flock of 600 young turkeys is being herded on the Mottinger ranch, in Klickitat county, Washington, just across the Columbia river from Switzer's island.

Never before in the Inland Empire has the raising of turkeys been gone into so extensively by any one person. The birds are all in excellent condition and will be marketed about Thanksgiving time.

The flock is owned by Mrs. George H. Mottinger. Soon after the young turkeys were hatched they were put out in the hills several miles back from the river with a herder in charge. Day and night the man watches the flock with the care that a shepherd exercises in caring for his sheep. Coyotes are very plentiful in that dry region and great vigilance must be exercised in protecting the fowls from the hungry beasts.

A regular camp tender, such as visits sheep ranges, goes regularly to the turkey ranch and supplies the herder with food and water for himself and his fowls. However, the food of the turkeys consists for the most part of the myriads of grasshoppers and other insects that infest the hills. In the harvested fields the birds find plenty of grain that shatters out when the machines pass over.

In the Southern states, particularly in Georgia, turkey ranches are not uncommon but in the Northwest the industry on the scale it is being conducted by Mrs. Mottinger, is practically in its beginning.

The young birds find a ready market in Portland, Spokane and on the Sound, as the supply at Thanksgiving and during the Christmas holidays is always limited.

FINE BEEF CATTLE.

Seven Carloads From Southern Part of the County.

J. C. Lonergan has bought along Bear creek and in the contiguous ranges of the southern part of the county seven carloads of fine fat cattle which will be shipped very soon. Two carloads will go out tomorrow, and five carloads next Monday, over the W. & C. R. to the Sound, for Frye-Bruh.

Mr. Lonergan is on the trail of 1200 head of fat cattle over in Grant county which he hopes to capture for his firm, as they will be put on the market soon.

The owner is desirous of selling all of these animals at one deal, and the Frye-Bruh company expects to buy them, as this is one of a very few firms in the Northwest that can buy such a large bunch of fat beeves and work them up in the packing house without having to hold a portion of them so long that loss by feeding would result.

J. E. BEAN REAPPOINTED.

County Court Acts on Matter of Stock Inspector—Franchise Granted.

The board of county commissioners yesterday afternoon reappointed J. E. Bean county stock inspector. Dr. J. Christie, a local veterinarian, and S. P. Gould were also applicants for the position. The office of inspector commands a salary of $700 per annum. It is said that John Rust of Butler creek, desired the position and circulated a large petition among his friends. His application, however, was not submitted to the commissioners.

The commissioners granted a franchise to the Preston-Parton Milling Company of Astoria for the erection and maintenance of electric light poles and wires along the county road between Athena and Weston. It is the intention of the company to furnish light and power to Weston.

DIDN'T SAY A WORD.

Deaf Mute Received His Sentence Without Comment.

Carl Partridge said not a word in police court this morning when acting Justice Hatley sentenced him to serve five days in jail for vagrancy, for he is deaf and dumb.

The deaf mute was ordered out of town yesterday morning by the police, but he returned last night and was locked up.

The man had been begging on the streets and managed to acquire a fair sized jag with the money collected.

Jack Brown was fined $10 for drunkenness. John Brown for a like offense, was fined $5.

PENDLETON THE CHOICE.

Moscow Man Seeking a Location in This City.

A. Foreman, of Moscow, Idaho, is here prospecting for a location, and has about concluded to go into the saloon business in Pendleton.

Mr. Foreman was running a saloon in Kendrick at the time of the big fire, and lost his business therein. He has been here for some days and has become convinced that Pendleton is the best town in the Northwest at this time, besides having better prospects than any other town with which he is acquainted.

He illustrates the situation by citing the fact that no one in business here, saloon keepers or otherwise, will sell out at figures which any ordinary buyer is willing to pay. In other words, everybody is doing a good business and prefers to stay by it rather than sell out.

On the contrary, the six saloonkeepers of Moscow, are all doing their best to sell out—an evidence to Mr. Foreman that he would want to do the same thing should he happen to buy into a business there.

OLD LANDMARK GOING.

Froome Barn Will Give Place to a Modern Two-story Brick.

The old Froome stable, at Maine and Water streets, one of the oldest buildings in the city of Pendleton, is soon to be torn down and replaced by a two-story brick. Dr. C. J. Smith and James Crawford are contemplating the erection of the new structure, but just when work will be commenced has not been definitely determined.

The old building was built in 1865 and was first occupied by Hess Green, a liveryman. In 1872 the structure was moved back several feet and a new front was added. At the time the building was erected, the population of Pendleton numbered less than a dozen families.

Capital in Sight.

John Clove has returned from Portland, where he went to interview capitalists and look after other business. There is nothing more certain than that the organization of a company with abundant capital back of the Clove combine will be effected soon. When presented with the latest evidence of the efficiency and operating cheapness of the Clove combine, Judge T. J. Geisler said: "Now there is something to work from and there will be no trouble in getting money."

Miss Parrot Will Teach.

The Pendleton board of education yesterday afternoon elected Miss Elizabeth Parrot, of Roseburg, Or., to a position as teacher in the local schools. The board will soon advertise for bids for the supplying of wood and coal to the schools. It is estimated that 80 tons of coal will be required for the furnaces this winter. The matter of rates was discussed at the meeting, but the date set for advertising for bids was not set.

Running Full Capacity.

The Pendleton Ice & Cold Storage Co. is running to its full capacity for the manufacture of ice, which is 15 tons daily. The local demand for ice did not increase much during the very hot weather. In fact, it did not exceed the established demand of from eight to 10 tons by over one ton per day. There was a large increase in demand from other points, but the company could not meet it, as it was already running full capacity.

New Water Street Residence.

Mrs. Mary A. Disoway is having plans drawn by Howard for a residence which will be built upon the vacant lots adjoining her present residence on Water street. This will be a six-room structure, frame, modern in all respects, and the intention is to complete it before winter sets in. It will be excellently appointed in all its parts and a credit to the neighborhood.
